Bits of News About Our Boys

Seventeen-year-old Fred A. Karpstein enlisted in the marine corps at Portland this week. He has returned home on inactive duty awaiting call to training. The Beaverton high school senior earned his sports letters in football, basketball and track. His mother is Mrs. Antonia Karpstein, route 1, Beaverton.

Kearns, Utah, April 23—Pre-aviation cadet Richard G. Lincoln of route 1, box 302, Beaverton, Ore., is now stationed at this Army Air Forces Basic Training Center, it is announced by Col. Converse R. Lewis, Commander.

Private Lincoln is the son of J. A. Lincoln of the same address. Prior to his enlistment for aviation cadet training private Lincoln was a student at the Oregon State College.

Upon completion of their basic training most of the pre-aviation cadets will be sent to one of the many colleges operating under the supervision of the Army Air Corps. At colleges they will receive specialized training before entering the aviation cadet training centers.

Arthur W. Brugger of Portland, swimming star of a few years back, has been graduated as an ensign from the naval aviation training station at Corpus Christi, Tex., and now is taking transition training at a Florida station before being assigned to active duty as a dive bomber pilot. Brugger, a graduate of Roosevelt high school and Oregon State college, was a Multnomah club swimmer and won the Astoria regatta trans-Columbia swim in 1936.

His father, Arthur J. Brugger and two brothers, John and Richard, live at 3441 SW Taylor Ferry road.

Sixty Attend PTA Council Meeting

The Washington County Council of Parent Teachers held their last meeting for the year 1942-43 Tuesday, April 13. The Reedville Parent-Teacher association were hosts. Nearly sixty were present representing 11 associations.

In the morning the year's reports of work accomplished by local associations were given. Some of the associations who could not be present sent written reports to be read to the group—something that is going to be done more and more due to the gasoline and rubber conditions. Nearly all have more than won their goal set last Fall. This year hot lunches in some form were served at most of the schools and now their interest is in the Summer Round-up of children; to get the first graders of next Fall in as good a physical condition as possible during the summer.

The afternoon session opened with community sing accompanied by Mrs. Melvin Vandermost at the piano. Austin Scerafford, County School Superintendent, spoke briefly on the legislative measures passed that affect our schools. His main talk was on cooperation of the home with the schools toward developing a well rounded personality in a child besides the theory taught.

Mrs. W. B. Beattie, the retiring president installed the following as the new officers for the year 1943-44 of the Washington County Council of Parent Teachers.

President—Mrs. Otto George, Reedville; 1st vice-pres.—Mrs. Paul Patterson, Hillsboro; 2nd vice-pres.—Mrs. C. O. Mabee, Aloha; 3rd vice-pres.—Mrs. Ed. Harvey, Bonny Slope; secretary—Mrs. Leslie Smith, Forest Grove; treasurer—Mrs. Carl Sande, Forest Grove.

Mrs. George gave a very instructive talk on things that would make an association a success and in their success of County Council.

The State Convention of Oregon Congress of Parent Teachers was held in Portland Wednesday and Thursday, April 14 and 15, with delegates from the following Washington County associations present: Garden Home, Hillsboro, Tualatin, Beaverton, Bonny Slope, Forest Grove, Raleigh, Reedville, Aloha-Huber and Cedar Mill.

The following County Council officers attended the Board of Managers of Oregon Congress of Parent Teacher pre-convention dinner Tuesday evening and the convention, Mrs. Otto George, Mrs. Leslie Smith, Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar and Mrs. C. O. Mabee.

After a rising vote of thanks to Reedville for their hospitality the meeting adjourned to meet October 12 with the Sherwood Parent Teacher association.

WILLIAM HUNTER

William Hunter died April 15 at Beaverton. He was husband of Mary, father of Mrs. Hazel McCue, W. H. (Bud) Hunter Jr., Lottie Essig and John T. Hunter of Beaverton, brother of James, Eugene, and Mary Poitres, Seattle; 4 grandchildren also survive. Funeral services were held at Peg's Chapel, Beaverton, interment Crescent Grove.

REBECCA PARKER

Mrs. Rebecca Parker, a Beaverton resident over 50 years ago, died April 14 at Vancouver, Wash. She was a sister of the late George Still and Mrs. James A. Mott, the mother of Earl Parker, Frances Randall, Flora Paddison, Portland and Chester Parker, Vancouver, Wash. Seven grandchildren and 1 greatchild also survive.

Babson Believes Situation Encouraging

Continued from Page 1 with retailing. These small businesses comprise the foundation of our retail industry, and should remain as free from interference as possible. Certainly, nothing should be done that would raise the cost of doing business. State bureaucracies, supported by fees from retailers for examinations and licenses, would be difficult to get rid of. Rationing and price ceilings may be necessary for many goods sold through retail channels; but such Federal controls are very different from what might be handed down by our separate states.

