LITTLE CHANCE OF Settlement.

Apparently the strike is as far from | cess. With their outside trade impaired settlement as it has been at any time since it was inaugurated.

The members of the Carpenters' Union met last night, but will give out but very little information for publication, It is certain, however, that some very important matters were discussed and a plan of action decided upon which they wish to keep hidden for the time being from their adversaries.

C. Bomberger, treasurer of the Carpenters' Union, this morning said: "We decided that at any time we are willing to have all grievances settled by a board of arbitration composed of representative business men, or any one else who will take the controversy up and t on its merits. We are fair, and always have been favorable to this proposition. We want nothing but justice done. It is to our interests, as well as to those of everybody else residing here, to have this matter settled as quickly as possible. We do not want anything done that will retard the growth or prosperity of the city."

A great many of the contractors had material on hand prior to the strike, and for this reason there is quite a number of carpenters at work. It is estimated that fully two-thirds of the union carpenters are now employed. The supply of material which the contractors, now have will probably last two or three weeks, and at the expiration of that time if some definite understanding is not arrived at it is very probable that building operations will cease, unless, in the meantime, some arrangements are made to secure material from other sources. It is believed by that time that arrangements will be fully completed to receive goods from the outside. Steps will be taken with this end in view. It has been persistently reported during the past few days that the sawmills had formed a combine with the boycotted planing mills, and had agreed not to supply the union planing mills on the East Side with lumber. To ascertain the truth of this report, the Building Trades Council sent committees to interview the owners of the union planing mills and sawmills regarding the matter. All of them visited vigorously denied that any such condition of affairs existed.

The union planing mill owners said that they are enabled to gef all the lumber they can possibly handle, and have assurances that they will be supplied as fast as they send in orders. Inman, Poulen & Co. also informed the committee that the union mills can get lumber from them at any time they send in orders for it, and similar answers were received from several of the other sawmill

J. M. Moore, Secretary of the Board of Trade, said: "So far as I have been able to ascerthe men should have been granted a ninehour day. Anyone having anything to do with factory work knows that if the men are contented that they will do more work than if they are discontented. There is no machine made but what a man can increase its speed from 10 to 15 per cent by forcing it to its full capacity. On the other hand work can be turned out not satisfactory to the consumer and in much less quantities. So it would appear that as a matter of pecuniary interest to millmen that they would be gainers by granting a nine-hour day, inasmuch as this is not only a local matter, but is being largely settled in favor of mechanics all over the United States, and the day is not far distant when eight hours will be the ordinary day of labor. 'Unless the millmen are willing to meet the men in their request for a nine-hour day it is more than likely that they wil have more serious questions to contend with. The millmen, in justice to workingmen, should meet them personally and talk things over. When they delegate their power to a single individual who has limited to the workingmen's condition, it would seem that they are placing themselves in a rather unfavorable light with the public." F. E. Beach, proprietor of the large supply house on First street, said:

The millowners have a legal right to close their mills and not to arbitrate with fects of the boycott placed upon their the men, but they have no moral right goods. SOME LUMBER NOTES.

The Western Lumber Company has been notified by Colonel Dosch that the fir plank exhibited by them at the Charleston exposition has been awarded the gold medal.

They have also received a communication from a large door manufacturer of Chicago, asking if they can supply him with several hundred fir doors per day. Similar inquiries are being received all the time, but the company does not feel that they are in a position to offer any quotations, owing to the present unsettled condition due to the strike situation. They recently shipped some 200-foot timbers to the interior of California, three cars being required to transport them.

For Geo. E. Chamberlain Saturday Night.

On Saturday night there will be a grand Chamberlain rally in Portland, with a meeting at the Tabernacle, corner of Morrison and Twelfth, and interesting features are now being arranged. This will be the closing rally of the campaign, It is expected that it will be the occasion for a tremendous outburst of Chamberlain enthusiasm. Assurances are given that it will eclipse any meeting yet held.

Some indication of the tide that is running in Chamberlain's favor is given in the following betting incident: Money was posted at the cigar store in the Chamber of Commerce from Saturday until Wednesday at 4 o'clock, offering $250 to $500 that Chamberlain would carry Marion County. There were no takers. On Wednesday afternoon the money was drawn down, the owner thereof steting that he intended to go to Pendleton to see if he could get it taken there. Mr. Chamberiain speaks this afternoon at Gresham and tonight at Burkhard Hall, on the East Side. He was accompanied on his trip today by a number of other candidates.

PO ISONED BY TYPEWRITER.

Cincinnati.-The funeral of Miss Mary Laughlin, who died in terrible agony from a seemingly insignificant cause, was held this morning from St. Xavier's Church. Miss Laughlin was 18 years old, and lived at 119 Torrence road. She died from blood poisoning, caused by the blue ink on a typewriter ribbon when she was picking out the type of the machine. An almost imperceptible fever blister came on Miss Laughlin's lip while she was at work for the Amberg & Brill Toy Company last week. The young woman had been at work with her typewriter and her fingers were stained with the ink used on the ribbon of the machine. In trying to break the blister, Miss Laughlin placed her stained finger on it. In a short time she felt sharp pains in her face. This was followed by a slight swelling on her lip.

The pain became almost unbearable, and her lip began to swell badly and turn black. Miss Laughlin sought medical ald. Every known cure was tried, but the poison slowly permeated her system. Death followed soon. Miss Laughlin almost welcomed it as a relief, her agony was so intense.

The girl's face was distorted and her skin almost as black as coal. The poisoned lip had wollen to enormous size and nothing could be done to reduce it. Accidents of this nature could not hap-
