Rev. Russell Thomas, pastor of the Canyon Road Baptist church, was a guest speaker at the Young Adult Fellowship of the First Baptist church in Portland, last Sunday evening and showed motion pictures of the recent cornerstone laying of the Glencullen and Burlingame Baptist churches. He will preach in the Odd Fellows hall, 53 North Broadway, Beaverton, at 11 a. m. on "The New Testament Church: Its Nature, Ordinances, and Worship." Sunday school meets at 9:45.

Junction road is the extension of Ellis ave., where it crosses Canyon road. Everybody is invited to these services.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vaughn, Beaverton, welcomed a husky 8 pound 10 ounce baby boy, Gary Lee, into the family on February 1. The young man made his appearance at the Wilcox Memorial hospital. Club Joins Frolic With Saddleites

Beaverton Saddle club members who attended the dance given by the Washington County Westerners, Sat., Feb. 7, report having had a grand time. There was good music, and during the course of the evening several circle twosteps, a tag waltz and a square dance, so everyone had a chance to get acquainted with other club members.

During the intermission lunch was served in the basement which had been decorated with the club colors. The "traveling trophy" was won by a member of the Washington County Westerners, and will remain in the possession of that club until the next party or dance given by any of the clubs, when all will again have the opportunity of winning it. If any one club wins it three times in succession, it becomes the permanent possession of that club.

Other clubs attending were the Chehalem Mountain Trail Riders, the Ranch Riders and members of the Washington County Posse. There was a good turn out and everyone had an enjoyable evening.

Next meeting of the Beaverton Saddle club will be Thursday evening, Feb. 12, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chet Huddleston.
