About 30 members of the League of Honor, A. O. U. W., of Portland, visited Falls City Lodge at Oregon City Saturday night. Among the visitors were Past Grand Master Ralph Feeney and Past Grand Treasurer J. E. Werlein.

Mrs. Mary Jane Craig, aged 72 years and 11 months, died Saturday at her home at 1159 Mallory avenue, Piedmont. She was born in Devonshire, England, in 1872, and the greater part of her life has been spent in America. The funeral was held from the residence at noon today, and interment was in the Lone Fir cemetery.

Watson's Restaurant, open nights to 1 a. m.

A musical feature greatly enjoyed at the First Congregational Church in this city Sunday morning was the rendition of a solo by Mrs. C. H. Warrens. She possesses a beautiful contralto voice that has depth of richness seldom heard. Mrs. Warrens has not resided in Portland long, but has already become one of the most admired musicians here. She received her musical education in Paris under De Deszke's master.

Will Farnham Sterling, the 11-months-old son of J. C. and Florence Sterling of Ellensburg, Wash., was buried yesterday at the Lone Fir cemetery.

Ruth Assembly, United Artisans, will hold an entertainment and dance at Twenty-first and Savier streets this evening.

The Central W. C. T. U. will meet in the parlors of the Taylor-Street Church next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Dahlgeish and Mrs. Stone, who have just returned from California, will address those present on W. C. T. U. work in California. Permanent headquarters will be decided upon.

About 30 persons went out Saturday afternoon to the Irvington race course. There were in practice for the meeting of the Hunt Club, May 31. Another practice meet will take place Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Musical folk of the city are anticipating with pleasure the piano recital to be given at Calvary Presbyterian Church, Eleventh and Clay streets, on Friday evening, May 16. Professor Anton Zilm will render a piano solo and Mr. Dudley several vocal selections. A number of pupils from St. Helen's Hall will assist in the program. One thousand invitations have been issued, and all desiring to attend should secue them from Mrs. Ella Jones, at her studio in the Goodnough building.

Park Commissioner Fleckenstein is in personal charge of the improvement of Columbia park. He reports that the underbrush is being rapidly cleared away, and when that has been completed roads will be laid out and entrances arranged. Gates will be installed in various places.

The Curent Events will hold its annual meeting tonight in the parlor of the First Congregational Church. Besides the usual business, there will be the election of officers and the appointment of committees for the coming year, after which a social evening will be spent, and the friends of the club will be in attendance. The program will include the following numbers: Baritone solo, Mr. Claussenius; "Patsy," Catherine Le Barre; soprano solo, Miss Mabel Johnston.

A team of oxen from Missouri was an attraction to many people on the streets yesterday as they perambulated over town, drawing after them a cart and driven by a typical Missourian, all combining to form one of the cleverest advertisements of "In Missouri" that could be devised. Manager Baker and Mr. Stuart conceived the idea and secured the team from the country.

During the past day or two a rumor has gone around town to the effect that members of the fire department intended to organize a union. They claim that the rumor is unfounded, as no advantages are to be gained by organization.

THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

George Miller and James Colwell, accused of murdering Joseph W. Curtis at Malheur March 28, were found guilty of murder in the second degree last Saturday.

Burns will soon have a national bank.

The Mayor of Medford has determined to close the saloons in that city on Sunday.

After playing with the business end of a buzz saw, Adolph Nyland of Astoria has found it necessary to consult a physician.

The telephone line between Toledo and Siletz has been completed.

From the effects of being thrown from a wagon and alighting on the back of his head, A. S. Matteson of Fall River was very seriously injured.

The Rogue River Courier has installed a typesetting machine in its office, and the paper now appears more handsome than ever.

The new ice plant being erected at The Dalles is being rushed toward completion.

John Riley, a Union army veteran living at Grants Pass, made two attempts to drown himself in Rogue river, but was rescued both times.

It is reported from Marshfield that a deal is under why whereby the Southern Oregon Company property in Coos County is to change ownership. This land embraces over 100,000 acres of land, the townsite of Empire City and one of the largest lumber mills on the Coast.

A CHANGE!

