A Date With Sin David the king of Israel tried it. He took another man's wife and to cover up the deed, ordered the woman's husband into the front of the battle where death would be certain, so the man was murdered, for murder it was. And what for David? God did not wink at this evil deed and when out of it a child was born, God took the child. David wept and plead for its life, but God took it. Every sin must be accounted for. God is of too holy eyes to look upon sin and do nothing about it. After this world you will either meet Christ as the Savior who paid the penalty for your sinning or you will meet your sins and Christ as Judge.

Has Young America A Date with Sin? We paid fifteen billions of dollars for crime here in America last year. Pass over this cost in money to note the human wreckage. Recall the several hundred thousand young men and women under twenty-five who fill the pens and jails; the younger learning crime from the older ones. Our pens, graduates schools of crime.

Has our public school system failed that crime should be king? Must teacher tune up the hearts and conscience or is she there to give them the Three R's? On all sides they are charging the state of things to the grown-ups. Not the school teacher or the kiddies. Why not say that dads and mothers have had a date with sin? The sin of bringing children to the birth and chancing it that the world, the flesh and the devil will not run them down?

Too much trouble to get up and get them ready for the Bible School? You hear of the boy who gets up by himself and after a bite hikes along to the Bible School. Just a bit ago, a young miss toddling a doll carriage past the house called out—"I just can't wait for Sunday and ten o'clock!" Yes—Young America stands ready if only the big folks will open the way.

We have all dated with sin. Blessed is the man whose sins are forgiven; whose iniquities are covered. And not Savior but also Friend and Dynamic for every hour of the live-long day.
