For Jobs Training

Babson Talks on School Committees

Babson Park, Mass., May 18—We shall be passing up vast opportunities for national advancement if we now fail to capitalize our recent lessons on how to educate. I mean the lessons which have been taught to us by the new techniques of training men and women for war.

Public Schools vs Military Training

It is true that civilian education is aimed at peaceful objectives. As commonly practiced, the most popular courses are the so-called "outside activities", although most of them are non-educational. I refer to jigger-bugging, juke-boxing and those graver pastimes which may not be immoral, but surely are a facsimile thereof. In military training, the purpose is "How to win and come back alive". Nevertheless, the two educations (civilian and military) can be alike in attitude, even if unlike in subject matter.

The famed super-speed and ultra-efficiency of military training are not to be explained by mere mechanical methods. A one stereoscopic or slow-motion pictures, models in miniature, high-pressure coaching, pocket-size texts—these modern boosters are worthy of attention by every school committee. The inner difference, however, which puts Army and Navy training long miles ahead of our horse-drawn public schools—is the superior build-up of educational attitude.

Raising the Mental Age

In the schooling of the armed forces, both trainers and trainees are consciously dealing in life or death. However, immature in years, the servicemen are quick to feel the adult attitude of those who learn their lessons "under live ammunition". This "adult attitude", this precocity of maturity, is what makes military instruction click and tick. Our public schools should duplicate, in peacetime, this wartime attitude to raise the mental age.

When we extend the range of education to cover maturity, we automatically increase the power of education and tap its unexplored and undreamed possibilities. The surest way to raise the standard of living and true security is to raise the average "mental age" of the population. Hence, another way to raise this average mental age is to encourage adult education. This requires supplementing our present public school system with new adult educational systems.

School Systems Needs Reformation

Our school system in its juvenile branches offers alluring possibilities of reformation. Speaking brutally, but realistically, most of today's schools—under the joint influence of hardheaded politicians, soft-headed sentimentalists and empty-headed parents—are a mess. That the school certificates of graduates are traditionally engrossed on the skin of the sheep seems grimly fitting when we look up the I. Q. of this self-regimented animal!

Yet, unfortunate is the fate of those of us who seek to reform schools. The prospective controversy, resistance, obstruction and reaction are shocking to behold. The possibilities of reform are alluring, but the path of reform is appalling. It may be better to leave the schoolmen to stew in their own juice for awhile longer and turn attention to development of adult education. But I will say more about Adult Education next week.

Importance of Adult Education

In countless camps all over the world, it has been demonstrated that boys and girls become men and women most promptly and most surely when the mark of an educated man and woman is not a diploma but a dogtag. I foresee that my realism will shock the sentimentalists, but the statement stands.

Yes, the double failure of the antiquated public school system is that it results in delayed maturity of the virtues, while prompting precocity in the vices. If it is hopeless to re-organize the schools, there is high hope to organize Adult Education. It could, it might, it may become America's outstanding contribution to world security. Surely, we can educate for life as efficiently as we educate for death.

MRS. J. D. ALEXANDER

Mrs. J. D. Alexander passed away at the home of her daughter on Main street, Beaverton, Oregon, Friday May 11 at 7:20 a. m., after a short illness. She was an active member in the Methodist Church and regular attendant at all services when possible. A short goodbye service was held in her honor on Monday morning at Pegg's Undertaking Parlors, beautifully conducted by Dr. A. S. Hisey. Funeral services were held in the afternoon at Salem, Oregon. She had come to Salem from Toronto, Canada, 51 years ago and had lived at Salem until 1939 when she moved to Beaverton with her daughter.

She is survived by two sons George Alexander, Parkdale, Oregon, Norman Alexander, Salem, Marjorie Chandler, Beaverton. Five grandchildren and an older brother, Maxfield Sheppard of Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

THE HONORABLE DISCHARGE BUTTON

Fighting Near Japan

Aboard a U. S. Light Cruiser off Okinawa (Delayed)—Richard Roberts quartermaster, third class, whose wife Mrs. Marion Marjorie Roberts, lives on route 1, Beaverton, Oregon, saw duty in the very shadow of the Japanese homeland in recent weeks as the U. S. Navy carried the war into Japan's front yard.

