BPWC Sponsors Local Candidate In Goddess Race

DOLORES CARLSON

Sponsored by the Beaverton Business and Professional Women's club as candidate for Goddess of Liberty honors, at Hillsboro's Happy Days celebration, July 1, 2, 3 and 4 is Miss Dolores Carlson, high school senior.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Floyd Carlson, 357 Second Street, Beaverton.

Other candidates from the east end of the county include Margaret Powne, 1949 graduate of Beaverton high school, representing the American Legion Auxiliary unit 124; Catherine Stout, daughter of Mrs. Gertrude Fackler, Route 3, Beaverton sponsored by the Hazeldale Happy Hour Club and Carolyn Ego, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ego, Route 1, Newberg, nominated by the junior and senior women's clubs of Scholls.

Lodge Conducts Last Rites For Sanford Rogers

Funeral services for Sandford Rogers, 83, who passed away in the hospital on the morning of June 16, were conducted at the Young Funeral Home in Hillsboro May 20, under the auspices of the Beaverton IOOF lodge 252. Reverend Henry Young officiated.

Mr. Rogers was born September 25, 1866, in Rush county, Indiana. He had been a contractor and carpenter in the Aloha vicinity for many years and had helped out in the office of the late C. J. Stickney, realtor, for the last 10 years. He retired about a year ago when his wife needed his care and in his last months had suffered ill health.

Besides his wife, Anna Mae, he leaves a son who was not able to attend the funeral and an aged sister in California.

Thomas E. Isaacs was soloist at the services and pallbearers included F. L. Humberg, Bill Bollinger, E. Smith, Sam Taylor and A. Maly. The lodge presented concluding services at the graveside in Hillsboro cemetery.

Volunteers For Rec Program Is Jaycees' Project

Assistance to the Beaoverton area summer recreation program has been endorsed by the Beaverton junior chamber of commerce, according to Mrs. Mildred Miller, supervisor of the play program. Special effort of the group will be made to line up sufficient volunteer leadership to help make recreation plans more effective.

Tom Fohl, under the Jaycees endorsement, will take over the softball periods on Tuesday and Thursday, 7 p.m. on the grade school field. Dick Lloyd, also of the junior chamber, will instruct in tumbling, each Friday at 3 p.m.

In the dancing division of the program, Mrs. Clem Lawson has agreed to play the piano. Mrs. Velda McGann has volunteered her services in the office on Monday to allow expansion and continuation of the dance department.

Teen-agers are busily decorating the grade school gymnasium for their big dance on June 24. Theme of the event will be "Civilization" and this will be carried out in a setting of half jungle and half skyscrapers. Juke box music will be provided. Dress will be informal (but not of the stone age era). No charge will be made for admission of high school teen-agers.

CONTEST POTLUCK

The Beaverton American Legion Auxiliary and Post enjoyed a pot luck dinner Wednesday evening. The dinner was given to the winning side in the membership drive the Auxiliary sponsored this year with Mrs. Olive Ramsdell and Mrs. Adeline Frost as captains.

Mrs. Ramsdell, captain of the losing side had charge of the dinner.

The Beaverton Post and Unit will install new officers Wednesday, July 6.

Co. 4-H Members Elected To Summer School Offices

THREE TOP ELECTIVE OFFICES were taken by Washington county 4-H club members attending the thirty-fourth annual 4H club summer school on the Oregon State college campus.

Of presidents elected for 34 living groups, three of them are from Washington county. They are shown talking with Joe Cox, extreme right, Washington county 4-Hclub extension agent.

Enrollment at summer school this year is 1848—1202 girls and 646 boys, and as usual, the youngsters represent all 36 Oregon counties as well as the City of Portland.

Gales Brothers Purchase Flatts Furniture Store

At the start of the week, June 20, Robert L. Gales and Lawrence M. Gales assumed full ownership of the Canyon Road store of Flatts Furniture and will operate under the name and fame of Gales Furniture company, at the Haskell Center location.

Bob Gales, who will act as manager of the partnership, has had fifteen years experience and had managed the Flatt estblishment during its two and one-half years of business at Beaverton. His brother Lawrence was also associated with the company.

The new firm will carry the same lines as before in living room and dining room furniture as well as floor coverings of all kinds. Special feature will be custom built overstuffed furniture which will be especially made to fit the need of an individual room as to color, size and styling.

"We have great faith in the future growth and development of the entire Beaverton area," Bob declares. "In the years of our activity here, we have enjoyed serving the people of the community so much that we were happy of the opportunity to stay here and grow along with the Future."

Store hourse are announced as from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily and until 9 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays.

Teen Age Center Reading Public Opening June 29

Pointing to the scheduled public inspection of June 29 and 30, the Teen Age Center in the Beaverton grange hall shapes up fast, according to Ed Kenney, advisor of the program.

The main portion of the painting job has been completed and the front of the building will also be refinished. Sanding of floors was scheduled to begin on Wednesday and all the work is done by teen-agers under adult supervision.

The great need for the center, Mr. Kenney says, is for adequate furniture. Although it will not be allowed to delay the opening the lack will be a real problem.