J. P. JAEGER

On account of the continued increase of business, and upon the urgent request of my customers to add an Optical Department, I have taken into partnership my brother, J. P. Jaeger, a graduate of the Northern Illinois College of Opthalmology and Otology of Chicago, who has brought with him the most modern scientific appliances for examining and testing the eyes; and I am pleased to announce that we have opened in connection with our Jewelry Store a thoroughly equipped Optical Parlor, conducted upon up-to-date methods. Remember, we make no charge for testing, and shall be glad to have you call in and consult us regarding your eyes at any time. The firm name will hereafter be

JAEGER BROS.

And we shall continue the present policy of giving the best that can be had for the money. It will be to your interest to get our prices before buying anything in our line. Our stock is new and we offer our customers the very latest novelties as fast as they are placed on the market.

I thank the public for its generous patronage since I started in business, and ask a continuance thereof for the new firm.

FUGITIVE MURDERER

Loses Chances of Appeal by Breaking Jail.

(Journal Special Service.)

HELENA, Mont., May 13.—For the first time in the history of Montana, the Supreme Court was asked to dismiss an appeal in a criminal case because the convicted man, Peter Dempsey, has broken jail and fled from the jurisdiction of the court. Such cases have been known in other states, one having occurred recently in Washington, but the action in Dempsey's case will set a precedent for this state.

The motion was filed by Assistant Attorney General Frank W. Mettler and asks the court to dismiss the appeal for the reasons stated "unless the defendant shall, within such reasonable time as may be fixed by the court, return and submit himself to the jurisdiction of this court."

In the accompanying affidavit, Mr. Mettler states that Dempsey was convicted July 3, 1900, of murder in the first degree in Butte and, a motion for a new trial having been overruled, was sentenced September 4, 1900, to be hanged. He appealed, and the transcript was filed in the Supreme Court April 10, 1902. But before this was done, Dempsey had broken jail and fled from the jurisdiction of the court, June 22, 1901.

Dempsey murdered his wife by shooting her in the head in April, 1900, and this is the crime for which he was sentenced to be hanged. He and two other prisoners combined and threw pepper in the eyes of the County Jailer in Butte and, while he was thus blinded, they knocked him down, took the keys from him, unlocked the doors and escaped. The two other men were recaptured, but Dempsey has never been found. He is believed to have gone to South Africa and taken part in the Boer war, but no one knows on which side he is.

The effect of the dismissal of the appeal will be to render Dempsey an outlaw, liable to be brought back and hanged without hope of another chance to save his life by an appeal.

NEW COLLEGE FOR TACOMA

City of Destiny Swelled Out of Shape.

(Journal Special Service.)

TACOMA, Wash., May 13.—As a result of the prompt action of the Chamber of Commerce it is practically assured that Tacoma will soon possess a new and important educational institution. Some weeks ago a proposition was submitted by the United Norwegian Lutheran Church, announcing the intention of the church organization of establishing a co-educational college in the Pacific Northwest, and asking what inducements would be offered by Tacoma to secure the institution. The Chamber of Commerce and citizens generally promptly took up the matter and made a formal offer of a magnificent tract of land, together with other inducements in the way of transportation and material for building that will undoubtedly be accepted by the church.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT

Planing-Mill Strike Shows but Little Change.

The planing mill situation remains practically unchanged. It is not expected that any agreement will be reached for several days, if at all. Both sides are obstinate, and claim that they will not yield.

The men say that they are prepared to make a prolonged struggle. A great many of them have secured other positions, and and swelling the strike fund whit a portion of their earnings. Some of them haev left the city to accept situations elsewhere, but the majority of them are still in Portland and intend to remain here until all differences are settled. They are relying strongly upon the general boycott which will soon be in force against all the products turned out by the several mills. When this is once in thorough working order, they believe that further successful resistance to them will be impossible.

They are also depending largely upon scoring a point when the Smith mill, on the East Side, opens up for business. The proprietor has given his promise to recognize the union and adopt the nine-hour system. The building is completed, and the firm now is only awaiting the arrival of the machinery from the East, which is due here now. When it arrives it will be but a matter of a few days when the mill will be in readiness to start operations. It is expected to be running not later than June 1, and some believe that the machinery will be installed before that date.

By running two nine-hour shifts, the proprietors of this mill will be enabled to use a majority of the woodworkers now out of employment; and when it starts the strikers are confident that if all differences are not settled before then it will have a strong tendency to bring the other millowners into line.

