INMAN'S RECEPTION

Tenth Ward Greets Citizens' Candidates.

The attendance at the meeting in Gomez Hall last night was not up to the expectation of the members of the Tenth Ward Citizens' Club, but what was lacking in numbers was amply made up by the enthusiasm displayed on the part of those present, the majority of whom were workingmen.

L. T. Peery presided over the meeting as its chairman, and after inviting all the candidates present to seats on the platform, and making a few remarks, he introduced J. E. Werlein, Citizens' candidate for City Treasurer, as the first speaker of the evening, and "a man in whom all the people of Portland have the greatest confidence."

Mr. Werlein was received with generous applause, and, after telling two anecdotes having a bearing on the political situation in Portland as it exists today, gave his attention to the claim made by those who are opposing the Citizens' ticket that the condition of affairs now is parallel with that of 1896.

"I was," said Mr. Werlein, "a delegate in the Republican county convention in 1896 and witnessed the scenes of disorder that took place then. Ten minutes before the hour appointed for calling the convention to order, Jack Matthews and his gang rushed on the stage, trampled under their feet Joseph N. Dolph, a distinguished citizen of Portland, and created scenes of general disorder in their effort to capture the convention, and, when unable to do so, they left the hall, waving their hats, repudiating the regularly organized Republican convention, and set up a convention of their own. Contrast this action with the action of the minority of the convention of 1902. In that convention, the minority was told by the spokesman of the majority that everything of any political significance must go to the majority."

Mr. Werlein then referred to the published statement of the charter committee that the selection of municipal officers, under the provisions of the new charter, would be divorced from politics, and claimed if that was to be good logic in 1903 there was no reason why it should not be good logic now.

APPLAUSE FOR R. D. INMAN.

When the chairman presented R. D. Inman as the next speaker, there was a great outburst of applause, expressing plainer than words how close he is to the hearts of the people of Portland. He was introduced as a man who had never been defeated, but once counted out, which brought forth another burst of applause, intermingled with cries of "Bob's all right." Mr. Inman did not take up much time in speaking. He said he was not there to do much talking.

"It is well known," he said, "that I did not seek the nomination for Mayor. I did not want it, for business reasons. I recognize the great responsibility that attaches to such an office under the proposed new charter, and a man who accepts an office and then does not attend to its duties is guilty of a criminal outrage. If elected, and I'm going to be, I intend to run the office of Mayor of Portland the same as I do my sawmill, day and night. All my interests are here in Portland, where I have lived since boyhood, and, if you feel like voting for me, do so. But don't forget the rest of the Citizens' ticket. I don't want to be elected alone. I want, if elected, the assistance of those on the ticket with me. I am proud of the support that is being given me. When men leave their party to rectify great wrongs, they are to be admired. So far as my policy as Mayor is concerned, if elected, let me say I shall attempt to govern Portland in a business-like manner. Honesty and efficiency will be the requirements demanded, and the granting of equal rights to all and special privileges to none."

Mr. Inman made a good impression on those who listened to him. He speaks in a blunt fashion, but there is no disguising the honesty of purpose that marks his utterances.

PUBLIC OFFICE PRIVATE TRUST.

Dr. Harry Lane, Citizens' candidate for State Senator, was the next speaker. It was his first appearance on the rostrum, but he acquitted himself in a way that showed he will soon be at home on the platform, just as well as any other place. Dr. Lane said that people chosen to public office should use the same care and discretion in its administration as a prudent man would conduct his private affairs. They owe it as a duty to themselves, and it would be bad policy to choose any man for a public office that would not be trusted in a private capacity.

"Two years ago," he said, "the people here revolted against the methods employed in putting up candidates for election, and, as a result, they defeated the ring ticket and elected a legislative ticket of their own. What was the result? For the first time in the history of the Legislature, laws were enacted that were truly in the interest of the people. It gave us the primary law, and, instead of fixing up a charter to satisfy a few interested parties, it has given us the opportunity of securing a charter that meets with the approbation of all the people."

Referring to Jack Matthews and his manipulation of politics to suit himself, Dr. Lane took opportunity to correct one error concerning the name of the present head center of the political junta that has been entrusted to take charge of the Republican party.

"His name is not Jack," said Dr. Lane, "I have known him many years, and Walter is his proper given name. When a child, Matthews was an uncommonly good-looking boy, and early in his life bore such a striking resemblance to the Jack of Spades that everybody got to calling him Jack. That's true."

