MORE TESTIMONY APPEARS

The question of Wagner Labor Relations Act amendments is one that has not died down quietly, as some violent enemies of any changes in the Act seem to have hoped. And every week, new facts turn up that point directly at fundamental weaknesses in the present form of this particular law.

The magazine "Mill and Factory" is the latest to add testimony to the mass of material already accumulated. Its editor has just completed a survey of average American companies in 23 states, and has found that it costs an average of $20,572 to fight a decree of the National Labor Relations Board.

Only about half the corporations in the United States, he points out, are financially equipped to pay this amount. The cost is so high that most companies have no choice save to yield to "consent decrees," no matter how arbitrary and unfair they may feel these decrees are.

The survey's results scarcely make one feel that in the present form of the Wagner Act, the American people are scarcely seeing American justice as they are accustomed to see it. The obvious answer is for Congress to do something about the situation at the earliest opportunity—and that something is to amend the Act to make it a real force for industrial harmony, peace, and mutual benefits for both management and labor.

What Fire-resisting Materials Mean— in Home Planning

There are so many qualities, so many advantages in using asbestos or asphalt roofing and siding for your new or modernized home, that we like to talk about them. So many of these qualities are so often overlooked or not considered by the owner in Home Planning. Leading the modern, scientific planning the Johns-Manville people have produced roofing and siding material in a variety of color combinations and shades that make the new home really beautiful and distinctive. From the angle of lasting quality or the elimination of later repair this type of materials is unequalled. You not only save on first cost, but in later repair costs. Then, too, have you thought how the use of fire-resisting roofing and siding materials cuts your fire insurance rates? Another advantage of asbestos and asphalt materials is that such materials act as insulation, making the home cooler in summer, warmer in winter, and saving additional dollars in fuel bills. Turn new to the "Builders Service Guide" in this newspaper—and every week read the message of the Johns-Manville Retail Distributors—The A. R. RICE CONSTRUCTION COMPANY. Learn how you can buy these materials through the Housing Guide—DIRECT—at big savings to you.

Owners and Builders Attention—Poor Paint Is Expensive Paint

Good Paint not only stays longer, but goes farther. In a recent study of paints, we made this test. We took a gallon of high quality "PUBLIC SERVICE" House Paint and covered 500 sq. ft. with two good liberal coats. Of course this was on good siding, but it will show you how for a good paint will go. We also checked on jobs several years old, where this paint had been used, and could hardly believe the paint had been applied so long ago. It had neither faded or checked. The manufacturer of "PUBLIC SERVICE" Paints is The Republic Paint and Varnish Works, with plant and district supply headquarters at 109 S. E. Salmon, in Portland. They also feature "NEW BEAUTY" Enamels with a Porcelain Finish, as well as complete line of varnishes and stains—sold direct to owner or contractor at big savings and low cost. See their Service ad in the "Builder's Service" Guide in this paper every week.

A Good Paint Job Depends A Lot on A Good "Painter"

When you're planning either a NEW or a MODERNIZED Home, one of the main problems of cost, beauty, lasting quality is that of Painting—Kalsomine, etc. It's both an interior and exterior problem—an eventual gain or loss—a permanent pride on sore spot. For lasting beauty, satisfaction and economy, you must plan in advance for the BEST, both in materials and workmanship. The highest quality paint in the world can produce poor results, without the advice and services of expert workmanship in applying the materials. You must have both ends of the quality combination. To that end, your editor wishes to point out the enviable reputation for good workmanship held by Mr. R. S. O'Day, Decorating, Painting, and Kalsomining expert of 7309 S. E. Harrison Court, in Portland. His phone is TA 1454 and he will be glad to advise and plan with you on your problem, whether it be for a new or modernized home. See his professional invitation card in the "Builder's Service Guide" in this paper each week.
