GREAT MINING ENTERPRISE BEGUN

The Rogue River Being Dammed to Afford Water for Hydraulics.

(Journal Special Service.)

GRANTS PASS, May 5.—M. C. Ament, manager of the Golden Drift Mining Company, informs The Journal correspondent that the work of damming the Rogue river three miles above this city has begun. Fifty men were put to work, and the great task of harnessing the Rogue was begun by the Golden Drift Company. This is the greatest hydraulic mining and irrigating enterprise ever undertaken on the Coast, and will mark the beginning of a new era in this section in the matter of placer mining and irrigation. The Golden Drift Company hopes to have the dam completed by the close of summer.

The Golden Drift Mining Company owns and controls some 800 acres of rich placer ground in the famous Dry Diggings district just above the site of the dam. These diggings have been worked on and have produced handsomely for the past 50 years, but necessarily only in a primitive way, from the fact that sufficient water to operate a hydraulic mine on a large scale was not to be had. The Golden Drift Company, which purchased the Dry Diggings mines this past year, conceived the idea of putting in a dam across the Rogue and pumping the water to the giants in the diggings above. The dam conceived of has been begun, and aside from furnishing unlimited power, and in irrigating that portion of the Rogue River Valley surrounding Grants Pass, will also be used in operating six giants continually, and for 100 years to come, in the rich auriferous gravels of the Dry Diggings placer fields.

A small sawmill has been set up near the site of the dam, and will be used in cutting the timbers for its construction. The cribs will be made of 12x12 timbers and will be boarded with three-inch planking. A long cable, ferry and donkey engine are installed to haul the timbers out into the river. The dam will have a width of 80 feet on top and will be 100 feet wide on the bed of the river. It will set 45 feet into the bank, in order to withstand the cutting power of the Rogue's swift current. The dam will have a fall of 20 feet. Six great turbine wheels will furnish the 3000 horsepower necessary to operate the six giants of the diggings, which will be connected by a 30-inch pipe line one mile in length. The entire plant will be built at a cost of $60,000.

A separate system of rotary pumps will hoist the irrigating water to a height of 50 feet above the dam and start it down the long ditch, which has already been surveyed and will be constructed as soon as the dam is well under way. This ditch will lead along the foot of the mountains toward and around Grants Pass. It will reach all of the farms and orchards between this city and the dam, and will also reach all parts of the town. It will prove of inestimable benefit to the farmers and orchardists of this community, as it will make fertile and productive many hundreds of acres of land that is at present comparatively useless owing to lack of water.

FIRST GOVERNOR OF OREGON AGED 82

(Journal Special Service.)

Hon. John Whiteaker of this city, Oregon's first Governor, celebrated his 82d birthday Sunday. Mr. Whiteaker was born in Dearborn County, Indiana, May 4, 1820, and was brought up a farmer. He came West to California during the gold excitement in 1849 and came to Oregon, locating at Eugene, where he has since resided. Mr. Whiteaker is still quite hale and hearty and bids fair to live many years longer.

The Prohibitionists met in county convention in the Court-house Saturday. Dr. W. S. Dale was chosen chairman and Rev. E. M. Patterson secretary. It was the purpose of the convention, when it met, to nominate a full set of county officers, but the motion was voted down and the convention did nothing but indorse the state ticket. The Menley quartet was present and sang a number of songs. It is stated that the Prohibitionists will lend their united support to W. Kuykendall and J. M. Shelley, Republican nominees for Senator and Representative, respectively.

W. T. Campbell, who has just returned from the Blue river mines, states that there are seven inches of snow there, but great activity prevails despite that inconvenience.

The remains of Joseph Brownlee, a Eugene boy, who died at Sisson, Cal., Saturday morning, arrived here Sunday for burial. The deceased young man was night operator at the Southern Pacific depot at Sisson, and died from pneumonia. He was aged 21 years. He leaves a mother, two sisters and one brother.

Out of about 6000 votes in Lane County, only 4200 had registered up to Saturday night.

PORTLAND CHARTER NOT WHAT IT PURPORTS TO BE

To The Journal: According to the Saturday morning paper, H. W. Hogue said that he had yet to hear of any persons who are opposed to the proposed new charter, so he need harly say anything in its behalf.

Members of the charter commission opposed it vigorously and would not sign it. Why has not Mr. Hogue, member of the charter commission, not heard of these gentlemen?

It has been specifically charged in the public press that the proposed charter would give away valuable franchise rights. Why does not Mr. Hogue speak of this when he is advocating the new charter?

Mr. Hogue is reported to have said that the new charter "embodies the best plan of municipal government that could be considered practicable in Portland." What are they?

Are the provisions referred to the ones which repeal the present civil service provisions in the present charter concerning the fire and police departments? Or those making it possible to put out of the city's employ, without cause, all who are employed in the fire and police departments and who are not acceptable politically to whoever may "boss" the next city government?

Are they the provisions that provide that when the next city administration has got its partisans in office, then said partisans are to be protected by civil service laws? If civil service is good for the city, the departments which have had civil service for years ought not now to be deprived of it merely long enough for the next administration to make sweeping removals, and then have civil service restored to protect its newly appointed partisans?

Mr. Hogue is reported to have said that the complete and comprehensive provisions regarding street improvements especially commend the new charter to the taxpayers.