It is now fully understood and appreciated, however, that the proprietors have a strong combine which had been in process of formation for some time prior to the strike. They realize the difficulties to be encountered in breaking this, as the first of the owners to break faith will lose a heavy forfeit.

THE DAY'S DEAD.

Mrs. Mansfield Hillhouse, eldest sister of Collis P. Huntington, is dead in New York.

B. Vowell, an old-timer in the Coquille valley, is dead, aged 76 years.

Rev. W. E. Smith of Hillsboro is dead at the age of 85 years. He was the pioneer County Judge of Washington County.

Mrs. Matilda Poole of Moro, Or., died of apoplexy yesterday. The end came suddenly.

Patrick O'Leary, an 8-year-old Tacoma boy, was drowned yesterday in a ditch having in it only a foot of water.

GRAND ARMY MEN ASSEMBLE

Indianapolis Full of Veterans of the Civil War.

(Journal Special Service.)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 13.—Over 10,000 veterans and other visitors are estimated to have arrived here today for the annual state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic and the attendant celebration. The depots and the streets presented every appearance of the great annual reunion as the excursionists arrived and were soon seeing the sights. The preliminary meetings of the encampment were held today, but tomorrow and the day following will be the big day. Thursday will witness the dedication of the magnificent soldiers and sailors' monument. All indications point to the selection of Benjamin Starr, of Richmond, as the next department commander.

BABY IS DEAD

Smallest Infant in Oregon Needed an Incubator.

The tiny infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Dadroe of Mount Tabor died last Friday after six weeks' lease of life. The child when born weighed only 1¾ pounds, being the smallest child ever born in this state. An ordinary finger ring could be slipped over its entire hand. It is said that if the parents had an incubator the life of the little one might have been saved.

Letter-Carrier Musicians.

The Portland Letter-Carriers will make themselves heard in a new way this summer. They have organized a band and are blowing all kinds of melody from horns, big and little. The band comprises: J. A. Valentine, E-flat bass; H. M. Tower, baritone; T. Minogue, second trombone; G. E. Moore, first trombone; G. W. Feathers, E-flat bass; F. G. Driver, third alto; F. Stewart, second alto; E. A. Moulton, solo alto; H. M. Barrett, business manager; J. H. Everest, instructor; A. S. Hill, second B-flat cornet; G. I. Smith, first B-flat cornet; W. P. Lyman, third B-flat cornet; C. H. Jackson, piccolo; A. E. Lincoln, E-flat clarionet; O. W. Pearce, first B-flat clarionet; R. L. Collis, second B-flat cornet; C. E. Elwell, second B-flat clarionet; William Haner, first D-flat cornet; John Good, first B-flat cornet; E. G. Watson, snare drum; W. F. Brown, bass drum.

CHAMBERLAIN STOUTLY REFUSED

To Take Railroad Favors—Saved Thousands for State.

(Journal Special Service.)

SALEM, May 12.—There has been much said during the present campaign relative to the Democratic nominee for Governor, George E. Chamberlain, as not being a man who, under all circumstances had the moral courage to say "No!" Of course these charges are made by the "push" organs and whoever is at the crank feels privileged to grind out this tune, the facts of the matter to the contrary, notwithstanding.

One noticeable incident happened several years ago when Mr. Chamberlain was Attorney-General for Oregon, which strikingly shows what a keen sense of moral courage he has, and how fearlessly he acts upon it. It was along in 1888, when the Railroad Commissioners for Oregon brought united suits against the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific Railroad Companies, over alleged discrimination in tariff rates. Owing to the enormous expense of moving the books, employees and inconvenience of so doing to the railroad companies, it was stipulated that the companies were to pay all necessary fares of the litigans in the cases, and that the testimony be taken before a referee in San Francisco for the Southern Pacific and in Omaha for the Union Pacific. Circuit Judge R. P. Boise, before whom the suits were brought, appointed Hon. W. H. Holmes, of this city, referee. Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Holmes and the court stenographer, W. P. Williams, went to San Francisco and there took the testimony before Referee Holmes for the Southern Pacific. From there they went to Omaha and took the Union Pacific testimony. It was while here that the keen moral sensibility of Mr. Chamberlain was seen. He was anticipating a visit to Natchez to see one of his relatives, and remarked upon it to his friends. John Thurston, the well-known United States Senator, was this leading attorney for the Union Pacific company in this suit, and hearing of the proposed visit of Mr. Chamberlain to Mississippi, sought him out and in the most cordial manner offered him passes for his trip. Mr. Holmes, the referee, who was present at this circumstance, in conversation with a Journal reporter in regard to the matter, said he never saw anything more cordially offered, and more graciously declined. "One could readily see," said Mr. Holmes, "that nothing more nor less than the conscientious scruples of Mr. Chamberlain laid behind the polite but positive declination. To a man of less moral perception, the taking of these passes might not have given a second thought, but to Mr. Chamberlain, his keen moral sense prevented him accepting from his legal opponents any personal favors. The idea of accepting favors from the railroad company he had come there to fight for equity to his state, wounded his sense of justice and his deep moral sense of right. That little word 'No,' cost him nearly $200 in fares, but he had retained a consistent and conscientious position. It is very likely that Senator Thurston has forgotten about this, but it is certain that those who saw the instance felt a deeper respect for Mr. Chamberlain afterwards.

