

Just Keep On

All you need to do is to keep on as you are.

You need not sign up to spend eternity out among the thieves, the liars and the vile.

You need not sign up to go out into the pains of eternal woe. Just keep on as you are and some day the door will close behind you. You are to wake up out in the weeping and the wailing forever.

Turn and see God with outstretched arms waiting to receive you Come as you are.

ONE—Settle the sin question. Settle it in your heart that you are the one for whom Christ died on the cross. Stand on it that you are cleared. He took death in your place and that settles it. Be at peace with God on the ground that the debt is paid.

TWO—Receive Christ into your heart as the Lord of your life. Day by day, in joy and in sorrow; in good sledding and hard, look only and utterly to Him. He will see you through As washed in the blood and belonging to God. Christ will see you through. Live by POWER FROM ON HIGH.

—For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him, should not perish but have eternal life." Know Your Bible.—John 3:16.

Kenneth L. Watters, Yeoman, 1st Class, U. S. S. West Virginia, says that Christ satisfies the longing soul and fills the hungry soul with goodness.

Democrats Print Republican Ballots

Hello Folks:
A Democratic newspaper here in Mercer County, West Virginey, wuz so busy last week a printin' Repub-likan ballots fer the primary election a comin' on. Why thunder-in lightnin they wuz 2 days late a gettin' out their weekly paper, but I reckon even at that their business wuz pretty good! Here at Matooka, W. Va. we had 3 delegations kum over 100 miles from over in old Virginy last sunday to hear an Oklahoma preacher in a revival here.

or

The Draftee's Lament

BY LLOYD C. NYMAN

'Twas the eve of Induction, and all through the town,
Not a Draftee was sleeping, much less laying down.
Their houses were sold and businesses let—
Their wives all had jobs for debts to be met;
While Mamma and I had just ceased our despair
And made up our minds to quit tearing our hair.

When out on the street there arose such a clatter,
I sprang to the window to see what was the matter.
The newsboy was shouting his "extra"—below
As one who alone is "in on the know,"
I sprang to the radio, twisted the switch
Turned up the volume, adjusted the pitch.

The newsboy arrived with his extra in glee,
With a sarcastic look, he stood gazing at me.
When what to my wandering eyes should appear
But a horrible headline too terribly clear;
With six columns of type, and more on page three,
Which told in a glance I was once again free.

The radio, warming, began blasting the dope;
The headlines verified, I quickly lost hope.
Yes, strange to relate, I had dreaded this fate
Of having postponement of my induction date.
We've been up and then down—out and then in,
Till we don't know where we finish or where to begin.

Conflicting and fighting their speeches did fly,
They shouted and hollered their ideas to the sky.
On Congress! On Hershey! On Paul V. McNutt!
Now State Boards! Appeal Boards—and everything but—
To the top of the White House! To the top of the wall,
Now blast away, blast away, blast away all.

As dry leaves before a wild hurricane fly
And meeting an object, mount to the sky,
So, up in the air their predictions they flew,
With lots of dire threats and promises, too.
And, then in a twinkling our plans were all dashed,
By the strange vacillations that Washington hashed.

As I breathed a sad sigh and lugubrious moan
A fanciful vision entered my dome.
Old "Manpower Question" stood trembling there,
Afraid to stand up or sit on a chair:
He was dressed in old rags from waistline down,
But wore formal dress from there to his crown.

His shoes were all tattered—his trousers a sight,
But the stones in his shirt front gleamed like a light.
Half of his face was bearded and rough,
While the other was shaven and tender as fluff.
He smiled on one side—the other he frowned,
From the front he looked skinny—from the rear he looked round.

A bundle of gifts he bore in a sock
Which was partly secured by a well-rusted lock.
He had a strange face, a queer little dunce—
He'd laugh and he'd cry together at once.
A sneer on his lips—and a smile of good cheer,
Soon gave me to know I had PLENTY TO FEAR.

He spoke not a word—but opened his sack—
Gave me "I-A" and then took it back.
And putting his thumb to his cute little nose,
He wiggled his fingers, and kicked up his toes.
He jumped out the door, gave a rousing Bronx cheer,
And away he escaped like foam on a beer.

But I heard him exclaim as he vanished in space—
"Keep your fingers well crossed, you know, just in case."

The pupil of the tiger's eye is vertical. This animal thus sees best in up and down direction, enabling it to climb about and hunt for its food.

Live clean. Fight hard. Think for yourself.
