

Fred G. Foe

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, April 12, in the First Methodist church of Beaverton for Fred G. Foe, resident of this community for the past 15 years. Mr. Foe had been in poor health for a number of years, suffering especially with heart trouble. He was born in Cowles, Nebraska, November 16, 1879. He married Mable Emily Mills in 1904. Mrs. Foe preceded him in death on October 17, 1947. Their only son, Kenneth, a bombardier in World War II, was killed in action.

Survivors include six daughters, Mrs. Lottie Wilson and Mrs. Phillips McDougall of Beaverton; Mrs. Helen Ready, Salem; Mrs. Veva Loy, Mrs. Aileen Palmer, Mrs. Josephine Patrick all of Colorado; nine grandchildren. Also two brothers and two sisters residing in the east: Mrs. Laura Burr, Miss Olive Foe, Ross and Lynn.

Interment was in Crescent Grove cemetery. Pegg's mortuary in charge.

O. R. Nicholson

Orland Roscoe Nicholson, scrap iron dealer, resident of Beaverton for the past four years, succumbed to a sudden heart attack on Saturday afternoon, in a local garage. Mr. Nicholson was born May 15, 1893 in Hazelpatch, Kentucky and resided most of his years in the southern states.

His survivors include his wife Minnie F. and one son Orland Ross; also three daughters, Mrs. Cohnen Finley, Mrs. Billie Mack Walker of Beaverton and Mrs. Peggy Rae Loerke of Portland; also six grandchildren, David and Linda Finley; Judy, Jerry and Larry Loerke, and Lee Allet Walker.

Pegg's mortuary in care of arrangements.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon, April 14, in the Christian church with vault interment in the Crescent Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Harry Hansen attended a church conference in Portland last Thursday.

TROPHY WINNER

Furthering the ancient Beaver victory tradition, Jack Godwin, junior, carried home a handsome trophy as a token of his prize-winning picture in the photography division of the Northwest Journalism contest in Pacific university at Forest Grove, Friday.

The first place photograph portrayed Sylvia Fricke and Helen Jorgensen mixing a cake in home ec. Over 80 scribes vied for honors, and the other Beaverton entries failed to place. Sweepstakes winner replacing Beaverton was Washington high of Portland.

Y-TEEN PRINCESS

Gracious and friendly Virginia Talbert was selected by the Y-Teens as princess of the Y-Teen's spring formal in the Masonic sunken ballroom at Portland Apr. 24.

Other candidates were Selene Gallien and Jean Turnbull. The queen for the event is chosen from the various schools. Last year Janet Rae Shofner of Beaverton received the distinction.

HAYWARD RELAY

The plug has not yet been pulled from the track bathtub, but the gallopers are grooming for the Hayward relays, Friday and Saturday, on the street with no cracked knees being reported yet. Competition will be keen in the annual shin-dig, and the flat-tails will be out to gain permanent possession of the trophy on which they have twice placed their mark.

DROWNED OUT

Bevo baseballers are all wet. This is meant literally, since practice is being held occasionally despite the sink-or-swim threat. Coach Duncan's charges were drowned out of their last three games, and hopes of playing their scheduled tilt with Newberg are damp.

LEATHER TOSSERS

Beaver beak-busters are training earnestly twice a week under the watchful eyes of fight-fan Mitz Alexander.

Two punching bags have been set up in the new building, where fisticuffs are held. The bags have been taking a brutal beating that would have the ordinary pugilist hearing birdies.

BULL OF THE MAPLE

Behemoth Paul Bell bulled his way over Wilomogostro in a bloody and death-dealing three-man intramural basketball battle, 14-12, last week. Bell muscled 10 markers throughout the hoop as he led his mates to victory and the right to meet Zahler in the championship final.

Paul Oldenburg, Zane Mulhausen, and Jack Godwin, all football lettermen and first string of the Wilomogostro gang, could not cope with the beef of 200 lb. Bell, second string tackle on the gridiron, and mainstay of the intramural loop. Hans Stroeve, another football player, likewise met the floor as he tried to halt the Bell-tide.

LOOKING AHEAD

Wishful thinking juniors have ordered their pins and rings for next year as they contemplate graduation. Prices for the bits of metal are high and the pocket-books of buyers are low.

SEASON OPENER

It was out to the old stand at 24th and Vaughn street for a large number of Portland Beaver railbirds from BHS when school was dismissed for all those desiring to attend the opener, April 14. It was all free for Dick Olsen, junior, since he received two tickets as his reward for winning the Hummer limerick contest.

RISE AND SHINE

Roosters won't be slugged by alarm clocks on the morning of April 22 by BHS sleepers. Instead the snoozers will jump up and rush to school to participate in the biggest brainstorm ever cooked up.

On that eventful dawn at 6 a. m., will be nothing less than a school dance. The novel idea is sponsored by the student council at ropes end to raise 90 dollars and get back on their financial feet.

SONGFEST WINNERS

The mixed chorus of BHS gained the highest rating at the district music festival in Oregon City with A1 which entitles them to go to state April 30. Earning the next best rating of A2, was the girls' and boys' chorus.

F.B.I.—BUSINESS, TOO

Dictaphones are usually associated with crime detection, but in Mrs. Ann Elliott's advanced typing classes the students are tuning in to hear some canned voices dictating business letters. The typists are training for future business uses.

The class will first meet at one o'clock in Kiwanis hall room, at which time a regular meeting day will be set.

The activity is sponsored by the local school district in co-operation with the division of vocational education, Oregon state board of education. Open to any adult wishing the instruction, enrollment may be made by calling the high school. The number of members to be admitted to the course is limited and reservations are asked as soon as possible, in order to permit class planning.

ENDS VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hutchison left Saturday for their home in Vay, Idaho, following their visit at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carlson.
