

THE GIRL WHO SHOOK MARCONI WEDS TODAY

Josephine Holman Has Found a Man Whom She Can Love.

(Journal Special Service.)
 NEW YORK, May 22.—A dispatch from London says that the wedding of Miss Josephine Holman, formerly of Indianapolis, who was once engaged to marry Signor Marconi, of wireless telegraphy fame, to Eugene Boross of Budapest, Hungary, took place today at St. Margaret's Chapel, Westminster, in the presence of a brilliant assemblage that included many prominent members of the American colony.

The announcement a few weeks ago of Miss Holman's engagement to Mr. Boross created something of a sensation, as it came so soon after it had become known that the troth between the young Indiana girl and Signor Marconi had been broken. Mr. Boross is well known in this city, having paid several long visits here during the last few years. He is the only son of a wealthy business man of Budapest, and has been a great traveler. He is about 36 years of age, handsome, accomplished and a man of charming manners. On his latest visit to America he was the guest of E. R. Merritt of this city, a cousin of President Roosevelt.

Mr. Boross' courtship of Miss Holman was not without its romantic features. Their first meeting took place on board one of the Atlantic liners last January. It was just a few days before she sailed that Miss Holman announced the breaking off of her engagement to Signor Marconi. No reason for her action was ever given. She merely announced the fact that the engagement was broken and Signor Marconi was equally uncommunicative as to the cause of the disagreement. Intimate friends, however, formed their own conjectures as to the young woman's reasons for breaking with the famous Italian. They are inclined to think that Signor Marconi was too much absorbed with his inventions to give his fiancée the devotion which her nature demanded, and that she resented his seeming indifference. However this may be, they are certain that in Mr. Boross she will find the most affectionate of husbands. The young couple expect to make their future home in Budapest, but it is said that one of the promises exacted from Mr. Boross by his bride is that he will bring her to the United States every year.

NEGRO VOTE ELIMINATED

New Constitution of Virginia Assured.

(Journal Special Service.)
 RICHMOND, Va., May 22.—The Virginia Constitutional Convention, which reassembled today after a recess of six weeks, is not expected to remain long in session, as its work is practically completed. It remains only to be decided whether the new instrument shall be submitted to the people or shall be proclaimed as the fundamental law of the state. It is probable the latter course will be adopted, though in any event its adoption is assured. The chief feature of the new constitution is the clause relating to suffrage, the effect of which will be to practically remove the negro vote as a disturbing factor in politics.

Another important feature is the re-issuing of the article abolishing hold-over Senators.

A DESPERATE DUEL

(Journal Special Service.)
 MEDICINE BOW, Wyo., May 22.—Sam Johnson, who was wounded by T. E. Riley during a saloon row Tuesday night, is dead. Johnson and Riley fought a duel and it is said that Johnson made at least one attempt upon the life of his slayer. Riley and Johnson quarreled over a woman and Johnson drew a revolver. Riley, it is claimed, dared him to shoot and drew his revolver, striking Johnson over the head with the weapon. He then put the gun away and started to back out of the saloon, when Johnson fired two shots at Riley, who returned the fire, hitting Johnson twice in the abdomen. Johnson crawled to the door and emptied his pistol at Riley without effect.

GOES TO THE PEN.

"Belle Naylor, alias Belli Scott, the notorious negroess who was arrested on the eve of her trial for robbery for threatening to kill Chief of Police Wittman," says the San Francisco Bulletin, "was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment for the robbery of man named Mathies. The woman took her sentence coolly. Her term of imprisonment will be hailed with delight by the police, for the woman has been a source of constant annoyance to them for years. She has plenty of money and all efforts to keep her in jail have failed because of her ability to furnish bonds in almost any amount demanded by the courts."

The Naylor woman is well known to the Portland police. She consorted with the very worst North End element. She caused the arrest of many of her companions in crime through spite, but did not have the satisfaction of seeing any of them convicted. She is where she belongs now.

HER BUSTLE WAS AFIRE

The Loss Was Covered, but Not by an Insurance.

(Journal Special Service.)
 PITTSBURG, Pa., May 22.—The sight of a woman's bustle afire started many people at Fifth avenue and Market street. The woman was fat and had an adamant countenance. Behind her, as she waited for a car, were two youth puffing cigarettes. Suddenly one saw a little wreath of blue curling up.

"Great Scott, she's afire!" he exclaimed to his friend. Then he touched the woman: "Beg pardon, madam, but I believe your bustle is afire!"

The woman started to run, but was held by a dozen men while they put the fire out.

