Death in Mexico

A man named Leon Trotsky was murdered in Mexico City the other day. His death teaches no lesson except that those who live by violence usually perish by violence. But his life carries its moral for all Americans and all men of good will to read.

Perhaps more than any other individual of our times, Trotsky represented the view that theories of government could be applied wholesale and made to change the economic habits of single countries and then, ultimately, of the whole world. He preached destruction of existing systems, promising that after the old ways had been discarded the new ways that replaced them would mean "a heaven on earth" for all the earth's people. But the only part of Trotsky's program that bore real fruit was the destructive one.

What is the lesson involved? Surely it is this:

Theorists invariably feel that if they had their way they could remake society in a very short order. It is their conception that the end justifies any means. They are not content with the slow progress of peaceful business and commerce, wherein through orderly production the number of goods and services used by the average person is steadily increased. Out of books and theories, they want to change everything in a single day.

All theorists are not as ruthless and inhuman as was Trotsky. But all are more or less victims of the same poison; all are willing to destroy instead of produce, feeling that after the "class struggles" and the regimentation and the wreckage are over, they can build a perfect society.

Trotsky lived long enough to see the world chaos that his theories achieved. He was probably too sure of his own genius to admit his error. But Americans can see the tragic results of his way—and we are not likely to succumb easily to the argument that "the end justifies the means!"

New WPA Debauchery

Political manipulation of relief funds has begun again. The campaign of 1940 is to be debauched by payroll padding for the purpose of inducing and coercing needy voters to support the Roosevelt third-term ticket. The Works Progress Administration added 90,000 persons to the payroll during July. It was announced by Administrator Harrington that his "schedule" calls for an increase to 1,800,000 workers by October and to 2,000,000 by November.

Thus the expenditure for relief will rise from $110,000,000 in July to more than $140,000,000 before election day.

This increased relief spending will occur in face of the fact that the administration boasts of improved employment conditions in private industry. It is admitted that there is a scarcity of certain kinds of labor needed in national defense work.

Under the notorious political spender, Harry Hopkins, the WPA invariably

Hollywood Voice Maestro Plans Portland Classes

Edward Novis of Hollywood, prominent singing teacher, known as a discoverer and teacher of such radio and screen artists as Kenny Baker, Dennis Day, Dick Powell and Donald Novis will hold an intensive clinic and class in song interpretation in Portland this fall.

Mr. Novis will be in Portland October 7 to October 19 and his class is in response to many requests from Portland singers. His varied experience as student and professional artist at Milan Italy, Paris, France, and New York has given him an insight into needs and problems of young singers.

The Portland class is under management of Martha B. Reynolds and will be held in the Fine Arts building.

Miss Noreen Allyn went to North Plains Monday evening, where she will teach the primary grades again this year.

Mrs. Robert Johnston returned to her home here Saturday following a months visit with relatives at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Erman Scott has improved the appearance of his house with a new coat of paint.

Natalie Bergin won first on her party dress, fourth year sewing project, at the county fair. She was awarded first in Style Review and a trip to Salem to appear in the State Revue on Friday afternoon.

The Golden Hours 4-H sewing club met at the home of their leader, Natalie Bergin on last Tuesday for their final meeting. They got their exhibit ready for the fair and finished their report books. This club has done good work, they were organized after school ended and have met faithfully all through the summer. The members are Anita Pienovi, president; Claradell Pace, sec., Gloria Pace, Luanne Fitzpatrick, Marianne Kokich and Ardene Amell.

Leave Motor Cool

An extremely hot motor should be allowed to cool for at least fifteen minutes before adding water to the radiator if the supply has become low, according to the Emergency Road Service of the Oregon State Motor Association. The sudden change in temperature caused by cold water may crack the motor block or cylinder head.

BOMBS! Bombs! Bombs!

Hello Folks. Dawgonne I wuz a readin' today where the Nazis have dropped five million bombs the past year in their wars. This is fifty trainloads of thirty cars each in our way of figgerin'. Now aint that some bombin'? They have figgered 3500 attacks. They have loosed 75,000 tons. This report kums from Berlin an they seem to be proud of it. Now folks this will shore be a bum world if we don't stop that bunch from their bummin'. The balance of us would be bums if we don't help make this ole world safer from bums an their bombs than it has been fer awhile.

P. S. Hitler an the devil didn't take enny vacation. Neither did the chiggers and dawg ticks an the other kinds of ticks, flies and mosquitoes.
