

Conducted by Students of Portland's High School, and contributed to by all city schools.

THE JOURNAL JR.

NO. 5.

A WEEKLY CHRONICLE OF SCHOOL NEWS OF PORTLAND.

W. A. DILL,
C. F. SARGENT,
High School
Editors in Chief.

Portland High School.

Herbert Clarke, who was to have debated against a Vancouver scholar on April 10, returned to school Monday, after an absence of over a week.

The Alumni Association has offered a medal as prize in an oratorical contest, open to High School students. A number are considering the question of entering, and will file their applications with Ralph Holman by 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The Philolegian program, Friday afternoon, was opened by an impromptu reading by Miss Hanson, who gave a brief sketch of the American rich and the ways of acquiring wealth. Miss Spurrier followed with a comic recitation entitled "Miss Jones and the Burglar." Miss Cohn's essay, "Dead Letters," was judged extremely interesting by the audience. The program was closed by the debate: "Resolved, That the Social Entertainments of the Rich are More Beneficial Than Injurious." Both sides of the debate were ably supported by Miss Dill and Miss Lytle for the affirmative and Miss Walworth and Miss Shearer for the negative. Miss Dill opened for the affirmative, and declared that the many people employed by the rich in giving entertainments are benefited in a great degree. Miss Walworth, for the negative, objected to Miss Dill's remarks, contending that such employment is of short duration and had no lasting benefit, and she asserted further that bad habits, such as intemperance, are often formed at the banquets of the rich. Miss Lytle continued the debate for the affirmative. She contended that it is through the rich that the poor receive their livelihood. In closing for the negative, Miss Shearer carried on the argument begun by Miss Walworth in an effective way. Miss Dill, in the rebuttal, refuted the arguments of the negative thoroughly. The judges decided in favor of the affirmative. All the arguments were well worthy of the Philolegian girls.

The To-Legion Society held its regular weekly literary meeting Friday afternoon. Mortimer Pouch opened the program by speaking of "The Alleged Cruelties Toward the Philippines by the United States Troops." The declamation entitled "The Singing Session" was rendered by Warren Smith. The debate entitled,

"Resolved, That 'What Is' Is Right," was a complicated subject. It was handled well by the participants, however. The affirmative was upheld by Goodell, Dill and Wells, and the negative by Hamilton, Wilhelm and Kelly. The affirmative won the debate.

The High School track team, under the management of George Magrison, left for Newberg this morning on the 6:45 boat. The meet was held this afternoon. The team will return tomorrow.

Frank Trowbridge, David Goodell and Oscar Friendly are taking a post graduate course in higher algebra.

Harrison School Notes.

Almell Solomon has returned, having recovered from his sickness. Thora Malm has recovered from the mumps, and is again attending school.

Hazel Lee of the Eighth "A" class has left school, being unable to attend regularly on account of sickness.

It would be well for one boy, at least, if he would remember that New York is not situated on both banks of the Thames.

In Tuesday's assembly the children sang "Voices of the Woods" and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Teacher-Clara, have you finished your composition? Clara-Well, I've finished as far as I've gone.

Fred Sloss was absent, but has now returned.

This Friday afternoon the Ninth "B" class is to elect its officers. There are 13 boys and 15 girls in the class. The boys will nominate Jessie Tiffany for president.

Thompson School.

Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Albers made the school a visit on Thursday.

Miss Beattie Bleick, a graduate of 1901, made the school a pleasant call on Thursday.

Miss Beattie Dupes, also a graduate of 1901, made the school a pleasant call on Thursday.

Mrs. Killingsworth made the school a call this week.

While in assembly on Wednesday, Frank McCulloch fainted from severe heat.

As were necessary, and to keep all applications on a separate file.

It was decided that the president and secretary go over all the correspondence and only the most important be brought before the meeting.

Director Deyers reported that he ordered 5000 souvenir buttons of the Lewis and Clark Fair for $52.

