WEEK DAYS 5-11

OPEN SUNDAY 1-10

Town Team Has First Home Play; Takes Cornelius

With the rain-free sky smiling down, Beaverton's semi-pro town team, in its first home game, romped through a free-scoring, extra inning game with Cornelius, Sunday, May 23, with a final score of 13-12. A fair turnout was present, in observance of the traditional Sunday pastime of baseball fans.

In spite of the free scoring, or perhaps because of it, the game was a crowd pleaser with each team rapping out extra base hits. Bino and Forst, for Cornelius, collected doubles. For Beaverton, Galoway blossomed out with a homer, a double and a single. Bob Voorhees knew his way around with a bat, registering three hits in four times at bat, until he hurt his arm sliding home in the seventh.

Therkelsen proved the hero of the day, in the tenth, when his home run gave the Beaverton townies the one score edge.

Next home game will be the first game of the second half, pitting Beaverton against Forest Grove, the only team to take the local measure in the first half. Time is June 6 at 2:30 p. m. Bleachers have been rigged up, behind the backstop, and fans will have a "Squatch" perch from which to watch proceedings.

Former Resident Conducts Nursery California Town

A clipping from the Fontana NEWS, in California, tells of the activity of Mrs. Agnes Konantz, former Beaverton resident, who conducts a small day nursery in her home.

Mrs. Konantz lived in Beaverton for about ten years and now resides in Fontana with her family, "the Meyers."

In the writeup, Mrs. Konantz is quoted as seeking only six children for nursery care, in order to give them the proper personal attention.

Her home has a nicely equipped nursery and enclosed play-yard, with sand-box and other requirements that a small-fry seeks for recreational pursuits.

Public Campaign For Water Safety Due In Summer

To interest boys and girls and adults in learning how to swim before vacation time, 20 civic groups in Multnomah county are sponsoring a water safety program for the public.

Need for increased education in water safety is proved by the fact that approximately 60 per cent of the nation's 7,000 drownings occur in the period from May through August.

Most drownings happen in water from 7 to 9 feet deep within ten yards from where one can safely stand. The majority of those who drown are boys between the ages of 12 and 20 years—most of them die attempting to show off skills they do not possess. Many drownings also occur as a result of upsets of small craft.

The best way to insure safety in the water this coming summer is to enroll in a swimming course, according to local swimming instructors.

Among the "learn-to-swim" campaigns, open to the public this season are Oregonian-Jantzen beach July 6 to 17; Park Bureau, July 12 to 24; Red Cross at Blue Lake, July 19 to August 13 and East Side YMCA, (beginners only) June 14 to 20.

Pools to be open throughout the summer include Red Cross at Shattuck; Jewish Community Center; YWCA, YMCA, (downtown and eastside), Neighborhood House and Couch school.

Employers May Avoid Grief In Summer Hiring

With many employers to be bombarded in the weeks ahead by vacationing school children wanting summer employment, the U. S. department of labor advises all employers subject to the Fair Labor Standards act (Federal wage and hour law) to obtain age certificates for minors who claim to be one or two years older than the minimum age requirements for the occupation concerned.

General minimum ages for employment, the department points out, is 16 years—with an 18 year minimum for particular occupations held hazardous for children. This ruling applies to minors employed by producers, manufacturers or dealers who deliver for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce.

Operators of fresh fruit and vegetable packing sheds in Oregon are also warned by the federal labor department that vacation employment of 14 and 15 year old children has returned to the limit of 8 hours per day, between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., with a weekly total of 40 hours.

Basic minimum age for employment in a manufacturing process, such as box-making, is 16 years. Employers may avoid grief through unintentional violations of the federal child labor provisions by obtaining age certificates for all minor children under 18 years of age. Such certificates are obtainable from the bureau of labor of the State Wage-Hour commission, with offices in Portland and Salem.

FAMILY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Al Butts were entertained Sunday, May 23 at a family dinner at the home of their son and daughter Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Gilmore. The occasion was the birthday of Mrs. Butts.

Those present were a daughter, Mrs. Levo Best of Beaverton and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Best and son Jimmy of Estacada.

Weather Perils Prospects Fall Pheasant Hunt

In spite of the fact that Oregon's pheasant population is favorable this spring, little hunting can be expected this year if the cold wet weather continues through the rest of May and June. John McKean, in charge of upland birds for the Oregon state game commission, stated that the first broods hatched in the wild state have already been observed by game field agents. He also pointed out that little survival can be expected from these newly hatched birds in cold wet weather.

In eastern Oregon the lateness of the season has delayed the growth of vegetation to such an extent that little nesting cover is available for pheasants and high losses by predation can be expected. Many nesting areas also have been flooded out with high waters throughout the state.

C. A. Lockwood, Oregon state game supervisor, announced that plans call for the rearing and releasing of 60,000 pheasants this season at the commissioner's game farms. The wet cold weather, however, has hindered propagation of pheasants as well as the reproduction in the wild state.

