Babson Says---

just as the N.R.A. codes did.
Employers may refuse to obey it I know of companies where this Act at first forced the hiring of additional help; but the extra employees boosted production costs and selling prices. The latter cut down sales and plant activity and finally brought on lay-offs that more than offset the additional jobs created.

An Earnest Appeal

As my mine operator correspondent says: "The government can make employers obey the Social Security Programs, the Wagner Act, and the Wage and Hour Act; but the government cannot make employers remain in business nor engage in new enterprises and thus create tax obligations which they are not able to pay. Many employers like myself are tired of the struggle. They feel that whatever good they have done as employers is not appreciated.
Since they can have more left for themselves and more leisure and vastly less trouble by simply quitting than they can by carrying on, it is inevitable that those who can will quit, while many others will be forced to quit anyway."

Here is an employer speaking from the bottom of his heart. This man is not "a political reactionary," not "a prince of privilege," not "an economic royalist." He is simply a decent American citizen who, while hard-pressed, has been trying to keep his employees at work and to keep them off "relief." He is now disgusted with the whole caboodle and he is throwing up his hands. I agree with him that we can have no real prosperity until the Administration takes steps to remove these obstacles which they have placed right in the path of better business and more jobs.

Get the profitable habit of running through the want ads every day.

Normal Human Brain Has Covering of Nerve Cells

The normal human brain has a six-layered covering of nerve cells.
This is the cerebral cortex, the organ of voluntary movement, thinking and conscious life, relates an authority in the Washington Star.

At first there is only a single layer, the so-called ventricular apendyma.
This partly lines the inner surface of a hollow ball. Rather late in the course of embryonic life the cells of this layer, impelled by some impulse which remains obscure, begin to multiply and migrate upward through the wall of this hollow ball. With all the precision of soldiers on parade they form themselves into the different layers, one after another.

The nerve cell migration is far from complete when a child is born.
The bottom three strata are nearly complete, but the upper three can barely be discerned. The same condition is found in the mature brains of such mammals as the cat and the dog. Quite rapidly after birth, however, the full human brain rapidly takes shape. When the upward migrating cells reach the place where they are to stay they send out white nerve fibers which extend downward to make connections with lower brain and spinal cord centers.

Among the last brain cells to start their migration are the Betz cells, the largest in the brain, which ordinarily are found chiefly in the area just in front of the center of the cerebral cortex. It is in this area that all voluntary movements are initiated. The Betz cells presumably are the organs of all movements which are not automatic reflexes.

Stuck-in-the-mud brain cells, unable to make the grade on the uphill road of evolution, constitute an important factor in hereditary feeble-mindedness.

Ignorance Was Bliss

An Indian once, unacquainted with the white man's tools, found a watch and for a day listened with surprise and pleasure to its ticking. But when the ticking stopped, the Indian looking on the toy no longer with any satisfaction, sold it to the first person who offered him a trifle in exchange. As the bargain was sealed, the Indian exultingly exclaimed, "Ha! She already died!"

The Earliest Sales Tax
A form of sales tax was levied by the federal government as early as 1794. In that year, at the instance of Alexander Hamilton, a tax was placed on property sold at auction.
A similar tax had been imposed by Lord North in England to help meet the expenses of carrying on the war against the American colonies. In this country the levy produced little revenue and was repealed in 1800.
It was revived for several years as an emergency measure during the War of 1812, but collections depended entirely on the conscience of the auctioneers and evasions were notorious.
