

PGE Newspaper ADS Win Award In Nat'l Contest

For a series of 18 newspaper advertisements which featured Oregonians using appliances and electricity supplied by the Portland General Electric company, national award has been given in a contest of 1947 for which 35 other utilities of the country had competed.

For 1948, newspaper advertising by PGE seeks to acquaint Oregonians with the bounties of their state, by a series which covers everything from rainfall to religion. Also prominent in the current program is the desire to inform its more than 180 thousand customers in Willamette valley of the part the company is playing in the growth and development of Oregon.

Vet Admin. Opens Door to Doctors And Specialists

Openings for more than a score of doctors are now available in Veterans Administration hospitals and regional offices in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, the VA has announced.

The vacancies have been created by the recent release of most of the Army and Navy physicians detailed to duty with the VA during the past two years.

Particularly needed immediately are several general physicians, specialists in diseases of the chest, specialists in anesthesiology and psychiatrists.

Doctors who receive appointments to the VA departments of medicine and surgery receive an annual salary ranging upward from $4149 with minimum requirements, to $11,000 with full qualifications. Certified specialists receive an additional 25 percent of their base pay. VA physicians are entitled to 30-days leave with pay each year in addition to other benefits established under the VA department of medicine and surgery.

Physicians interested in the VA medical positions should contact the nearest VA hospital or the Director, Medical Service, Veterans Administration Branch No. 11, Exchange Building, Seattle 4, Wn.

State 4-H Clubs Seek To Reduce Nat'l. Death Toll
"Make Safety Our No. 1 Crop." That's the 1948 slogan of 4-H club boys and girls throughout the nation to help reduce the annual toll of 18,000 deaths and 1 1/2 million injured on farms, due to accidents.

Many members are taking active part in the National 4-H Farm Safety awards program, which is being continued in Oregon under the direction of the extension service for the sixth consecutive year.

Among the members' activities to safeguard their families against accidents are removing or correcting hazards on their farmsteads. Their safety measures include nailing down loose boards in homes and barns; covering open wells and water tanks; properly storing tools exercising care in operating machinery on farms and automobiles on highways, to mention only a few.

As incentives for superior records in farm safety work, awards are again offered this year by General Motors. They comprise sterling silver medals to five winners in each county and a merit plaque to the state championship county. Each state's champion will receive a trip to the Chicago 4-H Club Congress next November. Eight state winners selected to receive national honors will each receive a $200 college scholarship.

Many Employers Safe From Back Pay Liabilities

Many employers who have paid time and a half for work performed on Saturdays, Sundays or holidays, or for hours actually outside the normal or regular working hours, and have treated the extra pay as an overtime premium, are in many cases protected from any resulting back-wage liabilities, according to John R. Dille, regional director in the 8 Western states for the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor, in commenting upon the recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court on the so-called "overtime on overtime" case of the stevedoring industry.

"Under the decision," he said, "extra pay by contract or statute for hours worked in any day or week in excess of a bona fide standard is not part of the base wages on which overtime must be computed under the Fair Labor Standards Act (Federal wage and hour law). Such excess payment can be credited toward the overtime compensation required by the Act for hours worked in excess of 40 in any workweek.

"In consequence, the fears being expressed in some quarters that such excess payments could not be offset against the requirements of the Act have proven to be unfounded.

"Except for the stevedoring industry, there should not be any significant back-wage liabilities growing out of the decision.

"The essence of the Supreme Court ruling is that an employee who receives a higher wage rate because of undesirable hours or disagreeable work is entitled to be paid for work beyond 40 hours in a workweek at time and one-half figured on his actual pay, but that extra pay received for working long hours is not a part of the regular rate and can be credited against the overtime pay required by the wage and hour law."

Invasion May Be Stopped by Spray
It is time to spray or dust for the cherry fruit fly which has begun to emerge, according to Joe Cox, assistant county agent. Either dusting or spraying is effective against the fruit fly. Recommended sprays and dusts are as follows:

1. Two and a half pounds acid lead arsenate in water to make 100 gallons of spray. To this material add a commercial spreader or a homemade spreader which is as follows: Two quarts skimmed milk and four ounces hydrated lime.

2. A dust containing 10 parts of acid lead arsenate and 90 parts of finely divided sulphur (325 mesh or finer). Hydrated lime may be substituted for sulphur in this dust mixture.

3. Rotenone, containing 3 pounds of 4 percent rotenone extract, 2 1/2 gallons molasses in water to make 100 gallons of spray, or 2 1/2 percent rotenone extractives to 1 1/2 quarts emulsible oil in 100 gallons of water.

4. A poisoned bait spray consisting of 5 pounds acid lead arsenate, and 5 gallons molasses in water to make 100 gallons of spray.

Fungicides for brown rot or leaf spot control may be added to formula number one with the spreader omitted.

With formulas number 1, 2 and 3, a complete cover with the spray or dust is essential. It requires approximately 45 pounds of dust per acre to dust average-sized cherry trees.

If formula number 4 is used, this spray is applied as a bait and in no way should be interpreted as a cover spray. This spray should be repeated at weekly intervals and every portion of the trees treated with some of the bait. Avoid spraying the cherry fruit if possible to prevent excessive residue.

Regardless of the spray used, the first spray should be applied when the first fruit flies begin to emerge. The second spray is timed about two weeks after the first spray.

Inquiry on Rates Protects Against GI Tuition Gouge
Tuition rates charged by private schools for the training of veterans under the GI bill are being reviewed by the veterans administration to eliminate and correct abuses in tuition fees.

New VA contracts with these schools, which go into effect July 1, are designed to provide firmer control of tuition rates. The new regulations do not cover public or non-profit schools, or long-established schools whose tuition charges have remained the same since the start of the GI training program.

However, the VA's new regulations require all schools established since the passage of the GI bill, and those whose tuition charges are not excessive.

Many Discharges Lost in Flood by Vanport Veterans

The value to war veterans of recording their military discharges in the county court house was poignantly brought out by the recent Vanport disaster, where countless numbers of these documents are presumed to have been lost, the Oregon department of veterans' affairs said this week.

For those veterans who had recorded their discharges, there should be no delay in applying for GI benefits or other rights to which they may be entitled, because photostats may be obtained easily from the county recorder. These are bona fide copies and can be used for virtually all occasions where proof of military service is required.

Those who neglected to have their discharges recorded will find it necessary to apply for a certificate in lieu of lost discharge, which usually results in considerable delay because the applications must be processed in Washington, D. C.

Approximately 2600 veteran families were flooded out at Vanport, besides many in other lowland areas. While no one knows how many lost their discharges in the disaster, nor how many had neglected to record their discharges, it is assumed by counselors in the Portland office of the department of veterans' affairs that hundreds were caught short, judging from the numbers applying daily for certificates in lieu of lost discharge papers.

There is no charge, in any county in Oregon, for recording discharge certificates, and veterans are urged to take advantage of this service because it provides a permanent record of military duty and makes it easy to obtain copies when circumstances demand swift service.

Student Vets Of First World War Favor Marriage
Ninety percent of the members of the class of 1923, Oregon State college which held a silver jubilee reunion here commencement week end, are married and average just under two children per family, according to a survey made of class members in connection with the reunion. About 12 percent of the married members have no children though those who do have up to a maximum of six. Boys outnumber girls among the children in about the proportion of three to two.

The class of 1923 was the post-war class of World War I, corresponding somewhat to the class that entered college the fall of 1946 after World War II. Unlike the latter, however, only a small fraction of the earlier class members was married before leaving college, while it is estimated that at least a third of the World War II vets are married while in college.
