HUNTING & FISHING Around

By
Fred Goetz and Kay Parsons

Some of the old dyed-in-the-wool deer hunters may say "Just another Mule" but the facts connected with a 150 lb. beauty are a bit unusual. Its one of the 5 Mule Deer Mr. Al. Whittaker of Hillsboro and his party of 6 bagged last season in Ochoco National Forest. "I missed him with 2 shots in a jack pine thicket but when he pulled over a nearby hillock heading like lightning for the draw, I nailed him," declared Al. When asked what kind of rifle he used, proudly displayed a 30 caliber Remington, relic of pre-war days (World War I, that is) and told us, "This little shootin' 'arn has scored a lot of times but that last shot was the best I ever made." Nice going and may the old "Thirty Rem" continue to bring home the bacon...

Following is an interesting recap supplied by the Oregon State Game Commission in connection with the past migratory waterfowl season at the Sauvie Island shooting area:
First Half Second Half
Check in — 667 Check in — 998
Check out — 649 Check out — 989 Kill (Ducks) — 877 Kill (Ducks) — 1020 Kill (Geese) — 4 Kill (Geese) — 26

A poor kill percentage but not bad considering the amount of newcomers to the duck hunters ranks using the public shooting area. Better luck next year fella...

AH! AH! don't put that shotgun away just yet for there is plenty of sport left for the old blunderbuss even though bird season is long gone.

The black bandit, cornfield marauder, or just plain crow; whatever you want to call him, offers some of the finest sport found and unlike declining game species the crow is plentiful everywhere.
If you're interested in seeing for yourself—Build a blind between Blackie's feeding and roosting area.
Make sure it is as inconspicuous as possible. Crows are quick to see something out of place. Fashion a few decoys out of an old orange crate and paint them black. Get a crow call they are not difficult to use and then deal yourself in for a lot of fun and great sport that will sharpen the dullest of hunting peepers. Slight catch you'll probably go broke buying shells.

Quite a few petitions circulating around requesting the Game commission set up an uninterrupted duck season again.

Whaddya Think? Would appreciate your comment on this.

The results of the December '49 elections of the Washington County Chapter of the Isaac Walton League were as follows:
Tony Hauptman, president, Beaverton, Oregon; George Johnson, vice president, Dilley, Oregon; Al Raab, secretary, Beaverton, Oregon.

They took office in January '50.
The conservation efforts of these men are well known by sportsmen of the entire state. Congratulations fellows and good luck on your new assignment.

Come on guys and gals, you must have had some interesting experiences while hunting and fishing around. We would like to tell our readers about them. Check your pic album and see if you don't have a good clear picture of your sports venture. . . . So long 'till next week and remember a little CONSERVATION is worth a lot of RESTORATION.

Red Cross Hospital Workers Help Speed Patient Recovery

The job of rebuilding sick bodies and minds of servicemen in military hospitals and restoring them to useful life is carried forward by a team—doctors, nurses, and Red Cross workers. The Red Cross worker may be a medical or psychiatric social worker, a recreation specialist, or a combination of them assisted by a Gray Lady.

Military physicians and nurses find that restoring the health of a sick man requires much more than medicine and food. The will to live and the will to do do things must be revived before medical treatment can get in its beneficial work. That's where the Red Cross enters the picture.

A young soldier, only 23, was injured in an accident at a municipality proving ground. Half of his face and neck were blown away.
Painracked and frightened, he had little taste for ordinary hospital recreation. He loved music, though, so the recreation worker brought to his bedside a radio phonograph and then, by mere chance, found she
