Community Enjoys
Musical Program

The lovely Easter program presented by the Community Chorus and Beaverton Hobby Orchestra was a fitting climax to the day. A large crowd of around 300 enjoyed every minute of the music presented by the two groups.

The Chorus did the best it has ever done. The interpretation of their director, Willis Cady, gave to the many fine numbers in the cantata, "The King Triumphant" was very moving.

Two new soloists appeared with the chorus on this, their fourth public appearance: Mrs. Ray Bolinger, whose clear soprano voice was perfect for the solos and obligatos within the cantata; and Marble Cook, who did splendidly with the bass solos. The fine voices of Harris Hansen tenor and Mrs. Ruby Johnson, alto, have been enjoyed by those hearing the choir before, and are always welcomed.

Special mention should be made of the work of the conductor for the Beaverton Hobby Orchestra, J. D. Gilmore wrote the entire orchestration of the hymn "Savior Breathe an Evening Blessing" played by the orchestra as a prelude. He showed great understanding of instrumentation in this work as well as skill in leading the orchestra during their playing of the number. The entire congregation enjoyed singing "Christ the Lord Has Risen Today," and "Fairest Lord Jesus" to the accompaniment of the orchestra.

The regular orchestra was supplemented with Frank Martyn playing the bass and Carl Francisco and Carl Corson cellists. These men are regular members of the Portland Hobby Symphony. It is appreciated that they were willing to give their time to help Beaverton's beginning group.

The Beaverton Grade School Parent Teacher Association should take real pride in having started both of these musical groups. That the community is interested in their work was evidenced by the large number attending the program.
