President Roosevelt's speech defending the squandering of billions of dollars on programs for national defense, during the last seven years, and most of the other political speeches now coming over the radio, are missing the real issue by a mile.

The issue is: What is best for the American People—for you and me?

Every citizen is entitled to make his own decision on this issue and he needs all the help he can get. It is not surprising that Herbert Hoover in his recent radio talk, discussed National Preparedness from this honest and useful standpoint. Neither is it surprising that he proposed a workable program for Preparedness without Politics. He ought to know.

Solution of our problem, as Mr. Hoover pointed out, depends upon the economic strength and prosperity of a people. We must undertake it, unfortunately, at a time when the country is not prosperous: when there are 10 million unemployed and 18 million on relief; when one-third of our population is living at sub-normal standards; when agriculture is kept afloat only by Government subsidy and when our national strength for defense has been weakened by the huge increase of our national debt and taxes in time of peace.

"Business and industry have been palsied with fear, hesitation and lack of confidence," said the former President. "In consequence our industrial efficiency has been decreased in the last eight years." Our industrial plant has slipped backward in its vital equipment, but today our call is for industrial production to defend the nation.

To get this, Mr. Hoover declared, "we must have more than efficient government organization. We must change the attitude of government toward industry. . . . We must restore confidence and thus employment. . . . France is today paying in blood the penalty for a government of similar economic attitudes under the government of Premier Blum."

Will the New Dealers, the gay wasters of other people's money, be able to shake off the habits of eight years and give the nation an efficient, economical, honest administration of our billions yet to be spent for defense? Will they eliminate bondhogging and resist the pressure groups?

Upon the answer to these questions may well rest the fate of the nation.

Wasted Defense Funds

Why has the United States gotten so little for its money in national defenses? Why, in view of all these sums appropriated, is the United States without modern anti-aircraft guns, without modern rifles, and without modern artillery? Why are there no facilities for turning out these weapons in adequate numbers. It seems to us that it takes a queer sort of interpretation of the records to make out a case that Mr. Roosevelt is even qualified, much less superior to other leaders, in meeting the problems thrust before this Nation as a result of the grave turn the foreign situation has taken in the last few months.

What has the United States done with the $8,435,000,000 appropriated in the last nine years for national defenses?

Farmers Win

Attempts by Secretary Wallace and his New Deal bureaucrats to grasp control of farm credit for political purposes have been frustrated. The pernicious Jones-Wheeler Bill has been shelved by the House Committee on Agriculture.

Watchfulness on the part of Congress can prevent politicians of the Wallace type from victimizing farmers under the pretense of aiding them.

Three months have been wasted by the New Deal in its desperate effort to coerce helpless and needy farmers who are dependent upon the Government for credit in order to save their farms and homes. No more shameless exhibition of official misconduct has appeared than the propaganda of the bureaucrats who fought to set up a system for coercing farmers into voting for the continuation of the New Deal by the threat of financial strangulation.

Exposure of the Wallace scheme to seize control of the farm credit system has aroused the suspicions of farmers as to the good faith of other New Deal farm projects. The vigilance of farm organizations in sounding the alarm and fighting the Jones-Wheeler Bill to a finish is sufficient evidence to all except New Deal bureaucrats that American agriculture is determined to maintain its independence.

Wheeler Bill to a finish is sufficient evidence to all except New Deal bureaucrats that American agriculture is determined to maintain its independence.

Garden Home Couple Observe Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. C. Balmer of Garden Home, observe their golden wedding anniversary with a family gathering at their home on Sunday, May 21. The couple located in Oregon immediately after their marriage in St. Paul, Minn., May 21, 1890, where they have resided since.

State of the World

Hello Folks: Well, while England and France seem to be a gittin' licked, things is goin' better with "yours truly." I called in the noted old Indian fighter, Pistol Pete, Frank Eaton, an a big fat singin' preacher by the name of Frank Shaul, visited Oologah, birthplace of Will Rogers, helped 'em start off their big Rodeo doins, an their 100 Mile Hoss Ride, to cover 3 days, then had 'em help me stage a big revival over at Falls, Okla., home of a half dozen noted writers. You oughter have seen Pistol Pete a posin' fer hiz picture out at the "Wishin' Well", home of the noted poetess Jennie Harris Oliver. The ole boy quoted a heap of poetry, scripture, etc., an wound up by handin' hiz gun with all the notches, to the poetess, handcuffed a preacher to him, an then asked another to snap, but the Lord put on a blackout.

