"Sand's" Plywood Materials Now Available Through Valley Retail Outlets

The Charles E. Sand Plywood Co., 902 NW 14th Avenue, near Kearney street, one of the latest additions to Portland's important industrial concerns, is already going strong, after only a month of operations.

Mr. Sand's business will be that of jobbing, and will offer all types of plywoods; serving all of Oregon and southwestern Washington. All sizes and thicknesses of quality plywoods is being stocked.

Realizing that the Tualatin Valley is today leading in all types of building progress, Mr. Sand is naturally concentrating his attention on the Valley in making retail sales connections with leading lumber and building materials firms here.

Your editor is now pleased to inform all our many readers who now or later have use for Plywood materials, or information as to its many practical uses; that this progressive Company has entered the Tualatin Valley field with its products and that their plywood materials will now be available at almost any well known progressive Valley retail lumber or building materials headquarters. So, go to your favorite retail dealer today, for information and advice regarding the many practical uses for Plywood materials, and "Sand's" Plywoods.

"Gravely" Tractor & Mower with Many Attachments Offers Year-around Uses

The Gravely "all uses" Tractor was first offered to the world in 1922, as a novel, yet practical time-saving invention, a powerdriven small tractor with auto type wheels. In 1930 the mowing attachments were offered for use on this same machine. The Rotary Mower and Sickle Bars as originally used on the Gravely put a new conception on the word Power Mower. In 1935 the Snow Plow was introduced thus enabling users to get year-around service from their machine.

The Gravely makes seed beds in one operation, cuts tall grass and weed, cultivates, has a spray unit, dump truck and roller.

This practical time saving machine is available through W. B. Kerr & Co., Inc., 901 SE Hawthorne boulevard in Portland. Like the product, you will find their sales policy better than usual. You are not asked to buy a machine without first being shown what it will do right under your own conditions. A complete staff of their own field men are trained to both service and sell.

Without obligation you can write for complete descriptive booklet or arrange for a representative to visit you, show you the machine and quote prices on the units needed in your work.

Your editor has seen and marveled at this tractor, and urge you to learn of its many practical uses.

JACK R. VAUGHAN

Following several weeks' illness due to complications from an appendicitis operation, Jack R. Vaughan died in a Portland hospital June 27. He is survived by his father Earl Vaughan, a sister Joan Vaughan, and an uncle Vilas Shepherd, all of Clatskanie and an aunt Mrs. Roy Berst of Beaverton. His mother, Mary Berst Vaughan, passed away a year ago. Funeral services were conducted at Pegg's Chapel, Thursday afternoon. Interment Crescent Grove cemetery.

Columbia Gorge Most Scenic from the River

The romantic period of steamboating on the Columbia river is nearly over. The scenic grandeur from the bosom of the lovely river will soon be withdrawn from the public view. There are only a couple of the old river steamers still in operation. When they are gone no others will be built. For many years the queen of all the river boats was the Georgiana. She was the fastest and the finest. She was refitted and put back in service and renamed the Lake Bonneville. She now docks at the foot of SW Alder streets and runs Sunday excursions to the Bonneville dam and round trip excursions to Astoria on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

To Be Like Home It Must Be Home-Like

The old familiar expression "Just Like Home", would sound pretty flat, if you tried to say, "Just Like a House."

What's the difference? It takes a woman's presence and touch to make it a "Home". And after everything else has been done to make it inviting; it still wouldn't look "home-like", with bare windows.

The woman knows it; so a lot of her keenest planning is given proper materials, designs, shadings for each particular room. Yes, curtains, drapes, venetian blinds are as important part of home-planning.

Your editor takes keen pleasure in announcing a special feature series of talks and suggestions on "curtains and drapes" starting in this week's