The ways and means committee reported that C. H. McIsaac had collected $200 in new subscriptions.

J. M. Long reported that he had arranged for meetings in Le Grande, Baker City and Pendleton, and that the people in these towns promised their support.

He suggested that President Mears of the Chamber of Commerce, President Beach of the Board of Trade, and two directors to represent President Corbett, accompany him to these cities as an evidence of good faith in the movement and of the interest Portland feels in it.

His suggestions were adopted, and the president was authorized to act accordingly.

The secretary was instructed to communicate with the managers of the Omaha and San Francisco Expositions, for the purpose of collecting information for the Fair.

Resolutions were adopted declaring an assessment of 5 per cent on the capital stock of the company, and on all donations of money made to the company, which is made due and payable to the First National Bank, treasurer of the company, on the first day of July, 1902.

The Albina Sub-Board of Trade extended an invitation to the directors, to take an automobile ride over the Abrams and Knox tract, so as to more thoroughly inspect it. Eight of the directors present had already examined the tract, and the others said they would do so at their convenience.

Benjamin I. Cohen, secretary and treasurer of the City View Land Company, submitted a definite proposition regarding the City View park. He would lease the City View park as a Fair site from June 1, 1902, to January 1, 1903, for the sum of $2000 per year plus the taxes, which amount to about $500 per year, the rental to be paid quarterly. In addition, he would donate five acres of the 17.75, for the use of a permanent exhibit. Though he dislikes selling the land, if necessary he would sell it for $100,000, or would sell one-half at the same ratio. The proposal was placed on file.

A leave of absence was granted to Director G. W. Bates till June 15.

A letter was read from C. Harper Anderson, regarding the sale of the spy glass and other relics of his kinsman, Meriwether Lewis, also asking for a position. The secretary was instructed to write Mr. Anderson, stating that the board is not yet in a position to make an offer for them.

A communication was read from Henry B. Bosch, recommending the Omaha Exposition as a pattern for the directors to follow, as the Omaha Exposition was a success.

An anonymous letter was presented, but the board declined to hear it.

By request of A. A. Moore, president of the Oregon Sunday School Convention, it was decided to extend an invitation to the International Sunday School Convention to hold its next triennial convention in Portland, in 1905.

Letters were also read from the Almsley Printing Company, about some letter heads; from Senators Simon and Mitchell, stating that they would do all they can to postpone the St. Louis Fair to 1904; from President Francis of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, stating the reasons why the St. Louis Fair and the Lewis and Clark Fair should work in harmony; from Miss E. L. Niles, presenting half-tone plates of Lewis and Clark and their signatures, to the board; from Aime, the photographer, requesting to be designated the official photographer of the Exposition; from W. B. Chase, requesting the position of civil engineer; from J. J. Chamberlain, wishing to be auditor; from George W. Otten, asking for the position of landscape gardener. The secretary was instructed to send suitable replies to such communications.

Williams Avenue School.

Della Johnson of the Sixth "A" is absent on account of sickness.

Frank Nelson of the Fourth "A" gave a party last Friday afternoon, the occasion being his ninth birthday anniversary. The affair was greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

Cecile Rohmet and Charles Bets of the Sixth "B" have been absent on account of sickness.

Maud Hartelro of the Fifth "A" has been absent on account of sickness in the family.

Matilda Johnston of the Fifth "B" is reported on the absent list.

Marie Johannesson of the Seventh "A" and Evangeline Maguire of the Fifth "B" have returned to school after several days' absence.

Rosa Swarts of the Fifth "A" has been absent on account of sickness.

Anna Willoughby was admitted to the first division of the Sixth "B" Wednesday.

Katie Sauer of the Seventh "B" was absent Tuesday, and Winifred Cawley of the Seventh "B" was absent Monday.

Marguerite Rockwell of the Seventh "A" was absent Tuesday and Wednesday on account of sickness.