During the course of his remarks Dr. Lane told several pointed stories, which he neatly applied to the present political situation and to Jack Matthews' convention, the telling of which caused much merriment. He also had a good word to say in behalf of the workingmen, and advised them not only to get into politics, but to get there with both feet. As to his antagonist on the Republican ticket, H. E. McGinn, he said he did not like hitting a man after he was down, and if he got all the votes tendered him he would feel like giving one to Mr. McGinn out of compassion, but would not advise any one else to do so.

MOSER, LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATE.

G. C. Moser, candidate for the Legislature, spoke of the issues involved in the present campaign, the insincerity of the Oregonian, its former bitter denunciation of Jack Matthews and his gang, whom the Oregonian is now supporting, and he called upon all voters, irrespective of party, to get together and put the seal of disapproval on the machine ticket as a rebuke to boodism.

AUSTIN, LEGISLATIVE NOMINEE.

E. A. Austin, Citizens' candidate for the Legislature, a mechanic by occupation, and representing the Federated Trades, followed in a short but well-pointed speech in behalf of those who earn their bread "in the sweat of their brow." He referred to the effort of the employes of the Oregon City Railway to form a union and how, through the efforts of a man named Tiffany, the union was broken up.

"Today," said Mr. Austin, "the same Tiffany is trying to square himself with the people, and has directed his men to unionize and join the Federated Trades. So much for men who sought to crush labor and put their heels on our necks.

"I know little about politics, but I have an earnest desire to work in the interest of laboring men. I want to urge you to support the Citizens' ticket, for it is in the interest of every man who has to work by the day. Scott of the Oregonian for more than 20 years, without intermission, has attacked us on every turn and belittled us before the people. The Oregonian even attacked the wife of a laboring man because twins came to their household. Such a thing was a crime. No man like the editor of the Oregonian has anything in common with you and me. The Citizens' legislative ticket should be elected as a whole. One or two of the number can accomplish nothing, but with the entire ticket successful there will be an opportunity to do something in the way of legislation that will give some assurance of bread to our families and education to our children. It is simply protection for ourselves that we ask. The Citizens' ticket, all of it, and no other, is in the interest of the laboring man, and it should be given your support."

OTHER SPEAKERS.

Short remarks were also made by M. C. Davis, candidate for the Legislature; H. B. Adams, candidate for County Judge; Earl C. Bronaugh, candidate for City Attorney, and A. M. Cox, candidate for Constable on the East Side.

The meeting was an entirely successful affair, and the constant attention paid to the remarks of the several speakers showed every man present to be greatly interested in all that was said.

HIS RECEPTON AT CORVALLIS

A Hearty Welcome Was Accorded Mr. Chamberlain.

(Journal Special Service.)

CORVALLIS, May 8.—A magnificent reception was given George E. Chamberlain at the close of his address here yesterday afternoon, and enthusiasm apparently was at the top pitch. His visit to Corvallis was productive of good to the entire ticket. Generous applause throughout the course of the address was given by every one in the audience, and it was by no means perfunctory.

W. A. Waun, candidate for State School Superintendent, also was well received, and made a good impression. He talked for 20 minutes, discussing the reforms in the state school system that are now engaging the attention of the voters. Mr. Waun has made his canvass the occasion of raising some questions that will cause improvement in the educational status.

Mr. Chamberlain addressed himself to the voters upon state issues. He reviewed the former status of government at Salem, and suggested many things that would make for better management. Pledging himself to effect reforms that are needed, he received a splendid ovation when he ended his remarks, that was evidence that the people here indorse his positions. The Courthouse, in which the meeting was held, was crowded to the doors, with many persons standing throughout the entire time the speeches were being delivered. B. F. Irvine presided, and introduced the speakers with appropriate remarks.

Perhaps the most singular feature of the affair was the references he made to the Philippine question. Mr. Chamberlain did not vary the position he took in his opening address at Baker City, and in his remarks made here had the enthusiastic indorsement of the entire audience. They found that he had been misrepresented elsewhere, and that his position upon that issue is entirely satisfactory to the voters in this part of the state. This one feature alone was enough to make the visit here productive of much good.

The candidates left for Independence and Dallas for today's meetings.

RAILROAD UNION

Employes of the Southern Pacific Organizing.

The Southern Pacific employes of this city and state have been quietly organizing a new union for several months. It already has 1180 members and is steadily growing. The union is made up of three divisions, known as the Portland, the Roseburg and the Ashland.