"You're a nice lot of scamps, setting a lady's dress afire. I'll make you pay for this!" she screamed at the two boys. "I'll report you to the police."

The loss was not covered by insurance, but an old shawl hid the damage.

Billy Mead Is Back.

Down Railroad Row the glad cry rang that the general agent of the Omaha had returned from his trip to New York City. Once a year "Billy" jags loose from the attractions of the Willamette Valley and seeks relief in the strenuous life of the great metropolis. There are times when he seeks relief from Portland life, which expresses itself in various ways.

Sometimes "Billy" digs up his annual pass and hires himself to Puget Sound, where the waves play pleasantly on the shore. It is said that he even took an unexpected ride at 6:30-time in an elevator that went clear through from start to finish without any stopover privileges at the intervening floors.

That was an experience that caused "Billy" to gasp for breath. It was a record-breaking run. His raven locks turned ashy gray in 15 seconds. He never rides in elevators now. Instead of that he walks up. Ever since the days that the jolly little man was a member of the Portland Common Council his ailments have developed, and changing himself up and down stairs is calculated to reduce the same. The physical culture fad is "Billy's" long suit.

Mr. Mead is a warm number when it comes to "charity, sweet charity." He will do the hot-foot in the great baseball games as a special attraction when the local railroad men play games for the benefit of the Baby's Home or the resorts for the childless old bachelors of the Maed school.

"Billy" Mead did not do any slack-wire performances in New York or Brooklyn. He simply went to Gotham to see his mother to whom he is ever a dutiful son. If he should cut out his annual trip to New York, or should fail to stop off at St. Paul and renew old associations there, life would be a dreary waste.

Building Association Hall.

The plans and specifications for the new hall of the Mississippi-Avenue Building Association on Mississippi avenue have been slightly changed and the call for bids will be delayed until they are completed, which will probably be the latter part of the week. It was the original intention of the association to call for separate bids on each class of work, but on the advice of C. E. Steelsmith, the superintendent of construction, the association has decided to call for bids on the whole building, the successful bidder doing any sub-letting of the contract he may see fit.

WHITE SLAVE DEPOT RAIDED

How Young Girls Are Purchased for Vile Purposes.

(Journal Special Service.)
 PARIS, May 22.—Countess Waldere, the American wife of the Field Marshal, is to be a guest of honor at the international conference for the suppression of white slavery to be held here in the middle of June.

The police just raided the little island of Andreey, at the junction of the Olse and Seme, where several white slave "depots" were discovered. Eighty girls were returned to their families, among them several billed to go to the United States. They were cloak models by profession and the slave dealers managed to get them into their power by fake orders from big New York stores alleged to be in want of young women possessing a "French" figure.

The police found correspondence showing that the girls were to be shipped to Rio de Janeiro and the City of Mexico instead of New York.

WOMEN WORKERS

Mrs. Bob Burdette Calls on Local Club Women.

Mrs. R. J. Burdette, who spent Tuesday in Portland with her husband, the vice-president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, and on account of this fact was called upon by a number of the club women of this city.

She is described as one of the typical workers in the many clubs of the country. She is imbued with the highest ideals in the work, and the best standard of excellence in womanhood. She is one who entertains her guests in just the manner best suited to themselves, and does it naturally.

Mrs. Burdette displayed great interest in the club organizations of Portland, in the personality of their officers and the work they are doing.

Although here but for the day, Mrs. Burdette paid a visit to Mrs. Antoinette Strahan at her home. She had corresponded with Mrs. Strahan regarding club work, and hearing of her illness, called on her during the afternoon and presented her with some flowers, and needless to say, the visit was appreciated by the invalid.

If Mrs. Burdette comes to Portland again soon the club members will hold a reception in her honor, so that she may meet a greater number than could call at her hotel.

LAW GRADUATES.

The statement in a morning paper that only 12 students of the senior class of the University of Oregon law school finished the course is erroneous. On being interviewed, Professor Richard Thornton, the dean, said that he does not know who passed the examinations, as the reports of all the professors are not in yet. Last Monday night the examinations in constitutional law were held. This was the final examination. Professor Thornton thinks that he will be able to name the successful ones next week.

Pressmen's Excursion.

The excursion to Clatsop beach from this city next Sunday under the management of the Printing Pressmen's Union will be taken advantage of by a large number of people who desire to visit the seaside even for a short time. The train will leave the Union depot at 8:30, and reaching Clatsop at 12:30, will give the excursionists three hours at the beach. The tickets are selling rapidly, and several private cars have been engaged.