"These cases were appealed to the Supreme Court, but the court sustained the decision of the lower court. By his energetic and untiring efforts on behalf of the state, the people were saved thousands of dollars annually. And, to show how just and right the findings were, the rates on nearly all of the issues before the court have never been changed since."

HORSE SHOW

(Journal Special Service.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 13.—The second annual open air horse show opened today at the Memphis Driving Park and will continue through the week. Both in the number and high quality of the exhibits the shows far surpasses that of last year. There are four professional strings of horses in addition to a number from local stables. Several thousand dollars will be distributed among the prize winners.

Past Sachems' Excursion.

Quite an enjoyable time was spent by the many people who took a trip to Albany and Corvallis with the Past Sachems' annual excursion last Sunday. Besides the change afforded from city life, the grand scenery of the Willamette valley through which they passed impressed the seekers of recreation. Three trains departed from the Union depot at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and proceeded on the east side of the Willamette river to Albany. The fresh river breeze delighted every one. During the two hours allowed for luncheon at Albany, many embraced the opportunity of taking in the sights. From Albany the party proceeded to Corvallis, where a stop of one hour was made. The return trip was made on the west side of the river, and every one agreed that it was a day of real enoyment.

IOWA SPORTSMEN

Are Competing for Prizes at Ottumwa.

(Journal Special Service.)

OTTUMWA, Ia., May 13.—Crack shots from all parts of the state are gathered here for the annual tournament of the Iowa State Sportmen's Association, which began today and continues until Friday. The programme provides for both target and live bird matches and a number of valuable trophies and prizes will be awarded. Some excellent scores were made in the target events today.

The JOURNAL SHORT STORY

The Sinner gazed approvingly out at the heavy falling rain.

"Gee!" he exclaimed. "Won't this make my garden grow! I tell you, there's nothing like good, wet rain this time of year. I hope it won't flood the cellar again, though," he added, anxiously. "Water in the wrong place has its drawbacks, as the Kentuckian and the Filipino will probably tell you."

"Isn't that water-cure business terrible?" said the Little Woman.

"We-e-ll," replied the Sinner, "I don't believe in torturing anybody, but I never knew a man to be any the worse for a good cleaning-out occasionally. You see, the gentle Filipino doesn't realize how good it is for him to have a little housecleaning of his interior, and he naturally objects.

"By—the—way, about this beef trust matter—the public has just discovered the real author of all its misery."

"What's that?" quickly asked the Little Woman.

"Gently—gently, my dear. This is a solemn moment. I would not make the statement rashly, without due preparation of your untrained mind.

"In the direction of the setting sun, in the land of hot springs, sand storms, ranches and scenery, in the town of Carbondale, state of Colorado, dwells a man by the name of Grubb—Grubb, mind you! —who has undertaken the task of enlightening our darkened and prejudiced intellects.

"'Prosperity,' says he, 'has flooded the land. What are you kicking about, anyway?' says he, resting his sorrowful eye upon his prosperous ranch. The price of meat is high, of course. High prices promotes universal peace and brotherhood. We'll never have cheap meat again, never!' says he, in a thankful voice, as he again rested said eye on said ranch. 'But while I'd like to take the credit of it, I cannot. Don't blame me, nor the beef trust. 'Tis the hand of the Almighty,' says he, raising said eye from said ranch and elevating it to the blue dome of the skies. 'We're modest. We wouldn't tell a lie. The Almighty done it. Amen,' says he, with a sweet, sad smile.