Juke box "Coke" bar, sandwich bar and shuffleboard are all arranged. Addition to equipment still being sought is a serviceable pool table and a ping pong table.

PLEASE VOTE HE SAYS

Mayor Jeffries, who should know the state of city finances, urges all qualified residents of the city to be sure and vote in the city election of June 29.

Jt. Dist. 10 To Elect 2 Directors

At the annual school board meeting and election of joint union high school district 10, June 27, two candidates will be named to the board of directors, one for five years and the other for two years.

Candidates filed at presstime include Harris Hansen, running from McKay district 18; George Gordon, incumbent, from Aloha-Huber district 107; and Don Williams, of Garden Home district, 92.

Mr. Williams was an active worker in his community for its annexation to the union high school district.

Mr. Gordon is well known in the union high school district, lives at Aloha and is engaged in piano tuning. He is running for re-election to his present position on the joint district board.

The third candidate, Mr. Hansen, was raised in the McKay district and at present is a member of the McKay school board. He is a director of the First Security bank and is engaged in farming on Sorrento Road. He has one daughter in high school and two sons.

Regular vacancy on the board is for a five year term. However, due to the recent resignation of Allen Armfield, there is also an unfilled term of two years which will go to the candidate receiving the second highest total of votes.

Election will be from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Beaverton high school, June 27.

Drive In Theatre Capacity Crowd

Opening night of the Canyon Theater, new drive-in establishment located at the Beaverton city limits on Bertha-Beaverton highway, saw a capacity crowd with some patrons turned away, according to reports. The theater opened its gates at dusk on June 21.

The eight acre site is equipped with individual speakers for each car and is so laid out that the huge screen may be viewed from any part of it.

Last minute construction was carried on in feverish haste but everything worked out for a successful evening. Refreshment concession was also working full speed, during the intermission period.

Happy Birthday No Make Believe To These Lasses

LINDA AND DONNA

The occasion of a happy birthday is fully recognized by the two young lasses who take the spotlight before their cakes in a joint celebration marking their second birthday, June 8.

Linda Mae Canerday, with the wide-open smile, and Donna Mae Puckett, standing alongside, were both born the same day in the same Portland hospital. To celebrate their anniversary, they were honor guests at an outdoor party held at the home of Linda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Canerday of Metzger.

Donna Mae is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean L. Puckett of Beverton.

Other children at the party included Reed Canerday, Linda's brother; Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horton; Gail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hunt; Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Caldwell; Patricia and Kathy daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph DeBrial and Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Robertson, all of Metzger; Gregory, son of Mrs. Betty Bartlett, Portland and Nina Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Lucile Parrish, Beaverton.

Linda Mae's grandmother, Mrs. William Ream from Bend, also attended the festivities.

Each little lass had a birthday cake of her own with the two traditional candles. Refreshments also included home-made ice cream, strawberries and party drinks.

WANTA SAVE MONEY?

Property owners wanting to save sewer installation costs are urged to immediately take out a permit for a connection.

Ceramics Artist Plans Gift Shop And Instruction

Paloma Pallares, trained in California and active in art fields most of her life, announces an open house for June 25 and the afternoon of June 26, for her Paradise Craft Studio at 103 S. W. Farmington road. Mrs. Pallares will operate a gift shop in connection with instruction in decorative ceramics, textile painting and allied work.

For her decorative ceramics classes, she will offer flower modeling, engobe, glaze and painted china among her features of instruction. The studio is equipped with an up-to-date kiln for heat curing of the ceramic pieces and will be available for use by ceramic workers other than those in the craft classes.

On the wall of the gift shop, which she is beginning to fill up with various artistic pieces, Mrs. Pallares has executed a striking tropical scene with egrets against a background of dense foliage.

At her two day open house, the public is cordially invited to make acquaintance with Beaverton's latest development in crafts and arts. Mrs. Pallares promises it will prove a significant cultural contribution to the area.

Piano Pupils Of Alice Clement Present Recital

Miss Alice Clement, piano teacher of Beaverton, will present her pupils in a public recital on June 24, 8 p.m., in Bethel Congregational church. There is no charge for admission and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Performers will include Linda Finley, David Woodruff, Phyllis Mead, Warren Woodruff, Louise Wilson, Paul Felsher, Nancy Holland, Florence Jakobson, Mary Smurthwaite, Judith Miller, Donna Mills, Lorell Tschan, Carol Jean Short, Gale Enger, Beverly Besmehn and Joan Freeman.

Variety of Crops Must Certify

Applications for certification of small grains, clovers, potatoes, and hybrid corn must be made at the County Agents' office on or before July 1, according to Wilbur Burkhart, County Ext. Agent. Such crops are eligible for certification if the grower planted certified seed on land that has not grown that same crop for at least three years. Applicants are required to submit tags with their applications, Burkhart added, and further details are available at the County Agents' office.

