 Canyon Road drive-in restaurant, in West Slope, was in full swing this week under new ownership and management. Operating the establishment is the Whistling Pig, Inc. of Portland, who will give drive-in car service from 11 a. m. to midnight daily and to 2 a. m. on Friday and Saturday.

TRADE LANES

The new building going up on Broadway in Beaverton next to the liquor store is being built by "Mac" Clement, owner of the Coffee Cup, who as yet is not revealing the occupant. Mac's own place will be remodeled in October. Another new structure going up is Bob Holland's building which will house the Holland Feed and Seed. Location is back of the Odd Fellows hall on Farmington.

Carl Soderquist, manager at Teresi Food Center will leave for a two week vacation this Monday. On his schedule is some heavy fishing to be done in Eastern Oregon. Optimistic Carl has promised fish to several friends including his boss, Frank. He-better make good.

The new shoe repair shop in Cedar Mill Park is owned by Wally Wallace, veteran shoe repair man who formerly managed the shoe repair department in the Big Shoe on Sandy Blvd. Wally, a navy vet of three years, plans to move out here from Portland in the near future.

Home from the hospital is Jean Hoefft of Aloha, who formerly worked at the Tip Top Coffee Shop in Beaverton. Jean is feeling much better according to the latest word and is expected back at work in October. Vacationing in California is Chuck Imlay and his wife who are taking a week's jaunt away from Chuck's stand in the Imlay Hardware and Feed Store.

We may think that appliances and furniture are high in this country but according to Jack Terry, recently returned from a trip to Canada, prices are almost double up there. Jack compared an electric range selling in this country for $285 to one selling in Canada for $458, and found them to be almost identical in make.

Latest rumor around the shopping center in Cedar Mill Park is that "Woody" who runs the cleaning and dye shop is building a swimming pool. This calls for the remark that maybe we're in the wrong business.

Lloyd Selfridge, manager of the Beaverton Furniture has moved into the Sunset home he recently purchased in Cedar Hills. Almost the first visitor the Selfridges had in their new home was Alexander Alcantara, an ex-army buddy of Lloyd's. Alcantara who was a 'ech-sergeant in the air force with Lloyd, is with the weather bureau in Alaska.

Credit for the remark that Bill Snyder may not be the best real estate man in Aloha but he certainly is the biggest, belongs to Roy Briggs, radio and television man who, we must admit, has an observant eye.

NEW CORRESPONDENT SHOULD MAKE MUSIC

Newly enrolled in the ranks of neighborhood correspondents, Mrs. Glenn Shelley of Cedar Mill Park will be expected to make sweet music in the dispatches she submits for publication.

Mrs. Shelley's husband is well-known to western Oregon radio listeners because of the masterful manner in which he plays the organ over radio station KGW.

And so, readers may look with high anticipation to the newsnotes coming from Cedar Mill Park. And if residents in the area want to make sure that Mrs. Shelley has a chance to represent them, they are urged to call her with all items of newsworthiness.

Births, visitors, parties, trips, meetings and in fact any and all happenings of the community are invited.

Mrs. Shelley may be reached by phoning Beaverton 2255.