A rural free delivery system will be established at Harrisburg, Linn County.

BIG TIME At Sellwood by Citizen Ticket Supporters.

Residents of Sellwood gave a practical demonstration of their interest in the success of the Citizens' ticket at a meeting held in Fireman's hall last night.

The night previous Judge Caples spoke in behalf of the machine ticket to an audience of 35 people but on this occasion the hall was comfortably filled and as the several speakers made telling points they were vigorously applauded.

J. F. Kirchem presided and Master Leo Shapirer, an accomplished pianist, and Frank D. Hennessy, whose songs are always well received, furnished the musical part of the program, after which H. W. Parks, one of the leading representatives of organized labor, was introduced as the first speaker.

Workingman Tales.

Mr. Parker stated he was not a candidate for any office, just a plain working man, but was very much interested in the success of every candidate on the Citizens' ticket. He said:

"I am a representative of organized labor and from close observation it appears to me the Citizens' ticket is a sure winner. The people of Portland have good cause to congratulate themselves that so many representative men have laid aside party fealty in local affairs and joined hands in an effort to give the people an honest, non-partisan administration of affairs and it was a further source of congratulation that laboring men and business men were working shoulder to shoulder in the interest of such a ticket."

He believed that the Citizens' ticket was well worthy the support of every voter and should be elected from its candidates for State Senator down to Constable. The candidates on the ticket representing the laboring interests were selected on the recommendation of the various unions and were men known for their integrity and moral worth and if elected would be found well worthy of the trust reposed in them.

Inman Talks.

R. D. Inman made a few pertinent remarks, reminding those present that the people of Portland were now on the eve of an election of more than ordinary importance to the voters, but in the county and city they were expected to exercise their rights as citizens fairly and honestly. The purpose of the Citizens' ticket, its sole purpose, was to secure good government. It was in nowise a political movement, but for the best interests of all the people.

"It is time for you to think," he continued, "to think seriously what it means for so many Republicans to leave the ranks of their party, to sacrifice themselves politically for the best interests of the people. In all our meetings we have been greeted by crowds of people who by their earnest attention show in this direction their sympathies lie and which is the best evidence of what the result will be. Don't take an individual interest in one man, but vote the entire Citizens' ticket. My opponent, Judge Williams, is a highly respected citizen and it is an honor to be a candidate against him. We have both lived among you for many years and it is for you to decide between us and I am entirely willing to take my chances."

Lane as a Sprinter.

Dr. Harry Lane, candidate for State Senator, missed his car and had to walk in, but put in an appearance shortly after the meeting was opened and showed that a sprint of a mile or two down the track had only served to put him in better talking trim than ever. He said it appeared that political affairs in Portland had drifted about until a few people had succeeded in manipulating them to suit themselves, but not in the interest of the people. Two years ago a protest was made against such proceeding and as a result a Citizens' Legislative ticket was elected which gave to us a chance to receive for Portland a charter indorsed by the people and also the initiative and referendum, two measures of the greatest importance to the voters. This year we have a Citizens' ticket named by delegates representing the people and the result of no man's slate or political machine. On the other hand we have a so-called Republican ticket repugnant even to many who feel it a duty to support it. They are in the same fix as a boy in Arkansas who had swallowed a cricket and though it made him sick, he determined to keep it down just to show what a strong stomach he had. Dr. Lane said:

"The greatest enemy of the people in the State of Oregon today is the Oregonian. Its editor is intolerant, sneers at and abuses all who are not of his way of thinking and constantly creates prejudices that militate against the best interests of the state. Now it is showing its consistency by giving support to Jack Matthews after having denounced the man for years."

Candidate for Representative.

G. C. Moser, candidate for the Legislature, made a stirring address that awoke the enthusiasm of all present. He spoke from the standpoint of a Republican, and not those now scoffed at and ridiculed, and not true to their party simply because they will not allow themselves to become blind tools in the grasp of the Matthews-Scott-Carey machine. These men give no reason why the voters of Multnomah County should not support the Citizens' ticket. When the Oregonian stated that in the event of the independent Republicans winning out in the primary election, there would be an open Republican convention, the editor of that paper knew, Jack Matthews knew that such a purpose was farthest from their thoughts. They won the primary by a slight majority of all the votes cast, then they met in a so-called convention, forced their slate through and called it a Republican ticket. From that day to this they have not put but one of their candidates out to discuss the merits of the campaign or to give any reason why their ticket should be supported. Why? Because nearly every candidate on the machine ticket two years,
