FIRST GRADERS EYE MOTHER IN CLASS STUDY OF FAMILY

SCHOOL DISTRICT 57Jt.—The first grade at Tualatin View School are studying "The Family", and the children have brought pictures of Mother doing her many tasks. A nice chart has been made of them. Next, Father will be studied.

ELECTION RECESS

Tualatin View School was not in session Tuesday because of voting in the building. The teachers, Mrs. Beattie and Mrs. Tucker, spent the day in observation at other schools, and they will tell about what they saw at the next teachers' meeting.

Mrs. Hall and her young daughter visited the room on Friday morning.

Two Thanksgiving songs are being learned: "Hide Mr. Turkey", and "Gobble, Gobble".

SCHOOL VISITATIONS

The Tualatin View 2nd grade was honored by a visit from Bobby Rogers' mother on Thursday and Peter Strachan's mother on Friday.

During rest period Friday, a record "The Little Engine That Could", was enjoyed. John Murphy had brought the record to school.

ANIMAL MENAGERIE

We have a big fat turkey in our room! It looks like it is ready to say, "Gobble, gobble!" James Buddenhagen made it from a large pine cone, with modeling clay for head, neck and feet, and a large crepe paper tail.

There is also a walking bear in our room this week which looks from side to side as it lumbers across the table. Margery Russell brought it for everyone to enjoy, before she leaves for her new home in Vermont Hills this week end.

DEPART FIRST GRADE

Carol Oakes has moved so will not be with the first grade at Barnes any longer. Marshall Stevens has also left the first grade.

The group 1 reading class has completed the first two readers and is beginning to look forward to reading the advanced book.

Mrs. Vulystake visited school on Friday afternoon, bringing along the baby brother.

Terry Trachsel brought a huge bouquet of chrysanthemums last Tuesday and they are still very pretty.

LEARN PILGRIM STORY

The Barnes second grade have enrolled a new student by the name of George Taylor. The class is learning about Pilgrims and the Thanksgiving story. The pupils are illustrating it in art class through paper tearing, paper cutting, and next week will paint a frieze about this subject.

The class is working with the first grade in music and rhythms. In keeping with the Thanksgiving theme they have learned three new songs under the direction of Mrs. Champas and Mrs. Hoskins.

WILD LIFE DISPLAYS

Mrs. Bowman's third grade class were all excited last week by the arrival of several pets in the school room. Gary George brought his turtle aquarium which houses Kicker and Bub, and Jimmy Farah brought his turtle, Humphrey. Then Francis Loomis brought his pet rabbit, which had to be taken home that day, but we enjoyed his short stay. The turtles will stay the winter and are already deep in hibernation.

A new pupil, Raymond Taylor, arrived in the 3-a class last Monday morning. There are now 28 pupils in the class, not much room left for games when it is rainy.

LEAF PRINTS PROJECT

The leaf prints the 3-a class have been working on for 3 weeks are almost completed now, and will probably be done this Friday.

VISITING FIREMEN

Mrs. Extrom, a Reedville teacher, visited the Barnes school on election day, as her room was being used for voting. She stayed in the 3-a room quite a while and different members of the class told her about the work the room is doing. Sharon King, Sharon Corby, Katharine Conaway, Gary George, Leslie Bruscke, Marjorie Graham, Fred Felter, Kenneth Conklin, Ricky Boylan and Brian Hollandsworth all took part.

The room was honored last week, too, by having Mrs. Conaway, Mrs. Farah, Mr. and Mrs. George all visit us for a short while.

DUAL PURPOSE

The seventh grade placed a mural in the hall at the Cedar Hills School showing a duel between two knights. The purpose is to encourage the reading of good books, and is done in honor of Book Week.

Terry Violi, the new member of the seventh grade came from Lima, Ohio.

Edward McCallen was pleasantly surprised by the arrival of his Aunt and Uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Wirthrich, from Alaska.

SINGING BEE OCCASION

Peggy Arthur is leaving the 4th grade this week with her parents. She is moving to a home in Portland nearer to Mr. Arthur's business.

Michael Corby has been absent from our room since Monday. He is nursing a case of poison oak. Carol Ann Pearson was ill several days recently, but was able to attend school on Thursday and Friday of this last week.

The two Fourth grades had a singing bee Friday afternoon. There will be more such activities as long as all the children co-operate.

MOTHER IS PLAYWRIGHT

Reporter Dianne Abbott's mother wrote a play and it is going to be published. The name of it is "The Boy Who Didn't Believe in Christmas".

There is a new boy in the fifth grade. His name is Jack Violi. That makes 34 children in the room—17 boys and 17 girls.

SCRAPBOOK SUBJECTS

The fifth grade has some new scrap books. One is fruits and flowers. The second one is for scenes and industry. The third is for birds and animals. The fourth is for transportation. There is also a mural about Star, an Indian pony.

On the frame outside the room is a health poster made by Linda Howard.

Herbert Van Winkle went to Forest Grove last Saturday and saw several deer and a bobcat. Sandra Owen had her tenth birthday party the 7th day in November. She invited 19 girls.

GRANDFATHER'S GIFT

Myron McCamley of the sixth grade presented a large framed picture of George Washington to the Cedar Hills School.

The picture belonged to his grandfather who was a school professor.

OFFICE SECRETARY

Mrs. M. C. McKercher, of Beaverton, is working as office secretary in the Washington County T.B. and Health Association, Hillsboro.

Birthday Party Features Turkey And Trimmings

SCHOOL DISTRICT 57 Jt.—Mrs. Haskell entertained her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Chester Haskell, Jr. and her aunt Doris of Portland, with a birthday dinner Saturday evening.

There were 10 guests present, including their daughter and son-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Callender and little daughter, Myrtle, and friend from Textronics in Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bullock of Beaverton.

Turkey dinner and all the trimmings were served, topped off by a birthday cake and ice cream. Chester Haskell, Jr. is in the navy, and is now stationed in Honolulu.