As a prelude to the Okinawa operation, this ship and her crew spent four days close by the Jap's mainland as a part of a task force which sent wave after wave of carrier-based planes against Kyshu and Honshu Islands.

Assigned to provide anti-aircraft protection for the Navy's fast and hard hitting task tops, this cruiser was in the middle of the action during the entire engagement. Her first kill of this operation came in the afternoon of the first day when she teamed up with a destroyer to shoot down a Jap bomber and capture its pilot alive after he had parachuted into the water. Earlier that day, one of the most spectacular kills of the engagement was made when two twin-engine Jap bombers were shot down a few thousand yards off the cruiser's starboard beam.

The Japs made their most determined bid on the third day when a large formation of planes waited at their battle stations for the attack of American planes. Several hours later, American planes sent out to intercept the enemy reported that enemy bombers and 12 fighters had been shot down and that the attack had been routed.

This report called for a celebration of all hands and a big dish of walnut ice cream for dinner that night.

The cruiser and her entire complement came through without a scratch.

Sunday's Game Postponed In Favor of Rain

The schedule game between the County Allstars and the Beaverton Busters was postponed until last Wednesday. Heavy rains on Friday postponed the game. Beaverton was taking a long rest before tackling the Allstars on Wednesday. Said Bob Sturm, manager of the Busters, "we are going to take the longest rest that we can in order to play the Allstars." The Allstars have beaten Beaverton once this year by a score of 8-6. The only hope of Beaverton's chance to whip the Allstars lies in it's outfield.

This Busters outfield has the best percentage in the league and is the linchpin of the team. Bill Nye, Keith Coon and Don Smith are the outfielders in which Sturm thinks he can beat with.

Meanwhile in the Allstar camp, the Allstars will send it's leading pitcher, Bobby Whitworth against Beaverton. The only defeat the Allstars have to date is when it was eked out by the Strong Gaytown Tigers. The Allstars infield isn't much to talk about except for it's leading Rookie at third base in Jack O'Connor. The outfield comes know where in the rating as the Busters' do.

Up in Southern Beaverton, known better now as Gaytown, the Tigers have a full rest before risking it's title against the County Allstars this coming Sunday in which it should be the best game so far. The Tiger infield is the best in the league by far but it's outfield is terrible. Right now the Tigers are on one of their famous winning streaks which brought them the title last year. But from the Tiger camp came a report that "Rookie" Bob Schaudt, third baseman, and Bill Chinn, shortstop, had orders from Uncle Sam for the Merchant Marine's and Navy respectively. It was also understood that a couple more of the Tiger team received "greetings" from the Army.

Sgt. Churchley in Germany

6th Army Group, Germany—Veteran doughboys of the 142nd Infantry Regiment, experiencing some of their hardest combat in more than 350 days of battle, recently broke through the Moder Line at Oberhoffen, captured Wissembourg, and slashed their way through strong Siegfried Line defenses.

These 36th Division Infantrymen, among the most battle-weary troops in General Jacob L. Devers' 6th Army Groups, fought for three days against completely-manned Siegfried defenses but smashed through to get in on the kill of two German Armies in the Saar Basin. They observed their second anniversary overseas by boosting their total of German captured to 10,000.

Commanded by Col. George E. Lynch of Orlando, Fla., the men of the 142nd achieved a spectacular record in Italy and France where they stormed strongly-defended beaches, waged difficult mountain warfare, and effect rapid thrusts into enemy territory.

Rugged fighting in Italy saw them among the first Americans to battle on European soil when they waded ashore at Salerno. They took the treacherous heights of Mount Maggioro and on Mount Castellone beat a force of 1,000 Germans with 400 men.

Playing a key part in one of the most brilliant maneuvers of the war, they infiltrated enemy lines two take heights overlooking Velletri, opened gates to Rome, and became the first unit to pass through the capital city.

From the beaches of Southern France, these doughboys sped north and smashed back remnants of the German 19th Army trying to break out at Montelimar. First to pass thru Lyon, they captured Memremont, Historic Koenigsburg Castle, St. Marie Pass and Selesstat.

Members of the regiment include: Sgt. Homer Churchley of route 3, Beaverton, Oregon.