The Current Picture The customary spring shopping season got off with a good start. It is being aided by a late Easter and I look for generally good retail trade this month. It may be below a year ago in terms of volume; but last year was abnormally high. For the most part, retail inventories are adequate today. Lack of transportation though is a serious handicap in making available in every part of the country sufficient merchandise to meet rising consumer demands. This, however, should cause people to buy at home and again get acquainted with their local merchants instead of depending upon mail-order catalogues and a Saturday trip to big centers.

In 1941, consumer expenditures for goods and services totalled $74,600,000,000. This was an increase of $7,300,000,000 over 1940. For 1942, the Commerce Department estimates that a record total of $81,900,000,000 was spent by consumers. For 1943, this peak is very apt to be topped in dollar volume. It seems probable to expect that consumers are going to spend as much as possible of their higher incomes for goods and services provided through retail outlets. These funds, however, are very apt to be spent for fewer items. This may result in constantly rising prices although the periodic release of frozen goods, like refrigerators and bicycles, plus the retarding influence of ceiling prices, should enable customers to fill normal requirements. If the buying public will cooperate with their retailers and the newspapers, I do not look for any run-away prices. In fact, the whole outlook for seller and buyer alike is gradually clearing up.—Washington propagandists notwithstanding!

CRISIS IN MANPOWER

Today's problem of manpower means as much to the farmer with one hired hand, or the merchant with a single clerk, as it does to the industrialist who employs a thousand persons. It is all a matter of proportion.

The war program has reached such a stupendous size that the proper distribution of manpower assumes as much importance as the right use of steel, oil, rubber, or any other essential material or product.

It has been such a short time since there was more manpower than industry and agriculture could absorb that we may be a bit slow in waking up to the fact that today each man and woman who can be used to help in the battle of production is needed, and needed badly.

For the benefit, then, of farmers whose crops and livestock will suffer this year if manpower is not replenished; for the benefit of the armed services which have set their sights at possibly 10 million in uniform before 1944; for the benefit of the factories which must turn out ammunition, shoes, clothing, supplies and processed foods in ever-increasing quantities for fighters, civilians and allied nations, a careful stock-taking of manpower is required.

Where Manpower Is Wasted

Our new Congress must make sure that those in charge of this task, in Washington, cast about to see where able-bodied people are being needlessly employed. And in that city of Washington these authorities are now rubbing elbows with thousands of clerks, auditors, stenographers and others who could be used elsewhere without interfering with the war effort in any measure.

Recent figures showed that there were 2,606,300 persons on the civilian payroll of the federal government. This is not only a million more than were in our armed forces in foreign lands at the time the President made his address at the opening of the present Congress, but it is three times as many as were on the government's civilian payroll during the first World War. Of course this is a bigger war, but that only furnishes an even greater reason why the government should lead in conserving manpower for our farms and factories.

The "Renegotiation" Law

A single measure, introduced in Congress last year, would require thousands of new payrollers to carry out its provisions. This was the act providing that the Army, Navy and Maritime commission should each check its war contracts so that renegotiation could be demanded in cases of excessive charges.

The purpose of this legislation—to make sure that the government was not paying too much for its materials and supplies—was not questioned. But the proposed method of rechecking all war contracts called for the hiring of such a large number of new federal employees that amendments to the bill were quickly demanded.

Although the bill has been rewritten and amended, it still places upon the Army, Navy and Maritime commission so much of the responsibility for re-examining their contracts that thousands of new auditors and accountants would be needed. This violates the principle that united war effort calls for the placing of every available man and woman in productive work, at the same time helping to keep the taxpayers' federal load as light as possible, consistent with wartime demands.

An acceptable amendment to this law—not yet adopted—would leave it to the Department of Internal Revenue to uncover instances of excess profit. By using this established checking system, the other departments would not have to hire extra people to wade through the 95 per cent or more of war contracts which are honestly and conscientiously executed.

Here is but one example of how manpower can be conserved in these days when the efforts of all must be directed toward winning the war.

Text continues: If we should lose the war, life would not be worth living. 'But we won't lose it,' you may say. Listen, brother—in this world nothing's sure, unless you make it so. This month it's up to us here at home to do our part, and then some, to make Victory surer—and quicker! To do it, we've got to lend Uncle Sam 13 billion extra dollars. It isn't easy—but war isn't easy and Victory isn't cheap. It takes money—and more money—to buy planes, ships, tanks, guns and a million other things our boys must have to deliver that final, paralyzing knockout punch. And it's a whale of a lot easier for us at home to lend our money than for our boys to fight through the hardships and dangers of deserts, swamps, jungles, ice-fields and sub-infested seas! Just think! Every extra bond you buy will help provide the weapons to save the lives of many American boys! Isn't that alone worth every effort, every economy you can make? You bet it is!
