Books for Review

L. D. MAHONEY

One of the most noted men of ancient times was Cicero, a polished scholar, the most eloquent advocate of his day, and for all time, said: "Books are the food of youth, the delight of old age; the ornament of prosperity; the refuge and comfort of adversity; a delight at home, and no hindrance abroad; companions at night, in traveling, in the country."

This message comes down thru more than twenty centuries. Yet it sounds like many of the statements of the present day. Men and women advising, and especially for the young, to get in touch with the great minds of the past.

But a few months ago I met a lady on the street and in her worry, she told me something about her son; "That he is out at nights; is in the wrong crowd and that he might wind up in trouble." He was a graduate of a high school. I asked her if he cared for books. She replied that he did. A few evenings after the conversation with the mother, I met the son on the street, stopped and talked to him. I asked him quite a number of questions. He said that he could not get any work. I asked him if he was interested in reading good books. He answered in the affirmative. I purchased a book about Alaska and in a few days gave him another book. The reading of these two books took him several days. But his life was changed. No more out on the streets at night. He is building up his own library. He secured a job and out of each month pays he purchases a few books.

These two books started this young man on a new course. His life views were enlarged. He became inspired to do something. The same has come to many a lad. Once interested in his favorite book or line of thinking will give him a balance wheel all his life. Yes, good books will make better boys and girls. What better present can you buy for your children for Christmas. Books written by Oregon writers will be on tables specially arranged at the book stores. Look them over and then act.

The Oregon Historical Society has selected "The Old Oregon Country" as the subject for the 1942 C. C. Beekman essay contest. The prizes offered are four in number, viz, first sixty dollars; second, fifty dollars; third, forty dollars; and fourth, thirty dollars; and will be awarded for the best four original essays in the above named subject written and submitted by girls or boys over fifteen years of age and under eighteen years of age, attending any public or private school, academy, seminary, college, university or other educational institution within the State of Oregon. Each of the four prize winners will also receive a handsome bronze medal.

The essay submitted in competition must not exceed two thousand words in length, and accompanied by a separate sheet containing the name and post office address of the writer, the date of his or her birth, and the name of the school attended.

To be considered in competition the essay must be delivered, by mail or in person, to the Oregon Historical Society, Public Auditorium, 235 SW Market Street, Portland, Oregon, not later than Monday, March 16, 1942.

and other consumer goods. The demand for such goods has already been speeded up by larger payrolls and higher wages. In view of rising living costs, it would be far better to now store up a portion of these wages and salaries in Defense Bonds.

Morgenthau is O. K. I should hate to have Secretary Morgenthau's job. His is the difficult task of continually raising new money for defense needs and of taking care of maturing issues of bonds and notes. He has no control over the vast sums voted for defense and ordinary fiscal purposes. Furthermore, he has no voice as to how this money shall be spent. The Congress and the President simply dump into his lap the problem of raising the cash.

How to raise this money is Mr. Morgenthau's nightmare. Necessarily, he must experiment to gauge the public responsiveness to his ideas. Hence, we had the first drastic proposal for excess profits taxes, later adopted in a modified way. Then came the idea to limit corporation profits to 6%. This fell by the wayside. Following was the plan for tax anticipatory notes, which was enacted. Then came a proposition to pay two years' taxes in one. The latest scheme is a check-off system on salaries and wages. This would be O. K. if—like the excess tax on profits—it applies only to wage increases since January 1, 1941. To tax, by the same rate, those who have had to pay increases would be very unjust.

What About Defense Bonds? The fairest means of financing defense expenditures, next to an equitable system of taxation, is through the sale, by the Treasury Department, of Defense Bonds. Here is a medium through which everyone, in comfortable or modest circumstances, can directly contribute their services in these critical times. In buying these bonds, we are protecting all that our American way of living stands for. So far, Mr. Morgenthau has been able to dispose of the Defense Bonds without resorting to the high-pressure sales methods used at the time of World War I. It is hoped to raise $2,500,000,000 annually through the sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps compared with about $13,000,000,000 from taxes. Tax money, when paid, is gone forever. Money paid for Defense Savings and Stamps will certainly be returned with accumulated interest.

Sales have not been all they should be in recent months. I certainly hope they may increase. Bonds are sold in three series and are subject to Federal Taxation. Series E replace the old "baby bonds." A $100 face value Series E bond costs $75 and matures in 10 years, yielding 2.90% to maturity. These are designed for the small investors. The $100 face value Series F bond costs $74 and matures in 12 years, yielding 2.53% to maturity. These are for large investors, trustees, associations, and pension funds. Series G bonds are sold at par, mature in 12 years, with interest of 2½% paid by Treasury check. Redemption values decrease gradually during the first 4-5 years held and then gradually rise to par except in case of death when they can be collected in full.

Postal Savings Stamps may be bought by anyone for 10, 25 and 50 cents or for $1 and $5 and later exchanged for bonds. They are fine for children. After watching securities for over forty years, I have finally found an issue I can whole heartedly recommend! By buying these bonds you safeguard principal and get a better-than-savings-bank-interest return. In addition, you emphasize your faith in our American System of Government. It's still the best on earth!

Powder Plant Boom

Hello Folks: Say, I saw with my own "mouth" the big boom what a powder plant can blow into a town when they begin to lay the foundation for a sixty million bucks plant within 20 miles of a town. I'm a talkin' about Claremore, Okla., where I staid for two weeks recently and where they got to steppin' out with their five room houses furnished for $75 per month an with a years contract. A ole cowboy friend of mine over there claimed he rented his dawg house for $25 bucks per month. But he had a better than average dawg house, for his wife puts him in it once in awhile. You know such a boom in buildin' all these high power war plants ain't a goin' to help the bizness of ole Hitty an Mussy, not on your tin type!

There is no class of men so difficult to be managed in a state as those whose intentions are honest, but whose consciences are bewitched.—Napoleon.

Quiz Contest Opens. 456 Prizes!

456 Prizes! PGE Quiz Contest Starts. Children from 8 to 18 years, inclusive, are registering now for PGE's new Quiz Contest. 76 prizes will be awarded every month for 6 months to children for answering questions such as "What use of electricity in your home means most to YOU and why?"

Examining some of the prizes above are the judges of the contest: Lyle Janz, manager of the Portland Better Business Bureau (left); Charles H. Devlin, vice president of the Gerber Advertising Agency; Berkeley Snow, secretary, Northwest Electric Light and Power Association. If you haven't received your entry blank, go to the nearest PGE office or appliance dealer.

Vice-President Checks "Underground"

George E. Sullivan knows PGE's operations from the bottom up! He started work for PGE 30 years ago as a water-boy. Now, as vice president, he keeps in personal touch with PGE's far-flung operations. Here he is emerging from a manhole which leads to a tunnel, full of electric cables.