First Work Begins Monday On Installation Of Sewer

TEN OR TWELVE LOCAL WORKERS INCLUDED IN LABOR FORCE OF FORTY-THREE MEN EMPLOYED

First work in the installation of Beaverton's sewer system began Monday morning and as the crews get organized on the task will continue on throughout the network of mains and branch sewers mapped out. Of the total labor force of forty-three men, Tuesday morning, about 10 or 12 of them were local workers.

Activity at present is on Hall street, north of Canyon Road, where the designated beginning had been set. Clarence Wilson, manager of the Salem Sand and Gravel company who hold the contract for digging and laying the lines, points out that the job was started at its lower level in order to facilitate the drain of subsurface water.

A veritable siege of job-seekers is reported to have sought employment on the job. According to the representative of the construction laborer's union, in Portland, "there was more pressure for work at Beaverton" than on any other job the union controls.

Called early in the week, the union representative rather indignantly refused to give any statement of policy in regard to the possiblity of a Beaverton worker getting a job if cleared by the contractor and willing to take out a membership.

Subsequently to the phone interview, the union head and the contractor conferred on the matter, with the result that future workers deemed satisfactory by the contractor would be granted clearance from the union and be allowed to join the union, with payment of necessary fees, of course.

At present, two draglines are on the job, with another soon to be added. No more men will be needed, Wilson declares, until 10 days or two weeks.

Excellent Record Credited Region's Blood Collection

The mobile unit of the Portland regional blood center has made a fine record of blood collection in the participating counties, according to Dr. Richard Stone, physician in charge of the unit.

"Response to visits of the center's traveling unit to surrounding counties included in the blood program has been excellent," Dr. Stone said, in reviewing the accomplishments of the "bloodmobile" since its first visit in March.

"Cooperation and support given us by individuals and groups alike in the communities where the unit has made collections has been encouraging." Stone stated further. "Because of the fine response of blood donors in these areas," the physician explained, "we will continue to provide their physicians and hospitals with Red Cross blood they need for their hospitals. Patients from outlying counties in Portland hospitals, likewise, are eligible for blood and should make their requests through their attending physicians."

All of the blood collected by the mobile unit through volunteer donations in this national peacetime blood program is returned to the Portland center for typing and testing before it is returned to the counties where donated for use in their hospitals. The blood is distributed without charge. Any fee encountered is levied by the physicians or hospitals to cover their own administrative costs.

The mobile unit's visits are arranged by the blood program's coordinating committee which includes people from the Red Cross chapters in all of the 16 participating counties. Frequency of visits is determined by the quantity of blood needed for each county on the basis of its population.

Token of Voters Approves Budget Of McKay School

Thirty-nine voters, a token of those eligible to take part in the election, June 20, approved the budget for the next fiscal year of the McKay School district.

Chester Robertson was successful as a candidate for the three year term on the board of directors.

The school meeting discussed preliminary plans for a building program which is indicated as a necessity by the last school census. It is hoped by the board to be able to start construction early next year with completion one year from September.

The district, it is reported, is ending one of its most successful years. Great harmony is remarked between the school board and members of the district. The cafeteria project looks to next year with a surplus of about $500.

BABY ELLEN MARIE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. N. Conissen, S. W. Garden Home Road was particularly gladdened on Fathers Day, June 19, by the arrival of a young daughter, Ellen Marie.

Born at the Portland Sanitarium, she weighed 7 pounds, 11½ ounces. She and her mother are doing well and are looking forward to an imminent return home.

DONATION OF MUSLIN

The Beaverton Rebekah Past Noble Grand Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Leona Rands in Aloha, Mrs. Minnie Hedgepeth assisting hostess. Fourteen members and one visitor, Mrs. Pearl Black, were present.

A bolt of muslin, bought by the club had been donated to the I.O.O.F. home in Portland.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ellen La Rue July 14 with a pot luck luncheon to be served at 12:30.

Pianist Offers Public Recital Program June 30

PATRICIA MADDEN

Joyce Enright, piano teacher, will present Patricia Madden in a program of piano music at the Portland Woman's Club the evening of June 30th at 8:30 o'clock.

Her program will open with a Bach Concerto and close with the C. Major Mozart Concerto. Numbers by Beethoven, Chopin, Brahms, Debussy and MacDowell will complete the program.

Patricia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Madden, 507 N. E. Murray Ave., Beaverton. She has just completed her first year as a student at Beaverton high school. The last five years she has entered the National Guild Piano Auditions, four of these years receiving a National Certificate for playing a ten piece program. In the 1949 Auditions held in Portland in May, she received a Superior Plus rating.

The public is invited to attend this recital.

HONOR STUDENT GUESTS

Four of eight honor students of Beaverton high school, Betty McDaniel, Audrey Sullivan, Georgia Slocum and Norma Black, accompanied by their mothers, were afternoon guests at St. Helens Hall Thursday, June 16.

Representatives of seven eastern colleges were speakers for the occasion and answered questions as to requirements for admission.

FROM ANCHORAGE, ALASKA

Mrs. Carrie Parker, of Anchorage, Alaska, is guest at the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Kain on Menlo Drive.

The visitor will continue on to California before returning to the far frozen North and taking up her duties in the school system there.
