KILLED A BEAR

Sunday evening while out looking for stray stock James N. Adams, formerly a freight clerk on the O. R. & N. boats, and D. O. Levens, a resident of Bonneville, ran across a large black bear near Tanner-Creek bridge, west of Bonneville.

Adams having a .40 Colt's revolver with him took a shot at Mr. Bruin, who then made for them. Levens took a tree, but Jim stood his ground. The second shot took the bear behind the left ear and brought him down.

Any Bonneville visitors desiring choice bear steaks for the next couple of weeks can get them by calling on Billy at the Bonneville eating house. The Journal has the animal's claws.

DUTIES ON CUBAN IMPORTS

The following communication from Representative Moody to Secretary Moore, of the Board of Trade, shows the attitude of Congress on the reduction of tariff on imports from Cuba:

"Dear Sir—I acknowledge your letter of the 24th inst., also a copy of a report adopted by your Board at its last meeting, concerning the reduction of tariff on imports from Cuba. The bill, you understand, has already passed the House, and is now before the Senate Committee for consideration.

It is anticipated that the Senate will amend the bill, and that will necessitate conference with the House before final action can be had. I will, therefore, refer your report of the conference on this question when their appointment is made."

Buck of Bloomington, Ill., stating that he was just admitted to the bar, and requesting information regarding climate, number of lawyers, opportunities offered to educated, honest and industrious young lawyers, etc. Mr. Moore answered that there are fair opportunities for young lawyers, and that a lawyer should be able to live here at least two years without a case.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

the fact that he does not advertise make him a better dentist than the one who does advertise? Is the dentist who retires to his two by four back room on the eighth floor of a down-town office building, and who refuses to give paid newspaper publicity to his business, any more a competent dentist than the man who

T. P. Wise began advertising they were prompted as much by a sense of duty to the public as by a desire to increase their business. It was then that he of the back room on the top floor, equipped with a second-hand barber chair and a pair of pliers, began to raise a howl about unprofessional conduct, and pro-occupies spacious, elegantly furnished and fully equipped rooms on the first floor, and who spends $2000 or $3000 a year to let the people know where he is and what he is doing?

The ethical dentist would not think of advertising—no, indeed. But a newspaper reporter will have very little trouble to get a column from him on some society blow-out, in which he is very careful to see that his name, with its professional prefixes and suffixes, is given due prominence. Nor is he at all backward, when

How his predictions have been carried out will best be judged by the fact that Wise Bros. have increased their business over 150 per cent by advertising good work and then doing it, while their fame has filled the city and penetrated to adjoining states. Wise Bros. will continue to advertise, and their reputation will not suffer in the hands of the people they do work for. Their offices, 203 to 213 Falling building, corner Third and Washington streets, are open till 9 p. m. daily; Sundays, 9 to 12.

FLORAL PARADE

Suggested for Fourth of July.

At the meeting of the Fourth of July Committee, to be held tonight, it will be decided whether Portland is to hold a Fourth of July celebration this year or not. According to the sentiment expressed by leading citizens in a recent issue of The Journal, Portland should have a better celebration than it has heretofore.

General Sumner's idea is that a floral parade should begin in the day and a parade similar to the one two years ago at night. "We ought to have a floral parade," said General Sumner. "First, because of the lateness of the season and second, because of the number of automobiles. Automobiles and regular equipages decorated with roses, which only Portland can produce, would be a sight which would long be remembered. I do not favor the old way of celebrating the Fourth—by going out to some grove in the vicinity of the city, bringing along some stale beer and sandwiches and gossiping about your neighbors. We must have something strictly up to date—no more old village fashion ideas. Therefore, I would suggest the floral and night parades. I know that some people are against the night parade, because of the possibility of accidents; but no accidents would occur if everything would be arranged carefully beforehand. The ones to take a hold of this are the merchants of this city—if they do not, then we should not hold a celebration. If we want to have a celebration let us have one to be proud of—of none at all."

