

Religious Film Sunday April 3 Public Invited

St. Matthew Lutheran Church, Canyon Road and Johnson Road, is inviting the entire community on Sunday evening, April 3 at 7 p.m. to the showing of the film, "The Great Commandment."

The congregation is among the first in this area to obtain this film which has only recently been released for 16 mm equipment. It is a Hollywood-made, one and a half hour feature length film starring John Beal, Maurice Moscovitch and Albert Decker.

The story revolves around the activities of Joel, leader of the youthful and fiery Zealots, sworn to wipe out Roman rule. Terror reigns in Judea and the spirit of revolt is rife. Seeking out Jesus in the hope of finding a King to lead his people out of Roman oppression, Joel learns that those who live by the sword die by the sword and that love is the only true key to the kingdom of God.

The story of "The Great Commandment" deftly blending thrilling drama with magnificent inspiration, will appeal to all age groups. Eloquently, and with tremendous meaning, it recreates with fidelity and sincerity the teachings of our Lord who came to reveal to us the greatness of charity and the power of mercy.

There will be no admission charge but an offering will be taken.

Sadie L. Keller

Mrs. Sadie Leota Keller of Rte. 1, Bx 28, Forest Grove, passed away in Beaverton March 28. Services were held in the Pegg Chapel, Beaverton, on Wednesday March 30th at 1:30 p.m. Interment was at Crescent Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Keller was born February 2, 1889 in Iowa. She had lived at Forest Grove for the past 2 years 8 months and had lived in the state of Oregon for the past ten years. The family first lived in Portland for seven years, then in Carlton for about a year and then they moved to Forest Grove. Mr. Keller is employed by the Carlton Nursery.

Survivors include the husband, Edward Keller of Forest Grove and 8 surviving children: Everett Keller of Burtum, Minn.; Russell Keller, Medford; Mrs. Leota Compton, Portland; Harold Keller, Woodburn; Lloyd Keller, Waterloo, Iowa; Howard Keller, of Burtum, Minn.; Harry Keller, Maynard, Minn. and Mrs. Edith Sanchez of Forest Grove; fourteen grandchildren; three brothers and one sister: Clarence Weatherly, Liscomb, Iowa; Tim Weatherly, Lansford, N.D.; Mrs. Roxy Dunkin of Miles City, Montana and Foster Weatherly of Minneapolis, Minn.

BUS DIFFICULTY
The patrons of the Oregon Motor Stages on Farmington Road have taken up the matter of transportation with the P.U.C. in Salem as there have been no buses for 2 months, according to report.

TRADE LANES

Reminder from Havana comes to Mrs. Mary Dean, this week, from Havana, Cuba, where Mitz and LaMerne Alexander are currently visiting. By now, the well-known Beaverton globe-trotters have probably picked up a beautiful suntan and pine only for their friends of Beaverton, not the weather. The tokens sent are little souvenir cups.

Heavy ride the worries on the brow and shoulders of Jim Duncan, these days, with the Beaverton Business Men's Association getting bigger and stronger every day. Jim is secretary-treasurer and has to look out for at least 35 active members whose interests he helps serve.

Wagon wheels or truck tires. The migration will be the same from Starkie's Tot Shop, within a month, when Starkie opens up another shop in McLain Village in Cedar Mill Park.

Wishing might make it so—earlier. So might be the reason for Beaverton Pharmacy's Fairchild looking so wishfully at every nail going into the new home across the street.

The West Slope Bakery, in the Cunardi Drive emporium, runs to three the establishments open and doing business. Others so far are Chez Suzy (sorry, can't accent the Y, this time) and the Commercial Bank of Oregon.

Strawberries are fresh and juicy and corn glows on the cob at Teresi. At the Thrifty Market, Swiftling is nestling down to OPA prices, proving something—if you can look deep and far enough to find out what.

At Millers, Glo-Coat special helps us see ourselves as we are... which might or might not do the trick. Safeway finally comes to the front with a new frozen food set-up, making use of the most modern advance toward eating pleasure that there is.

If its regularly priced or marked down, the quality is there, says Lloyd Selfridge, manager of the Beaverton Furniture, while chewing the fat over his tremendous mark-down sale this week.

Shadyside Notes
Upsurge In Call
To Folk Dancing

Popular response to folk dancing in the Tualatin Valley has shown a definite upsurge, reports Mrs. A. L. Raymond, Route 2, Cornelius, who manages the Shadyside dance hall 5 miles south of Forest Grove.

The dance hall, which is used on Tuesday, Friday and Sunday as a skating rink, is usually well attended on Saturday nights when the "Mountain Jennies" give forth with their versions of old time and modern dancing.

Carter Lippencott, from St. Paul, Oregon, has been engaged to call the dances. He will also instruct in such goings on as quadrille, polka, schottische, two step, three step, rye waltz, habbo, tuxedo and any of the many do-se-do didoes.

For those who demand modern music the Mountain Jennies are ready to serve. Mostly female, this band includes crack vocal artists who add a lot of side issues to the musical matter at hand.

Dist. Talkathon Names Winners To State Finals

Six Beaverton high school speakers will represent the Northwest district, composed of Yamhill, Tillamook and Washington counties, in the annual Oregon speech finals April 8-9 on the OSC campus.

Speakers are: Jack Jones and John Jacobs, oratory; Jim Moore extempore; Paul Choban, impromptu; Bob Casteel, panel discussion and Carol Taylor, after dinner speaking.

The district forensic finals were held Saturday, March 26 at Beaverton high school under the supervision of E. G. Webb, speech coach at Beaverton high and district director this year. Two entrants in each contest were chosen to represent the district in the state finals.

Elaine Furby, Mary Kramlin, Marge Foryth and Bill Pifer, of Hillsboro are the four man team to compete with other district-chosen teams April 8-9.

District winners also from Hillsboro include Joanne Voges, radio speaking; Marge Foryth, impromptu; Bob Bates, extempore; Kathie Owen, humorous interpretation; Earl Olson and John Jensen, poetry reading.

Harold Toliver won honors in panel discussion while Donna Jean Meier took humorous interpretation awards. Both students are from McMinnville high school.

Charles Burgess won out in after dinner speaking while Eddie Johnson placed in radio speaking. Both are from Newberg. Sherwood, Forest Grove and Tillamook also entered contestants in the district finals but no speaker from these schools qualified for the state finals.

SAFE IN YOKOHAMA
Mrs. Robert G. Shepherd and children arrived safely at Yokohama, Japan, although they had a very rough voyage. This word was received last week by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cavaness.
