Come On Old Rags

By Geo. N. Taylor

You raggedy, bleary-eyed, smelly old coot, hear this from the lips of Christ, the Heavenly Visitor—says He—"I am come that you might have life and have it more abundantly."—BIBLE, John 10:10. And you have come by the millions—gamblers, crooks, thieves, drunks, prostitutes, cannibals and even Mr. and Mrs. Respectable and Christ has lifted you up into eternal life.

To Clear You—Possess Christ down in your heart. Rely on Him as God the Saviour who died for your sins to clear you. At that He gives you eternal life. Then stand on it that you have eternal life and grow up. Live by the Bible and rely on Christ to power you moment by moment. So come the new ways and days that prove the new life.

"The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which is lost."—Lk. 19:10. So which for you? Saved or Lost? Which?

Speed Of Rural Roadway Wrecks Ups Death Toll

Accidents on rural roadways claimed 77 percent of the lives lost in Oregon traffic last year but accounted for only 28 percent of all accidents reported throughout the state, Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry said Friday.
Newberry said rural traffic accidents in 1949 were three times more lethal than those taking place inside cities and towns, according to statewide records. The speed at which most open-highway mishaps take place is blamed for the topheavy death percentage.
The secretary reminded that a driving error or mistake in judgment that results in a crumpled fender in city traffic frequently proves fatal at highway speed.
"The record makes it clear that long, inviting stretches of open highway call for the same alertness most drivers display in congested areas," Newberry said.
He pointed out that the impact with which a car may strike a fixed object or another vehicle increases four times when speed is doubled.