G I Farm Trainees Also Qualify For Boost In Ceiling

Most of the 3,200 Pacific Northwest veterans taking farm training under the GI bill may qualify for increased subsistence from the Veterans Administration due to recent changes in income ceilings, subsistence rates and dependency status of GI students.

Under the new ceilings for GI farm trainees, earned income plus subsistence may now total $210 a month with no dependents, $270 with one dependent and $290 with two or more. Previous ceilings were $175 a month for veterans with his dependents and $200 with dependents. Veterans taking institutional on-farm training will receive proportionate increases in subsistence pay for time devoted to school instruction in conjunction with actual farm work. Subsistence will be based on the new VA allowance of $75 a month for single veterans, $105 for those with one dependent and $120 for two or more.

Amount of subsistence increase to farm trainees will equal a proportionate difference between subsistence rates authorized veterans in job training and those in school. A minimum of 300 hours yearly of school instruction for farm trainees is considered by the VA to equal one-fourth of a full-time school or college course.

Veterans are requested not to write or contact VA officers about the pay increases as most of them will be made automatically by the VA.

MYERS' HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Buffum have bought the Walter Myers home on Third and Washington street. The Myers are leaving soon for California where Mr. Myers' work will be.

Vets On School Subsistence Nix For "52-20" Club

Readjustment allowances under the G-I bill of rights will be available to veterans during summer vacations only after their school subsistence allowances have expired and they are actively in the labor market for suitable jobs. This warning was issued today by Silas Gaiser, administrator for the Oregon unemployment compensation commission, which thru its 32 local offices accepts claims and administers the readjustment allowance program under arrangements with the veterans' administration.

Many of the 13,500 veterans now attending Oregon colleges and 10,000 others in schools and one-the-job training are expected to accept seasonal jobs in food processing, harvests, construction and lumbering. Between two and three thousand will leave schools to enter the labor market permanently.

"We are anxious to have all former service men and women understand that their educational allowances, which often extend two weeks beyond the school year, must have ended before they become eligible for unemployment benefits," said Mr. Gaiser.

"When claims are taken in our local offices, all earnings or allowances for the weekly period must be reported by veterans or other workers."

"These claimants—whether under the federal or state program—not only must be able and available for job opportunities that are offered in their communities, but they must be actively seeking work. This was added to the state's unemployment law by the 1947 legislature."

Currently about 5,000 Oregon veterans are being paid readjustment allowances because they are unable to find suitable jobs.

Silage Field Day Held on May 27 Reedville Farm

Five makes of grass silage feed choppers and related equipment were demonstrated in Washington county at a grass silage field day on the David Hagg & Sons farm located one mile south of Reedville, May 27, announced Palmer S. Torvend, county agent.

Much interest was shown in the field day Torvend reports especially in view of the fact that late spring rains are proving that putting up the first crop of hay as silage is insurance against spoiled hay or postponed cutting. Grass silage will save up to 16 percent more protein and 8 percent more dry matter than when the same forage crop is made into field dried hay, Torvend emphasized.

Equipment manufacturers who took part in the field day also furnished blowers and molasses pumps.

Dry Days Ahead Says Co. Agent--Prepare For It

The spring has been unusually wet and unusually late but we can be sure that the dry season is still ahead, says Palmer S. Torvend, county agent. Under these circumstances, working the ground as soon as it is possible in such a way that it will hold moisture when the dry season comes is very important.

Ground that can be rough-worked on top will dry and warm up more quickly than soil that is not worked. Farmers who have irrigation equipment should check it over, if they have not already done so, to see that the necessary repairs to motor, pumps and pipe lines have been made so that it will be ready to put into operation as soon as needed.

Where heavy volunteer crops are growing on the soil, through discing before plowing will cut up the crop so that it will work under better than if it is plowed without disking.

If the crop growth is not worked in this summer it will have a tendency to cause a break in the capillary action in the soil at the plow sole depth when dry weather comes.

VISIT THE DALLES

Mr. and Mrs. G. Heughen Sr. spent the weekend at The Dalles, visiting their son, Roy Heughen and family and daughter Mrs. Roy Ault and family.

Weather permitting, Mr. and Mrs. Heughen will leave this week end on a business trip to the coast.

LODGES TO CHURCH

Accepting an invitation extended by Rev. Everett Bowers, the Beaverton Lodge 252, Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodge 248 will be guests of the First Methodist church of Beaverton on Sunday, May 30, being Memorial day. Both lodges are to meet at the Odd Fellows hall and will leave in a body to attend the 11 a. m. service of worship.

An appropriate recognition of those who have left us in the past year is being arranged. The sermon of the morning hour will be entitled "To What End Could We Better Memorialize Than Unto This?"

HAZELDALE GRADS

On Wednesday evening, May 19 patrons and friends of the Hazeldale school district were present for the final exercises of the year in which Mrs. V. E. Maffitt, principal of the Hazeldale school, presented a class of six boys to Mr. Remington of the local school board for their diplomas of graduation.

The speaker of the evening was the Rev. Everett L. Bowers, pastor of the Methodist church in Beaverton who addressed the class and their guests on the subject, "The Seven Lamps of Education."