Everyone in the employ of the Southern Pacific Railway is eligible to membership—from section men to the highest salaried employe on the road, only excluding officials. The Portland division started out with 50 members, but now has 580 on the list. This division extends as far south as Junction and west to Corvallis. The Roseburg division has 400 members, and that of Ashland 200.

The men in the employ of the Southern Pacific say they are paid lower wages in Oregon than are paid in California by the same corporation, and it is the ambition of the men in this state to have the scale raised to the California standard. This demand will be made of the company when the union is thoroughly organized.

This is the most perfect railroad organization ever effected. It differs from other railroad unions in this respect: Every employe of the system is eligible to membership.

OREGON CITY.

(Journal Special Service.)

OREGON CITY, May 8.—Meade Post, G. A. R., is arranging the program for Memorial and Decoration day services. Rev. Robert McLean of Portland has accepted the invitation to deliver the Memorial day address, and the Park Place Band will provide the marching music. The Union Church memorial services will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the sermon will be preached by Rev. W. S. Grim.

The Republican candidates began their campaign itinerary yesterday afternoon at Logan, and spoke at Springwater in the evening. Two meetings will be held daily until every precinct is visited.

Company A., O. N. G., has nominated C. S. Burns as the caucus choice for second lieutenant when the election of officers shall be ordered by the department headquarters.

NURSE MISSING.

Friends Searching for Mamie F. Geiger.

Mrs. Mamie F. Geiger, a professional nurse student at St. Vincent's hospital, is missing, and some of her friends are uneasy.

She left the following notes for Mrs. A. Y. Mowrey, the missing one's most intimate friend:

"Dear Lettie: I don't know when I will see you, but be sure I'm all right. Be sure and get my trunks and keep them, and use the contents as though they were your own. You are one of my best friends, and I do not forget them. They are very few. Good-bye. MAMIE.

"P. S.—If you want to write Joe, he was at Prospect, Mont."

Mrs. Geiger, who had been in training for 18 months, had a dispute with one of the sisters and left the institution hastily.

Some intimate that Mrs. Geiger had a potent object in dropping out of sight temporarily, and that she will soon return.

GOOD FOR WALLA WALLA.

S. C. Elliott, vice president of the Baker-Boyer National Bank of Walla Walla, Wash., writes that he will be unable to attend the meeting of the directors of the Columbia River Basin Board of Trade, but promises that as soon as the details of The Dalles-Celilo portage railway are arranged he will see to it that Walla Walla gives her share of incorporators.

THE MARKETS.

Quiet reigned in the local markets this morning. A decided firmness was noticed in the oat market, the quotations advancing 5 cents a hundred.

The butter market is firmer today, the surplus stock being gradually worked off. Quotations today remain the same.

No changes of any kind occurred in the grocery line this morning, but there is a firmness at present prices.

A small advance will be noticed today on the best Burbanks, the quotations being $1.65 and $1.75 a cental.

A decline has been made on strawberries; today they are selling at $2 and $2.25 a crate. A small shipment of cherries is on the market, and they are quoted at $1.50 a box.

Large receipts of eggs have a tendency to keep the market in a very weak condition. A few sales were made today at 15½ cents.

HUSBAND AND WIFE ARE DEAD

Wife Died Saturday, Husband This Morning—Double Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Campbell, aged about 57 years, who died Saturday, has been postponed on account of the death of Angus Campbell, her husband. Mr. Campbell has been ill for some time and has been confined to the Good Samaritan hospital, at which institution his death occurred this morning.

Mr. Campbell was well known in Portland, and was a blacksmith by trade. He was 62 years of age.

Several children survive the deceased couple. The date of the funeral has not been set on account of an absent son. They will be buried together, side by side, in one grave.

ANARCHY IN HOOSIERDOM

(Journal Special Service.)

INDIANAPOLIS, May 8.—The investigation into the outrages committed by whitecaps on unoffending citizens of Brown County by an agent of the Attorney-General's office reveals a condition that borders on anarchy.

Women and children are in a state of terror, and men are sleeping with doors barred and loaded guns and pistols by their bedsides in anticipation of attacks. The worst feature seems to be that the best class of citizens are so cowed by the bands that they profess ignorance of the identity of the men who compose them, and grand juries have either refused to indict through fear of personal attack or, when they are indicted, petit juries have refused to convict for a similar reason.

Governor Durbin has determined to invoke the authority of the state in the matter, and the investigation will cover five or six cases which have occurred within a year.
