

DEN DADS AND MOTHERS TAKE IN ANNUAL CUB SCOUT POWWOW

SYLVAN—The annual Cub Scout Powwow of the Portland area council filled the Civic auditorium Sunday, December 3, from noon to after 8 p. m.

Over 550 den dads and den mothers attended. It was a training session in four sections. Sylvan Cub Pack No. 502 had three den omthers and cubmaster, William Davis who took the administration course. Mrs. Elmer Pollock and Mrs. William Davis were in the handicraft department and Mrs. Stuart Biles, the game session.

At 6:15 p. m. everyone assembled in the basement for a box dinner at the tables where many packs had set up centerpieces pertaining to cub scouting.

Pirate songs, the Hoky Poky and Indian dances were amusingly presented by a large group of "Cubbers."

The day ended with a talk by Gerald Speedy, national director of cubbing, from Washington, D. C.

IN JUNIOR SYMPHONY

Boyd Hillwartz, who graduated from Sylvan last June, is a member of the Portland Junior Symphony orchestra as second violinist. He is now in Lincoln high school and has a sister in the 5th grade at Sylvan.

TWO NEW STUDENTS

Sylvan has two new girls in the 3rd grade and a boy in the 4th. Carol Ann moved from Multnomah with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. William R. Warrington, and her brother Bill Junior, who is attending Mrs. Graham's kindergarten in West Slope.

Patsy Reed and her brother, Jerry, came with their mother from Greenfield, Missouri, and Bobby, five, Elizabeth, four and Donnie, two. They all agree that Sylvan is wonderful.

CARNIVAL EVALUATION

Had you happened to walk in the door of Sylvan school on the night of November 17 you would have witnessed a gala affair. In the front hall was a huge carnival mural done by Stuart Biles who incidentally is an artist as well as a Sylvan father. He did most of the posters.

The small fry scurried from room to room to try their luck at games. Mule dart seemed to be the favorite attraction for ages 8 to 80.

The buffet supper was a drawing card. As early as 6:00 p. m. there was a line which grew until by 7:00 p. m., it had reached the main entrance hall. Both ham and turkey were on the menu and soon disappeared. Late comers were disappointed. Moral—come early next year.

Arthur Taylor was chairman of the committee responsible for a "fun" success and a financial one as well.

(Quoted from the Sylvan Log edited by the eighth grade November, 1950.)

Vernon Lee Bryant arrived in Portland after his harrowing experience on the sinking minesweeper, Pirate, Oct. 12th, off the coast of Korea.—in time to relax with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bryant, at the carnival.

His dad is custodian at Sylvan school and his wife, Irene, came here from Minnesota to enjoy Thanksgiving with him. He is due to return to duty as radarman first class in the navy, December 13.

Museum's Public Silver Tea Spots Art and Choral

For many art and music lovers of the Portland area, the holiday season opens with the Christmas festival which will be held at the Art Museum, on Sunday, December 10 from three to seven. The festival is a silver tea, open to the public, the contributions to go to the museum's educational work.

The AAUW, Portland branch, is presenting the event which opens with a candlelight ceremony at 3:15, accompanied by the Marylhurst chorals. Other college choruses which will sing during the afternoon are Lewis and Clark College Madrigal Singers, Multnomah College Choir, University of Portland Choir, and the Vanport College Choir.

The feature of the festival is an exhibit of 40 Christmas decoration arrangements, such as small Christmas trees, table and mantle decorations, wreaths, etc., created by members of AAUW art groups and friends of the museum.

The Christmas Story Exhibition a showing of fine color reproductions, paintings and sculptures on the Christmas theme from the museum's collections, will be on display.

Refreshments will be served.

STATE'S SMALLEST CITY

The city of Waterloo, near Lebanon, dated its first city election since 1893, this week.

The LEBANON EXPRESS points out this will be Oregon's smallest incorporated city.

There are barely over 150 residents, minimum required to keep the city charter active. When its charter was set up, almost 58 years ago, Waterloo had hotels, rooms, business buildings, a woolen mill and encouraging prospects of a future big city.

Today, it boasts only a single store serving as the city post office, general merchandise center and service station.

Two are contesting for the post of mayor. Two seek to be city recorder, two as city marshal and eight are trying for the city council of four.
