Go Back to School Teen Aged Urged

Enrollment of 250,000 more boys and girls in high school this fall than last is the goal set for this year's back-to-school drive sponsored by the children's Bureau U. S. office of Education, Federal Security Agency.

The appeal this year is being made in particular to those who are out of jobs, and for those who are still in school but thinking of dropping out to get a job. They are being urged not to limit their own opportunities but to go back to their job of first importance—completing their high school courses, so that they may be prepared for post-war job opportunities and citizenship responsibilities.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

This Mr. Byrd, you know him—the Byrds of Virginia—the old Soreback senator—well he is gonna be a busy person. He kinda keeps an eye peeled on Govt. spending—is old-fashioned—clings to the old and out-moded notion that old Uncle Samuel, if he is to keep out of the poorhouse, must act less like a 10-year old prodigal at a street fair.

This old Soreback will have no easy time, soon. The crew he is messin' with are slick babies—they are not going to brush the caviar from their vests and go back to real work, and buy their own car and gas, if they can avoid same.

Right now the Govt. says it is abandoning bureaus and controls, right and left—that is what they say. But as a sample you take the OWI—it folds up today on this side of the street and tomorrow the ex-OWI boys are right at home over in the State Dept. Sorta like trying to get a weasel out of the henhouse yard, you root him out of one hole and he pops into another.

And at one time people could imagine no menace greater than the boll weevil or cinch bug. More folks have gotta get on the move with Mr. Byrd—or we are sunk as the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Yours with the low down,
JO SEIRA
