BLACKOUT ENDS

For the first time in five years blackout England's lights blaze again. There is nothing, except the end of the war, itself that could boost the morale of this country than the release of the blackout. The whole "civilized" world has admired Britain's people and their magnificent courage.

Landlord Rewards Stork In War Bonds for Births

CLEVELAND. — Henry Solomon, the Cleveland landlord who rewards all tenants visited by the stork, raised the ante after the start of the Fifth War Loan drive and made the baby bonus a $25 war bond.

Originally he gave each family $5 in gold and when the United States went off the gold standard payments were made in silver. Since the war rewards were in war savings stamps.

Under Mr. Solomon's plan a second child in the same family would receive a $50 war bond, a third child a $100 bond, a fourth child a $200 bond and so on.

Army Finds a New Trap For Air-Borne Germs

WASHINGTON.—The army has a new and effective chemical "trap" to ensnare some of mankind's more vicious enemies—the airborne germs that cause such infectious diseases as pneumonia, scarlet fever and severe sore throats.

It is an odorless, greaseless, non-sticky oil that can be applied to floors, blankets and bedding in hospital wards and barracks. It holds the bacteria and viruses of certain diseases so tightly they cannot spread into the air. The stuff forms an invisible film that traps the germs just as flypaper traps a fly.

The germ-trapping oil treatment was developed by noted scientists working for the army surgeon general's office.

In the meantime, the Dewey-Bricker team has the honour of youthfulness about it. It has energy, resourcefulness, and determination. —Charlotte, North Carolina, Observer.

"The problem of stabilizing the postwar economy becomes the No. 1 Problem of the free enterprise system through its trade associations and policy committees." —National Assn. of Manufacturers.

you have to spend, etc. Tell them your age and of what your family consists. Be sure to explain that you do not wish to go into commercial farming. Then ask their advice as to which part of the State will best fill your needs. You can continue to correspond until you find the right location.

Choosing the Final Spot

Be sure to ask for a list of the localities in the State where either the State or the Federal Government has an Agricultural Experimental Station. You needn't tell them the reason for asking this question, but you need the answer in order to check their answers to their other questions. As a rule, these Experimental Stations are located in the good "soil pockets" having the best temperature and rainfall conditions. Therefore, you should try to locate in one of the good "soil pockets" which has been selected for an Experimental Station. This is my third conclusion.

There, however, is another even more important reason why you should be near one of these stations. —You are to be more or less a novice as to farming. Yet, the raising of crops and live stock is fast becoming a science. By knowing what to plant, when to plant, how to plant and the best method of fighting insects, fungus, etc., you can cut your work in half and double your crops. By being located close to an Experimental Station, you both enjoy good soil and you are in a position to visit the Station and ask questions and get very valuable help. Hence, my fourth and final conclusion is that you should buy your five acres as near as possible to an Experimental Station. Buy Something You Can Always Sell

One other thought: The time may come when you or your family will want to sell your little farm. Such homesites are, as a rule, like most everything else in this world, easier to buy than they are to sell. This rule however, usually does not apply to locations close to an Experimental Station. If it directly adjoins government land the government may be a possible purchaser at a good price when you desire to sell. Hence, by locating according to these conclusions you are not only sure of good soil and valuable free help to get started right, but are pretty sure to have a fair market for your place whenever you wish to sell it.

Princess Tries Her Hand As Chief Cook at Palace

NEW YORK.—Princess Margaret Rose, 14, is working for her Girl Guides cooking badge. Consequently, the British royal family often dines these days on "practice meals" she serves from the family's rationed food. Mrs. John Corbett of Kingston, Ontario, said here. Mrs. Corbett, a leader of the Girl Guides, sister organization of the Girl Scouts, said Queen Elizabeth had told her the story.

Army 'Ducks' Travel On Land or Water

WASHINGTON — The U. S. army's amphibious craft, popularly known as "Ducks," and used for ship-to-shore loading and unloading, are able to make their way across varying terrains with great facility because their tires can be almost instantly inflated or deflated, the war department announced.

Pet Crow Rides Bicycle And Does He Love It?

DES MOINES, IOWA. — What next? Joe, a pet crow belonging to Dorothy Jean Henry, actually begs for rides on her bicycle. Joe caws and caws until Miss Henry puts him on the handle bars and takes him for a ride. If she doesn't hurry, Joe flaps his wings and flies right up to his coveted perch without help, and caws. "Come on, what are we waiting for?" That's what it sounds like, anyway.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, would you mind tellin' Charlie here what you told me the other night walkin' home from lodge. I can't word it just the way you did."

"Sure thing, Tim. Here's what I told him, Charlie. There's no such thing as votin' a nation, a state, a county, or even a community dry. We had proof enough of that during our 13 years of prohibition. What you really vote for is whether liquor is going to be sold legally or illegally...whether the community is going to get needed taxes for schools, hospitals, and the like, or whether this money is going to go to gangsters and bootleggers. That's the answer, boys... simple as A-B-C."
