Other bids, in order were Rasmussen Garage, $3283.36; Wolfard (via Logan-Page) $2999.95 and Hamby Motors of Hillsboro $3304.10.

Thirty-three Ask Removal Of City Mgr.

COUNCIL MEETS AT 6:30 WEDNESDAY IN SPECIAL SESSION

A battered petition, bearing the signatures of some thirty-three signers, was presented to the Beaverton city council at its special meeting of October 11, calling for the removal from office of city manager Maurice M. Romig, in favor of a "successful city manager" or a "successful engineer."

Reason for the request was given as the imminence of the city's sewer construction.

Mayor Paul Knepp, receiving the petition, read the grievance and passed it among council members. Simultaneously, a letter was handed in from the city manager requesting the discharge of city recorder L. J. Busse, on a charge of "inefficiency."

Taking note of the delegation present at the meeting, which numbered about 24, Mayor Knepp called for an expression on behalf of the petition. Although time and opportunity was given, no statement was given in behalf of the signed protest, although some declarations were made in behalf of the city manager and the job he has done since taking office.

Former councilman Wright, declaring the two matters were such as to concern the council only and not to include the representation at the meeting, did not succeed in stopping the mayor's offer.

Knepp declared that, while the decision would rest with the city council, in a closed meeting, those who signed the petition had every right to be publicly heard. Even with this invitation, however, no one spoke further on the matter of the city manager's removal.

A special session of the city council has been called for 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the city hall. It will be a closed meeting except for a representative of the BEAVERTON ENTERPRISE.

At this session, the two matters are due for council action.

State Hiway Commission Endangers Business Firms

CANYON ROAD WIDENING PLANS DESIGNATE 15 INCH CURBS; THREATEN DRIVE-IN TRADE

The welfare of business firms situated along Canyon Road is in high jeopardy by plans of the State Highway Commission to install fifteen inch curbs along the borders of the widened roadway. Beaverton city council in its special meeting of October 11, was warned of this plan and requested to take necessary steps to prevent this interference with drive-in trade.

Engineering plans, which may be seen at the office of the city manager, provide for curbs within the city limits of Beaverton some six inches above the surface of the road. Some allowance is made for entry from the highway to most places of business but merchants and business men point out they are not sufficient to allow easy access.

In some cases, there are breaks in the curb of ten, fifteen or twenty-five feet—one to a place of business—which are called potential traffic hazards and insufficient for the customary volume of trade.

Hard hit in this situation are Kelly Motors, Speedy Freeze, Gregory Service Station, Skyway Cafe, Beaverton Body Shop, Schuld and Sweetland Service Station, Highway Tire Service and others.

Widening of the road will cut the front space of Kelly Motors to an alarming degree. Added to that the prospect of a high curb and only one entrance, the firm's business potential, particularly for the sale of gasoline, will be hard hit. Skyway Cafe, in a sim-

Program for Prevention Of Fire Ends

JAYCEES CONCLUDE ACTIVITIES HEXED BY RAINY WEATHER

This week, the Beaverton Junior Chamber of Commerce has set about to wind up its program dedicated to impressing the message of fire prevention upon the community. Original schedule was disrupted when the weather turned wet and rainy.

On Tuesday afternoon, blessed with rare Indian Summer sunshine, the Jaycee boys and members of Beaverton's volunteer fire department dressed up fire hydrants of the community with a bright coat of yellow paint.

Home inspection blanks, which were distributed through the city schools, have been sorted and turned over to the fire department for whatever action may be required.

An official scrapbook is being compiled on the fire prevention campaign and when completed will be entered in the state Junior Chamber of Commerce, at the time of the organization's statewide convention, to be held in Baker during February.

The Beaverton group considers its campaign highly successful in its aim of alerting the community against carelessness and stressing the advantages of fire prevention. Their program included inspection of business houses and homes, a series of films exhibited at the local theater, schools and other meetings, in addition to bombing the area with handbills from the air and distribution of pamphlets and posters in business places.

The Jaycees express sincere appreciation to merchants, schools and others in the community for the broad cooperation given in carrying out the campaign.

In addition to generating much favorable response from townspeople with their efforts, the Junior Chamber of Commerce attained seven new members, bringing its total rolls to 37.

Norblad Charges Russia Follows Hitler Pattern

Russia today is following the same pattern of that great master, Adolf Hitler, in needling small European countries until she has taken over a vast part of Europe without firing a shot, Walter Norblad, Astoria, United States representative, told the Forest Grove-Hillsboro chapter of the AAUW at their luncheon meeting Saturday in the Peter Boscow school in Hillsboro.

Representative Norblad is a member of the armed services committee, which has most to do with the Central Intelligence Agency of the federal government. Last year he was selected as a member of a four-man committee to travel to all parts of the world to investigate conditions. All over the world they are afraid of the Communists, Representative Norblad observed, and all talk is of when the Soviets will attack.

"Russia doesn't want war at the present time," Mr. Norblad declared, "because she currently does not have the ability to make war. During World War II she employed the scorched-earth policy to prevent anything from falling into German hands. Stalingrad, for example, was left in shambles. However, war with Russia is very possible within the next four or five years."

In order to do something about it, Congress has done two things. The first is the increase in the defense budget and the second is the passage of the Marshall plan, the Economic Cooperation Administration, which has been substituted for the ERP.

"We must keep friends with the small countries," Congressman Norblad emphasized, "so that we can use them as buffer states against Russia. The ECA was passed not as a relief program but with the idea of rehabilitating and building up these buffer states so that they can build up their military strength."

The plans are to be so drawn that the cost of the trunk sewer portion which will serve as a collecting system can be apportioned to benefited property in the sewer district through which it passes and which district it is to serve partially as a collecting sewer.

John W. Cunningham and Associates, working with the city manager, is authorized to plan the sewer system in order to best serve the purpose for which it is designed.

Because the city is desirous of constructing the sewer system at the earliest possible date and because it is necessary for the health and safety of the people in the city that the work be completed as soon as possible, the council declares an emergency and the ordinance became effective on October 11, date of its passage and approval by the mayor.

To be acted upon at the next meeting of the council will be Ordinance 263 which authorizes the city council to lay out and establish sewer districts and collection systems. Such collection systems may be established in and upon private property, which can be condemned for such public purposes under the laws of the state of Oregon.

In the establishment of such districts, hearings will be duly held and advertised, at which time all protests will be received. This procedure will be the same as for the opening of streets, with viewers to be appointed to assess damages and benefits.

At last Monday's meeting, basis of considering assessments in proportion to the distance from property lines to sewer connection were discussed. Under this plan, property owners who must cross a street to make a connection would not be assessed as much as would a property owner against whose property line the collection line is installed.

After presenting the ordinances, the city attorney advised the council that he would like to withdraw from his post because of pressing business, although he promised to continue with the sewer work for as long as necessary.
