Beaverton Highlights

By KNEPP—

Hugging the slim end of the West-Linn-Beaverton .27-12 victory last week. The local grid men are involved in a 6-way tie for second place in the TYV League standings, after two weeks of League play.

The League standings are as follows:

	Won	Lost	%
1—Forest Grove	2	0	1.000
2—Beaverton	1	1	.500
3—McMinnville	1	1	.500
4—West Linn	1	1	.500
5—Tigard	1	1	.500
6—Hillsboro	1	1	.500
7—Newberg	1	1	.500
8—Tillamook	0	2	.000

(Hillsboro, Newberg tied) Tomorrow BHS travels to McMinnville and according to the statistics, one of the two must drop in the standings. Let's hope it's MAC HI.

The latest fad someone seems to want put over might have something to it.

Available at one of the shops in town are "Beaverette" purses which come all decked out in the school colors. Maybe it'd help the brawny lads on the gridiron to know that their favorite heart throbs were dangling the school colors while they cheered the faltering Beaverton eleven on to victory.

Think it would do the trick?

Great rumblings from the music department tells of a swing band. What's it swinging and where will it send you? Watch next week's column!

DINNER AT OSWEGO

Bird Hunting Hope Looms For County

Hopes of Washington County nimrods to again, in the near future, enjoy the fall thrill of game bird shooting gets an implied shot in the arm with a report from the State Game Commission of its accomplishments in four game farms.

Pheasant liberations for this season have been completed from all four game farms of the Game Commission. The 1947 production was more than 50,000 birds. Total liberations, including breeders, were 48,221 and birds left on hand at the farms total 9,927. The latter, except those birds being held for breeders, are being held in open pens at the Ontario Game Farm for release next spring.

The two Pheasant field rearing projects demonstrated that this year in Linn and Wasco counties produced birds of good quality. In Wasco county 1,700 pheasants were reared in this manner and in Linn county, 665.

Beaverton Ballet Outlook Develops

Somewhere in the hinterlands of Tualatin Valley there might be another Pavlova—artiste of the ballet—and Miss Anita Pienovi, local danseuse, is making a determined effort to locate such talent and bring it to its fullest ballet flowering.

Born and raised in Beaverton, having attended St. Mary's Academy, Miss Pienovi has been conducting her dancing school at home.

Now broadening her scope, she has decided to take registrations from interested pupils and give instructions at the Beaverton Odd Fellows hall.

Talent developed in these classes will be included in programs presented by the Renoux Revue.

Results of the experiment as to the rate of spread and survival of birds will be checked after the hunting season.