The Williams Manufacturing Co., manufacturers of ladders, has recently been purchased by Thomas T. Denison. Mr. Denison came to Oregon in 1933 from Kansas City, Mo. He has been engaged in the lumber business since this time.

Mr. Denison will continue the policy of the company to wit: that the customer will receive only a superior ladder when buying Williams. The Williams ladder is not made in mass production, but rather, each ladder is given individual care and inspection. The make only one grade—a good one.

few miles from British shores. Moreover, do not forget that England still has her navy and merchant marine intact.

Might Over Right

The answer to the question, "Will Great Britain collapse?" will be determined not only by Germany's blitzkriegs, but by the character of the English people. From time immemorial, new methods of warfare have been developed. Those nations which first grasped and used these new methods, have, temporarily, been successful. The ultimate force, however, which has determined the result has been spiritual rather than material. The "blitzkrieg" is no more important in the eyes of history than the invention of the long bow to take the place of spears, of powder and shot to replace battering rams, of iron ships to overcome wooden frigates.

These are days when we should read ancient history. A study of the rise and fall of Babylon, Persia, Egypt, Greece, Rome, and the Spanish Empire shows that new methods of warfare have won battles but have never won wars. This is being demonstrated by what I saw in the Far East last September. There barefooted and poorly-equipped Chinese armies are holding up Japan's modern war machine fully equipped with airplanes, tanks, and artillery.

Gang Warfare

Let us be calm for a moment and visualize what is now happening among the German-conquered nations. As various countries are taken over, a Hitler aide is placed in control. There are now dictators in Czechoslovakia, Austria, and Poland. These already are beginning to differ as to policy. Recently other dictators have been placed in Norway, Denmark, Holland and Belgium. Considering the native brutality and dishonesty of these sub-dictators, isn't it certain that they will soon begin fighting among themselves?

This is all the more likely when one considers that these nations all have different languages, great traditions, and diverse instincts. Brutality, deceit, and ingenuity will be used by these sub-dictators to trap one another just as they have been used to trap innocent and peaceful neutrals. "A leopard cannot change its spots." History shows that if the English race is willing to stake their lives and property, they in the end will save both; but not in any other way.

Arm Immediately

Here in the United States, we need at least fifty thousand airplanes to protect North and South America. If we can produce four million pleasure cars a year, we certainly ought to be able to produce fifty thousand military planes. I am behind those who demand adequate defense for this hemisphere. We must be in a position to give effective aid to Canada and the West Indies whenever they ask for it, without demanding a penny for our services. We, however, must remember that battleships, airplanes, and tanks will not save America any more than these things have thus far saved the Allies. Security cannot be purchased; it comes only through courage, self-sacrifice, and discipline. It also should be remembered that these airplanes which we are building can be used against us by an INSIDE enemy just as easily as we can use them against an outside foe. This means a character-building campaign should be a definite part of our defense program. Now more than ever before in the history of warfare, it is vital that the people of the strongest character should furnish the men who are to be trained for this new and all-important branch of our national defense. Let religious and civic leaders who are serious in their prayers reread this last sentence.

Canning Hints

"Plan Before You Can" is a fine suggestion for this season. Now is the time to look over your canning equipment and make preparations for the busy season of food preservation which is ahead. Consider the following points as time-savers and safety measures:

1. Use only clean, sound, fresh foods in prime condition. Lose no time between picking and processing.
2. After picking, place foods immediately into cold water to prevent steaming or flat sour before packing.
3. Make sure that containers in which food is processed are clean and free from defects.
4. Prepare all jars, tops, rings, and rubbers before starting on food.
5. The water bath method is not entirely safe except for acid vegetables and fruits. For this method be sure that the water in the canner comes at least one inch over the top of the jars. Keep boiling water ready to refill in case it gets below this.

6. Process non-acid vegetables and meats in a pressure cooker for complete safety.
7. Prepare only as much at one time as can be processed at once. Food ready for canning that must wait may develop flat sour, which is the term used for the condition of canned vegetables in which taste and odor are bad, the appearance may be good.
8. For complete safety all home canned vegetables and meats should be boiled rapidly 20 minutes before serving.
9. The best temperature for storing canned goods is 46 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit.
10. The white sediment in the bottom of some jars after they have stood awhile may be due to careless washing, to old products, or to hard water containing lime compounds.

A new Home Food Preservation bulletin will soon be ready for distribution. This bulletin may be obtained by leaving your request at the office of the home demonstration agent in the court house, according to Kathleen McCrae.
