New 4-H Club Awards Stress Farm Forestry

FARM OWNERS 30%	OTHER SMALL OWNERS 27%	LARGE OWNERS 18%	PUBLIC 25%
--------------------	---------------------------	---------------------	---------------

The importance of farm forestry in America is stressed by the fact that farmers own the greatest single share of commercial woodlands. A 4-H club forestry project, symbolized by the young man planting a seedling, offers awards to spur interest in farm forestry.

The stake of farm boys and girls in the woodlands of this state, and of America as a whole, is emphasized by new national and state awards for a 4-H club project in forestry, which include medals for state winners, and scholarships and trips for regional winners.

Four-H club members in this community, interested in forestry, are eligible to compete for these awards which include:

A gold medal for the state winner.

One of four regional $200 cash scholarships.

One of four trips to the next 4-H club congress in Chicago.

The four areas in which regional awards are being made are the West, South, Central states and Northeast.

The sponsor for these awards is the American Forest Products Industries, a national association of lumber, pulp and paper, plywood and other forest industries.

"Good forest practices on the nation's farms are of major importance," declares Col. William B. Greeley, chairman of the American Forest Products Industries. "Farmers own a greater share of the nation's woodlands than any other group. With our uses for wood increasing almost daily, we must see to it that our harvests of trees are sufficient to meet the needs of our growing population. This means markets for wood, and this means greater and permanent opportunities for farmers who manage their woodlands for continuing forest crops."

National surveys show that farmers own 30 per cent of the nation's 460 million acres of commercial forest land. Other owners of small tracts own 27 per cent. Medium and large owners have about 18 per cent of the total, and the public owns about 25 per cent.

Information about the 4-H club forestry project may be obtained from your county extension agent.

METHODIST RETREAT

A good crowd attended the 4th annual all Methodist Church Retreat on Sunday after church and Sunday School.

At the Romig Seven Acres a pot luck dinner was served after which all gathered around a camp fire for fun and fellowship.

The children sang a number of their Sunday School songs. Ice cream and watermelon were served.

DINE AT SIX O'CLOCK

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cavanes entertained on Thursday evening at a six o'clock dinner in their garden.

The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Walker, of Canyon Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Jene Hilby of Jennings Lodge.

SPRAINED KNEE

Mrs. Alice Handley had the misfortune to fall and sprain her knee. She has been confined to her bed the past week.

GERI LOU LUTZ

Great is the rejoicing in the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Lutz, 293 N. E. Murray avenue, at the arrival, via Wilcox Memorial hospital, of Geri Lou, a charming 7 pound, 14 ounce baby daughter, on July 21. The young lady is the third in the family, with two sisters, aged 10 and 12, to help watch over her.

Handing out cigars and telling the good news, Mr. Lutz had his mind far removed, for one day, from his business of distributing dried fruits.

The mother and baby are reported doing well.

MOTOR TO MAINE

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Perkins have returned to their home after a six weeks motor trip to Maine, stopping on the way at Niagara Falls. They were the guests of relatives and friends who gave them a surprise party just before they returned.

While in Maine they made a trip to Quebec and to Boston. They returned home by the way of Lake Champlain, Ontario and the Black Hills.

Seven Girls From Beaverton Attend Camp Adahi

Attending the "Pirates Alley" session of the Campfire Girls Camp Adahi, near Gales Creek, are seven girls from Beaverton, Dorothy Cobb, Joan Eastham, Sunny Sanborn, Sylvia Kain, Marilyn Martin, Phyllis Mead and Patricia Huddleston.

The summer camp is located on the Robert Warrens' bulb farm in a wooded section which provides ideal recreation. Six cabins, named Cedar, Maple, Alder, Hazel, Fir Pine and Wit's End are provided for living space.

A senior or junior counselor is assigned to each cabin, in which there are eight built in bunks, no windows and a Dutch door. All are situated in secluded spots.

"Magic Land of Oz" session for the Blue Birds, concluded last week. The youngsters in this group built a play theater and arranged a decorative base for the flag pole. Twelve learned to swim and all the girls showed improvement by water training.

Honors awarded to the girl who can identify every girl in camp by name went to Veleta Vanderzanden, Velma Haley, Jean Millet and Mary Casey. Session honors and first aid awards went to all the week's campers.

Joan Miner, dramatics counselor and a graduate of Puget Sound college, directed two plays, "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp" and "Rumpelstiltskin," in which the girls not only played all parts but designed costumes and settings as well.

To Learn Quality Check Weight of Filling in Pillow

Few women bargain hunters buy their household pillows by the pound apparently, but there would be profit in it if more did.

If the weight of the pillow is not printed on an accompanying label, weigh the pillow before buying, suggests Mrs. Myrtle Carter, O. S. C. extension specialist in clothing and textiles. The standard size pillow, measuring 21 by 27 inches, will vary in weight according to the grade of filling. Filled with chicken feathers, a pillow will weigh about three and one-half pounds; a high grade goose feather pillow will weigh approximately two and one-half pounds. Down filled pillows will weigh about one and three-quarters pounds, Mrs. Carter states.

Down is used in the highest quality pillows. Goose feathers rank highest among feather pillow fillings. The difference between white and gray goose feathers is merely a matter of supply and demand. White feathers are more scarce, hence higher in price.

Mrs. Carter says weight alone will not suffice in determining pillow quality. Before making a purchase, test the pillow for fullness by shaking down the filling.

If three or four inches of cover are empty after shaking, the filling is short.

Odor is another particularly unattractive quality in some pillows. Shake and pat the pillow watching for dust particles. Check for stiff quills and matted feathers.

Good pillows have buoyancy, Mrs. Carter adds. As a test, she suggests a pillow be held in the palm of the hand. Good ones stay plump and hold their shape. Sagging indicates insufficient filling.

Resiliency is tested by pressing down in the middle of the pillow. The more quickly it rebounds, the better the grade of filling used, Mrs. Carter states.