"And his name is Grubb!" continued the Sinner, disgustedly. "I wonder if he paid any tariff on it when he brought it into the United States.

"Nevertheless, the Chicago packers are just a trifle uneasy. I don't believe they feel very sound themselves on the 'Almighty' theory. Maybe they haven't got a castiron agreement with the Lord and are afraid he'll back out when things get too hot. Still—they're pretty foxy, those packers, and maybe they've got him cinched in the trust some way or other. You never can tell.

"S-a-ay—I can just see old Gustavus' chin whiskers bobbing up and down as he replies to the questions of the guileless newspaper reporter.

"'Ef the gov'rnmint wants to go to law it kin go to law,' says he. 'I ain't got nothin' agin the gov'rnmint. But I ain't a-goin' to say anythin' to anybuddy. Ef you kin find any beef trust layin' 'round loose, yeou kin have it an' welcome. But yeou don't get me to givin' myself away any. Now mosey. This is my busy day.'

"Then there's Armour of ham fame. 'Br-ring on your lawyers, your pr-roofs, your accusations,' says he, in a high-priced and genteel voice, 'I cour-rt them. Investigations ar-re me special hobby, Pr-ray investigate. I dote on investigations,' says he, sticking his legs under the desk so the reporter can't see them tremble.

"Nelson Morris sits at his desk and blinks his little yes. 'Ged ouad!' says he to the timid interrogation man. 'I am losing money efery day. I lost fife cents ouad mine pocket from dis morning once. I don't know anyt'ing aboud any thrust airetty. Thrust be d——d! Take your nody along mit your feet ouad.' After the newspaper man has hastily worried himself out, Nels locks the door and calls up Swift on the telephone.

"'Oh, Gussie,' says he. 'It iss a fearful pickle ve are in maybe. I guess ve hav to discombine once. Vat you say?'

"Not on yeour life!' says Swift, in a husky whisper. 'I've got a finer scheme th'n that. Stiddy yeour nerves, old boy. We'll raise the price of meats instid of goin' out of bizness, an' prove they ain't no combine at all!'

"'I lof you, Gussie,' says Morris, as he plants a kiss on the telephone. 'You are a true friend. How mooch vill ve raise it?'

"'We'll ask the other fellows,' says Swift. 'Meet me at the reg'lar place, reg'lar hour, an' we'll fix it up. But if you see any Sherlock Holmeses hoverin' 'round, scatter an' look inn'cint. An' don't ye ever f'rgit, Nelsy—in union they's strength! So long.'

"'Ach, dot Yankee head!' exclaims Morris, as he hangs up the receiver. 'It beats de Dutch!'

"Then he orders his secretary to call his carriage for him to go home to dinner. On the way out of the yards he meets Gustavus, also on the way home to dinner, drawn by a spanking pair of thoroughbreds. They bow very distantly, and are trotted away to their separate domiciles, where they feast on rare, juicy, tender—um, um—30-cent-a-pound beefsteak, an inch thick!. It makes my mouth water to think of it."

The Sinner reflectively licked his chops.

"But," he suddenly exploded, "I'll be dinged if I'll buy any to help them enjoy it!"

PRIZE DOGS ON SHOW

(Journal Special Service.)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 13.—A notable dog show under the auspices of the California State Kennel Club opened in Sacramento today. The exhibits number several hundred and include a majority of the prize winners at the recent bench shows in Victoria, Seattle, Portland and San Francisco. The judges are Dr. George W. Clayton, of Chicago, J. J. Lynn, of Port Huron, Mich., Attorney-General C. N. Post, of California, and E. C. Plume, of San Francisco.

MINES AND MINING.

One week's clean-up at the Black Hawk mine, near Alamo, up which a five-stamp mill was recently erected, netted the owners $700.

Seven inches of cobalt, and the rich streak constantly widening, is the latest wonder of the Standard mine, Quartzburg District. In this marvelous streak of rare metal are also found gold values of $243 per ton.

Development work on the Alpine group of mines, Cable Cove District, is to commence soon as snow will permit. Colonel John Temple Grason, who is second vice-president and general manager of the company, reached Sumpter Wednesday to prepare for work.