The new charter will be effective to make the general treasury of the city pay for streets and will raise taxation enormously; work injustice to the taxpayers; result in endless litigation. The effect will be to retard street improvements, instead of encouraging street improvements.

I can join with Mr. H. W. Hogue in only one reported remark on the new charter: "I trust you will make it your business to read the document and become familiar with its provisions."

A BABY'S GRIEF

(Journal Special Service.)

BUTTE, Mont., May 5.—Shocked when told of the death of Mrs. Mary Knaff, the woman who committed suicide at her home, 362 Park alley, last Saturday, pretty little Rosie Roney, 6 years of age, has been prostrated ever since. The little girl was a neighbor of the dead woman.

"Blind Sam" in Town.

"Blind Sam," a well-known character on the Pacific Coast, is again in the city. He gathers crowds about him wherever he goes and is as much of a feature as ever. "Blind Sam" and his violin are inseparable companions. His "long suit" consists in improvising topical songs sawing an accompaniment on his old fiddle. His voice is squeaky and the combination is indescribably funny. A collection always follows.

During the Klondike rush Sam did a thriving business at Seattle. To the departing fortune hunters he painted, in glowing colors, the fortunes that they would bring home from the ice-bound north. With their fancy thus tickled, it was natural that the hopeful fellows should rain down a shower of two-bit pieces upon the blind musician, which they did.

A. O. U. W. PLANS.

Chairman Werlein of the committee having in charge the reception of the delegates to the supreme lodge of the A. O. U. W., which will meet here in June, is receiving many inquiries about the hotels of Portland, from delegates and their friends.

This will be the second time that the supreme lodge has held its sessions on the Pacific Coast, and Oregon Workmen will see to it that it is not the last time, as they are working hard to make this session an eventful one.

There will be 120 delegates to the supreme lodge, and about 40 members of the various standing committees. These men will all be past grand master workmen, therefore they will not only be prominent men, but they will also be of wide acquaintance in their own states. They will observe the vastness of Oregon's resources and when they return to their homes and report what they saw in Oregon, much good will result therefrom.

The joint committee for the entertainment of the delegates consists of N. Clark, R. L. Durham, Captain E. S. Edwards, F. M. Stevenson, W. H. Reader, J. H. Zane, H. D. Ramsdell, R. Feeny, J. R. Mann, F. M. Cohn, J. E. Werlein, C. J. Wheeler, J. W. Paddock, G. H. Durham, Mrs. F. I. Mann, Mrs. J. H. Misener and Mrs. Mary Hare.

Chamberlain Buttons.

The demand for Chamberlain campaign buttons is unprecedented in the history of any Oregon election. The state committee has already distributed over 30,000 and the demand for them is much greater than at any other time in the life of the campaign.

RIVER AND OCEAN.

Nothing has been heard of the Hale & Kern barge which was lost several days ago between Grays Harbor and Astoria.

There is still considerable wheat in the Tacoma warehouses to be moved during May and June before the new crop shall begin to arrive.

After a tempestuous voyage the schooner Carrie and Annie has arrived at San Francisco, 50 days out from Ponape, Caroline islands, under command of Captain Foster.

Coal shipments by sea to California and Honolulu from the Sound have shown a considerable falling off of late, which is attributed to the increased use of oil in California for fuel purposes.

The British bark Pyrenees, which was wrecked several months ago while en route from the Sound to Queenstown, has been recovered by Captain Thayer and will arrive at San Francisco in a few days from Mangareva.

Captain B. C. Kindred of Fort Stevens celebrated his 84th birthday last Friday. Captain Kindred was carrying freight and passengers between Oregon City and Astoria as far back as 1847, and is, perhaps, the oldest Columbia river transportation man living.

Government Inspectors Edwards and Fuller left for Cathlamet Saturday to inspect the steamer James B. Stephens.

The steamer Ione is at the Portland Shipbuilding Company's yards to be extensively altered and improved. The old hull will be replaced by a new one.

The French bark Vendee cleared at the custom-house Saturday for Queenstown or Falmouth for orders. She has a cargo of 101,820 bushels of wheat, valued at $68,250.

The sailor boarding-houses in San Francisco have combined, and it is believed that the difficulty experienced there recently in securing crews for ships will now be overcome to a great extent, at least.

A gasoline cannery tender has been built for F. M. Warren at the Johnston shipyards. The boat is 52 feet long, 9½ feet beam and three feet 9 inches deep, and will draw about two feet of water.

The lumber schooner Amethyst, which turned turtle last February off the Oregon coast, has been saved by George Bishop, a contractor of Victoria, B. C. Bishop and his men have righted her and are now repairing the vessel.

The Oregon City Transportation Company is having a light-draught steamboat constructed to ply the Upper Willamette. It will draw only 11 inches of water without cargo, and will be the lightest draught boat on the river. The steamer will be able to navigate at low stages of the water.

The British steamship Queen Mary arrived in port yesterday afternoon from Java via Vancouver, B. C. She will load at Inman, Poulsen & Co.'s mills for the Pacific Export Lumber Company. The vessel will take a cargo of about 2,500,000 feet.

Two vessels sailed for Bering Sea last week from Seattle. They were the Northwest Siberian Company's schooner Tilly L. and the barkentine Ruth. The latter carries supplies for the Bristol Bay canneries, while the Tillie L. goes as a trader.