Robert Crane, who was hurt while riding in his buggy some weeks ago, is improving rapidly.

Sunnyside School.

The Tribunes beat the Sunnyside team by a score of 15 to 7 last Friday afternoon.

A mothers' meeting will be held in Sunnyside School on Thursday, May 15. This will be the last meeting this year, and it is hoped all mothers will make an effort to be present.

Stephens School.

The midterm examinations came to an end last Friday, much to the delight of the pupils.

Miss Packer's room received the banner for the highest percentage of attendance last month.

Owing to illness, Clara Haslam of the Seventh "B" grade has left school. She was a good pupil and will be missed.

Wednesday afternoon, in the assembly, the principal gave the pupils a little talk about staying out of school to work. It was very good, and we are sure every one appreciated it.

Miss Fryer's room gave the program in the assembly Wednesday afternoon. It was good.

Harry Webb of the Sixth "B" has had to stay out of school on account of a bad burn from oil. He will be missed very much.

Mothers' meeting came on Thursday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock.

Failing School News.

Mellissa Lee of the Fourth grade is ill with scarletina.

Florence Roberts of the Ninth grade is very sick with poison oak. It is hoped by her friends that she will soon be able to return to school.

There is diphtheria at the Children's Home. The children who live there were taken out of school on this account.

The teachers and pupils of the Failing School, under the direction of Professor Pratt, prepared a most excellent and interesting program on "Oregon Birds" for Friday afternoon. The assembly hall was tastefully decorated with ferns, flowers and cages containing birds. The program consisted of songs, drills and recitations pertaining to our native birds.

Superintendent J. C. Zinner of Clackamas County visited Miss Porter's room on Tuesday.

Mrs. E. H. Richards was a visitor at the school on Monday.

Knockout Axles

High Art Construction

STANDARD for QUALITY and FINISH

Eccentric Chain Adjustment

Salamander Enamel on Nickel.

Ride the WOLFF and Keep Out of the Repair Shops.

Not Made by a Trust. Not Sold by a Trust.

SEE THEM. BUY THEM. RIDE THEM.

S. S. SIGEL,

335 Morrison Street

Portland, Oregon

$25.00. $30.00. $40.00

AMONG THE LODGES

Quality and Profit

are the factors two, That determine the price of the wheel to you;

For the better the quality, the less relatively, you pay, And the best is the cheapest—by a good long way.

For value in wheels, with style and comfort as well, Be sure that your mount is a MITCHELL or SNELL.

Mitchell and Snell Bicycles

Have a recognized value with thousands of riders. Our lines are extensive—57 models and sizes. Inspection will convince you of their worth. We carry a large line of

BICYCLES, SUNDRIES and TIRES.

MITCHELL, LEWIS & STAYER CO.

First and Taylor Streets, Portland, Oregon

VEHICLES, IMPLEMENTS, BICYCLES, HARNESS.

lands. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.

ARID LAND DEVELOPMENT.

W. W. Holbrook left yesterday for Pendleton, near where the canal company of which he is manager is engaged in an extensive work of developing arid land. Mr. Holbrook has already carried the work to a point that promises success for the enterprise, and he feels assured that before long scores of people will be actively employed in producing grains and fruits from land now worthless.

The lands of Mr. Holbrook's company are situated on the Columbia river, three miles below Umatilla. A ditch leads from the Umatilla river a short distance above Umatilla town, and carries the water along an elevation so that it may be conducted over a large area of land. The enterprise was inaugurated by D. W.

BAILEY OF PORTLAND, and is now in excellent condition. Mr. Holbrook and his associates bought the Bailey rights and have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. He will remain at the works for the greater part of the summer.

STRANGERS NOW.

Brown—"How's your friend Shortlight?" Green—"Oh, we are no longer friends."

Brown—"Why, how's that?" Green—"He permitted me to loan him $5 the other day, and I don't suppose he will ever forgive me for being such a fool."—Detroit Today.