The Oregon Placer & Power Company intends to operate six or eight giants on two of their properties this season in the Sumpter District, and will put two more in condition for work. A portion of this company's ground is high up, and cannot be worked till late when snow melts, but the returns after work commences have proved large, as indicated by the constant enlargement of facilities.

Judge M. G. Munley of Portland Tuesday made a trip of inspection to a large placer property owned by him in the vicinity of Lawton. He spent but two days on the ground, which was for the purpose of determining what should be done with the property. He indicated that the owners might desire to work it or sell, depending on the prospects as drawn from his report.—Blue Mountain American.

This season in the Sumpter District will witness the greatest placer clean-ups which have been known for years. In several places there has been a marked revival of interest in the placer diggings. Companies have been organized to operate diggings on a large scale, and scenes where there has been comparatively little life since the boom days of pioneer times will be teeming with workers.

At a late meeting of the stockholders of the Huronian Gold Mining Company, held at the Oregon Mining Exchange in Portland, J. C. Moreland, H. M. Ballett and F. J. Hard were elected directors. Thomas Bessler will be continued as superintendent of the mine. The Huronian is a close neighbor of the Ibex and the Bald Mountain properties, which large concerns it has hope of rivaling in due time. It is located eight miles from Sumpter.

Notice! Dog Fanciers.

Wash your dogs in Knapo-Curo Dog Wash. Kills the fleas, softens the hair and cures all skin diseases. One gallon makes 100. Ready for use. Your money back if not as represented. Bowen's Seed Store, corner Front and Taylor streets.

STOCK OUTLOOK GOOD.

C. W. Mills, live stock agent of the O. R. & N. Company, who has been frisking around in the Blue Mountain district for a week past in the interest of his department, got in this morning. In speaking of general conditions prevailing he said:

"The outlook is for a very heavy clip of wool in Oregon this year. The increase in the way of spring lambs is very large. Sheepmen feel very good over the way matters are looking, although prices are very uncertain.

"The indications point to unusual activity in the way of sheep and cattle shipments just now. Although the prices are considerably lower than last year, the movement is quite free."

Editor of What?

From the sunny Southland, "where the sweet magnolias bloom," has come the voice of the Charleston News and Courier. It speaks in sugared accents of Albert Tozier of Portland, formerly president of the National Editorial Association, members of which are now in the South. The Oregonian reprints the article from the Charleston News and Courier under the headline, "A Live Oregon Editor." It is only pertinent to inquire of what is Mr. Tozier editor?

PENSION THE VETERANS.

The Oregon and Washington delegates in Congress are working very hard to have Congress pension the Indian war veterans. The President and Speaker have been interested in this matter and the chairman of the pension committee will surely acquiesce.

THE MARKETS.

A decided firmness in the egg markets has made a slight advance in quotations this morning. Lighter receipts and a closer clean-up of the market is the cause. Eggs today are quoted at 15 and 15½ cents, with most of the sales at the latter figure.

The vegetable market is lively, receipts and demand being about the same. Onions are quoted at $3 today.

Changes in the grocery market are rather scarce, and business is steady. An advance has been made on walnuts.

The wool market is exceedingly dull, with very light receipts.

In the meat line, pork continues scarce, with a tendency to higher quotations. Larger receipts on other meats is reported.

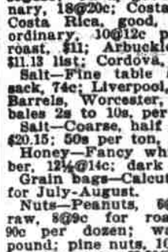
C. GEE WO
THE GREAT CHINESE DOCTOR



Can it be wondered that he is called great, when his wonderful remedies cure and help so many sick and suffering people, not only here, but throughout the United States? Many are given up to die; others told that an operation was the only help for them, yet their lives were saved, without the great suffering of an operation. Cured by these powerful Chinese herbs, roots, buds, barks and vegetables, that are entirely unknown to medical science in this country. Through the use of these harmless remedies he treats any and all diseases of men, women and children. This famous doctor knows the action of over 500 different remedies that he has successfully used in different diseases. He guarantees to cure catarrh, asthma, lung troubles, rheumatism, nervousness, stomach, liver, kidney, female troubles, lost manhood and all private diseases.
Charges moderate. Call and see him. Consultation free. Patients out of the city write for blank and circular. Inclose stamp. Address The C. Gee Wo Chinese Medicine Company, 123½ Third street, Portland, Or. Mention this paper.
