Costs Of Farm Purchase Outdo Prices Obtained

The index of prices received and prices paid by United States farmers declined during the month ending May 15, according to the weekly farm price, crop and weather review prepared by the OSC extension service from USDA reports and other data. The prices received index, however, declined more sharply than the parity index of farm costs which resulted in a lower parity ratio for mid-May.

The government index of prices received by farmers stood at 256 percent of 1910-14 at mid-May. That was 1 1/2 percent below mid-April, and 1 1/2 percent below mid-May of 1948. It was 17 percent below the record high recorded in January 1948.

The parity index of farm costs declined 1 point—1/2 of 1 percent—during the month. The decrease was due entirely to a drop in living costs, mostly clothing and house building materials.

The index of commodities used by farmers in production held unchanged. Lower prices for feeds and building materials were offset by increases in some other items. The parity index at mid-May stood at 245 percent of 1910-14. That was 2 percent below a year earlier, and only 2 1/2 percent below the record high reached last summer.

The parity ratio, at 104, was the lowest in nearly seven years.

Of the farm commodities important in Oregon's agriculture, only apples, lambs, chickens, eggs and wool had greater buying power than a year ago.

STATE RASPBERRY PLANTINGS OSC LOOKS FOR OUTSTANDING

An improvement program to answer a common question in western Oregon as to where good raspberry planting stock might be obtained is being conducted by the Oregon state college extension service this year, in a search for the most outstanding raspberry plantings in the state.

Vegetable Seed Production Slips Below Last Year

The U. S. production of vegetable seeds may be slightly smaller this year than last, according to the weekly specialty crops review prepared by the OSC extension service from USDA reports and other data. The production is also indicated to be about a third below the 1943-47 average.

Production of the 46 kinds of vegetable seeds in the U. S. for 1949 is estimated around 177 million pounds. This compares with 181 million pounds produced the year before. When this year's potential production is compared with the previous five year average it is over 100 million pounds less.

This year's reduction in vegetable seeds occurs mostly in the large seeds as beans, peas and corn. Production of these seeds is estimated to be nearly 3 percent under a year ago. The small vegetable seeds on the other hand will probably have a slightly higher total production than a year earlier by about 4 percent.

Some of the small seeds, however, are expected to be under the amount produced a year earlier. The prospective production of pumpkin seed is down 35 percent from a year ago. Cucumbers 40 percent, dwarf lima beans 61 percent, cauliflower 60 percent, dwarf wax beans 59 percent, and mangel wurzel (stock beets) down 31 percent.

Increases are in prospect for some of the more important seeds as heading lettuce, radishes, onions, garden beets, kale, and mustard.

C. O. Rawlings, extension horticulturist and E. K. Vaughan, experiment station plant pathologist direct the search, with the cooperation of berry growers and county extension agents.

Prime object of the search is to build up an adequate supply of good planting stocks, to locate stocks from which to develop plants worthy of certification and to further good cultural practices of disease control through the spread of information.

County agents and pathologists have done some preliminary scouting and have located plantings which meet specifications of the program. But raspberry growers throughout the Tualatin Valley, who have plantings of exceptional merit and disease resistance are asked to notify the Washington county agricultural agent for enrollment in the project. Close cooperation by growers will result in an improved raspberry industry, it is believed.

Varieties of Cuthbert, Washington and Willamette among the reds and such black varieties as meet specified standards are eligible for listing. All plantings, however, must be at least five years of age or older.

The program schedules at least three inspections of plantings, during June, July and September to determine rating standards. Score cards will record vigor of plant, quality of fruit, freedom from disease and other characteristics.

Highest scoring plants will be tabulated in a "register of merit". The plantings so singled out will be inspected yearly and will remain on the register for as long as the program continues and the plantings meet requirements.

At the end of each year, the roster will be made available to nurserymen, berry growers, processing plants and others interested in procuring approved, certified canes.
Owner of approved plantings, of course, will be under no obligation to sell or distribute his stock. He will, however, have the advantage of certification and may either increase his own holdings by propagation or distribute stock as he sees fit.

THE NEW MILLION DOLLAR TRAIN WITH THE MILLION DOLLAR VIEW

Shasta Daylight

TO SAN FRANCISCO $12.00 Plus Tax FROM PORTLAND

STARTING JULY 10. Southern Pacific's brilliant new streamliner Shasta Daylight makes its "maiden voyage" to San Francisco on Sunday, July 10, and daily each way thereafter.

Leaving Portland in the morning, it arrives in San Francisco that evening—by far the fastest running time in history to San Francisco.

Our lowest coach fares good for travel in luxurious chair cars on this new train! Through big "Skyview Picture Windows" of this dramatic red-and-orange dayliner you'll really see the wonders of the Shasta Route . . . the verdant Willamette Valley, the high Cascade Mountains, Odell and Klamath Lakes, the Sacramento River Canyon, 14,161-foot Mt. Shasta, Shasta Dam's Lake and Pit River Bridge, Lassen Peak volcano . . . all by day!

On the Shasta Daylight, like our California Daylights, there's a seat reserved for you without charge (for each child, too). It's cushioned in foam rubber and adjustable to the angle you prefer.

You'll enjoy other Shasta Daylight features: "windowpanes that breathe" for clear vision, our famous S. P. baggage elevators, zone-controlled no-draft ventilation, "feathertouch" doors that obey the whim of your finger, public address system . . . and beautiful interior colors inspired by the colorful route it serves.

Each Shasta Daylight (diesel-electric locomotives) has 9 chair cars, diner, coffee shop (always open), tavern car, and parlor-observation. Built for us by Pullman-Standard Car Mfg. Co. Nearly $5,000,000 spent to give you a new, fast, scenic, bargain way to travel on the Pacific Coast.
