How To Run The World?

Hello Folks:

Well, I listen to a heap of radio "common-tators" and I read a heap of newspaper columnists and I'm a teller you all that they ain't no excuse a havin' the world in such a mess! Now, if all, or even half the "inflammation" we git hold of is true from the source mention, why, thunder-in-lighnin', all we have got to do to run the cockeyed world "straight" is to turn the daddled planet over to 'em and let 'em run it! I mean turn it over to the radio "commontators" and the columnists!! You see I might git in on that. If we just had good ole Will Rogers here I know this bunch could run the world, but the way it is now I doubt it. You know Will wuz one cowboy who wore a smile instead of a gun when he wuz herdin' cattle and even the cattle like him!! He smiled at the buckin' bronchos instead of cussin' 'em! He joked the pollyshuns, all of 'em, instead of takin' up with one bunch and slurrin' everybody else! Anyway we are a winnin' this war and your right to criticize!

assessments in these states are low or else their people are getting land hungry. Hence, these states may be headed for a land boom. I also had a host of postal-cards from people in Washington, D. C., who are frantic to buy property. They write that Washington is now having a temporary real estate boom.

Massachusetts leads all the states for the number of replies from those desiring to sell real estate. They claim assessments in Massachusetts are too high; they would be thankful for a chance to get out at present assessed values. Other Eastern States feel the same as do the people of Massachusetts. Incidentally, more postal cards have come from people in Florida, who desire to sell, than from people there who desire to buy.
This may mean that the coming Florida boom may not be "just around the corner". Due to its socialistic experiments, there is also an excess of sellers in Wisconsin. A land boom has already started in California.

Basing Dollars on Tax Bills

My study demonstrates two things:
(1) That there is great injustice and non-uniformity in present land assessments, and (2) That we should talk about "tax bills" instead of "assessments". In fact, I wish again to forecast that THE TIME MAY COME WHEN THE AMERICAN DOLLAR WILL BE BASED ON LAND EXCHANGEABLE, EITHER WAY, AT THE RATE OF FORTY TIMES THE TAX BILL. Such a dollar would mean something and encourage land owners. I repeat that the security of America is proportional to the percentage of people owning their own home and garden.

Although some of us conservatives may look upon Mr. Wallace as a dreamer; he, nevertheless, interprets the desires of a great many people.
I am surprised at receiving so many postals upon which were written these words: "I would like neither to buy nor sell but to be able to retain the property I have earned and paid for by hard work." Yet the Roosevelt Administration has done much to help people along these lines. The Securities and Exchange

Commission, the Federal Land Banks, the lowering of interest rates, and various other legislation have been in their favor. Land owners, however, should now do their part by working their land, raising good families and going to church.

What Are Real Assets?

Just one more thought: Many postal-cards have a P. S. saying that Henry George's ideas must some day be considered. Clippings of statements by England's Archbishop of Canterbury and other prominent men along these lines are also being sent to me. All of these things are signs that bonds, stock certificates and bank books are gradually losing their charm and that people are coming to think more of fertile land, good families and same religion.
Since last writing on this subject, I therefore, have become quite an optimist; and I especially now thank all who sent me postal-cards. The American people are okay if we will cut out propaganda and give them a chance to do some real thinking as to what are real assets.

One battle won does not win a war. We've got tougher times ahead.
