What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Navy Cruisers are built in two classes, light and heavy, the latter displacing about 10,000 tons. Our navy has about an equal number of light and heavy Cruisers, the 10,000 ton Cruiser costing approximately $20,000,000. Many Cruisers are under construction and many more are needed.

To pay for these speedy and powerful ships with their heavy guns and armament we must buy War Bonds. Citizens of a large town or a given community, working in unity, could buy one of these ships for the Navy if they put at least ten percent of their income in War Bonds every day.

Power Generating Plants Wanted by U. S. Army

Small power generating plants that farmers may have and not be using may possibly be sold to the United States Army, according to word received by the local USDA War Board. Specifically, the types of power plants (both engine and generator) needed include gasoline, diesel, kerosene or fuel oil driven, motors, operating 110- to 220-volt generators, AC only. Equipment of this type can be used in capacities from 500 watts to 25 kilowatts and larger.

Any owners of such equipment should report it immediately to the county AAA office. Listing of this or owning it does not mean that the army will buy. If people have such equipment for sale, it will be inspected by representatives of the Signal Corps of the army, and if it is of the type and age that they want and is in usable condition, it will probably be purchased.

Chemical Found To Kill Poison

Oak in Jig Time

At long last an effective control for the poison oak shrub, a most pes-tiferous plant common to many parts of the west, appears to be in the offing. Nothing certain about it yet, but it is the most promising material yet tried, says Lynn Harris, in charge of the experiment station weed control research at OSC.

The promising chemical is ammonium sulfamate. This is the same material that has been reported as so effective farther east in controlling poison ivy—a first cousin to poison oak.

In preliminary tests for more than a year the ammonia sulfamate appears to have many advantages over present chemical weed killers. First it is effective, giving a high percentage of kill of both tops and roots when sprayed on the growing shrubs.

Second, it is fire retarding rather than being highly inflammable as are most chlorate weed killers. This is an important item where the plants are thick over a considerable area.

The third advantage is that its effect on the soil is beneficial rather than harmful, as the chemical in breaking down tends to leave nitrates and sulfur in the ground.

The best time to apply the spray is in the middle or late summer, when dry soil aids the killing power of the chemical. Where complete kill is not obtained in one season, a second application appears to finish the job.

Exact dosages and strength have not yet been worked out accurately, although good results have been obtained with a strength of one pound per gallon water, sprayed on all parts of the plant.

The experiment station is not yet prepared to give an unqualified recommendation of this control method, but does believe it is worth more field trials—if the material can be obtained. The chemical is manufactured by one of the largest companies but distribution has not yet been worked out thoroughly. Both manufacture and distribution have been hampered by war conditions.

Going fishing? Take along a Fag Bag. It's a brightly colored sack for that pack of cigarettes, serving as a reminder against habit or chain smoking while in the Oregon woods.
Made by Girl Scouts and distributed by the Keep Oregon Green association, the Fag Bag is available from your nearest forest warden. Yes, you guessed it, they're free.