This idea of General Sumner is favored by many. If Portland is to have a celebration let it have a good one. Every patriotic citizen should attend the meeting of this committee tonight at 308 Chamber of Commerce building.

MANUFACTURERS.

At a meeting of the Manufacturers' Association held last night, at which those present were President W. H. Morrow, F. Linn, Charles Cooney, A. E. Gantenbein, E. J. Holmes, E. H. Kilham, W. H. Morrow, W. H. McMonies and I. N. Fleischer, it was decided to use strenuous efforts to influence the Malta Vista Food Company of Battle Creek, Mich., to open a factory here.

In accordance with a request from A. A. Morse, president of the State Sunday School Association, an invitation was extended to the National Sunday School Association to hold their 1902 convention in Portland.

Miller Lea, one of the Texas delegation to the T. P. A. convention, requested information regarding the establishment of a distillery here. If the information he receives is favorable, he will establish his plant within a year.

It was unanimously decided that Portland should have a Fourth of July celebration this year, and those present promised to use their efforts to make it a success.

A communication was read from a Denver firm requesting information bearing on the establishment of a bag factory in Portland.

President W. H. Morrow was appointed to represent this association on the reception committee of the supreme lodge, A. O. U. W. delegates.

A communication was read from S. Takaj, Vice Consul for Japan, requesting Portland to make an exhibit at the Industrial Exposition to be held at Osaka in 1903.

CHURCH WITHOUT A CREED

The People's Christian Union is a new religious organization in Portland, modeled upon plans somewhat unique. It is a creedless body, and meets at room 201 Alisky building every Sunday. It holds three regular services on that day. It holds what is known as a spiritual service at 11 a. m.; a Bible study and school of religion at 12 m.; a practical industrial service at 8 p. m., at which some person speaks upon subjects of interest, followed by the minister, Rev. F. E. Coulter. It has been in existence about two months.

The officers and directors of the People's Christian Union are: Rev. F. E. Coulter, minister; A. L. Keenan, president; Dr. Flora A. Brown, vice president; T. D. Robinson, secretary; Mrs. A. M. Purdie, treasurer; Stephen Brown, director; S. W. Rathlefsen, director. The minister, Rev. F. E. Coulter, says that the principle of "Love, Righteousness, Truth," underlies the new organization. In speaking of local conditions, causes of indifference and the remedy thereof, Mr. Coulter said:

"A census of the City of Portland reveals a very peculiar condition of religious affairs. About 20,000 of the population are attendants of the various churches, embracing both Christian and Jewish. Some 20,000 more constitute a class who seem to be well night past all hope of being affected by good influences, leaving the enormous aggregate of 40,000 well-meaning persons who are without religious affiliations and seem to be adrift so far as any interest in their spiritual welfare is concerned. From various causes these persons have not been reached by religious influences. Many of them are persons of intelligence and influence, and if their minds and hearts were turned into this channel would become a power for good.

"Among the causes that have doubtless led to their indifference can be cited the clashing of the creeds of various denominations, the division of affairs into sacred and secular, and the placing of matters of individual belief above the practical matters of charity, brotherly love and a desire to do good for the sake of the good alone.

"Realizing these conditions and believing that a fact so apprehended calls for our most earnest efforts to reach those indifferent to spiritual things, the People's Christian Union has been organized on the broad plane of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. No statement of creed is promulgated, the right of each individual to his own intellectual belief being recognized, as well as the right to present the same with charity for the views of his fellow-men, the unity of all men in spiritual matters being acknowledged. Up to this time the Union has conducted a Devotional service, a Bible Study and School of Religion, a Ladies' Reading Circle and a Practical Service, in which the study of sociology form an important part, the desire being to extend practical help in both material and spiritual matters to all without reference to race, class or condition. It is expected, as soon as means are at hand, to maintain an employment and information bureau for the benefit of all worthy persons, and a system of colportage for the distribution of literature bearing on these important topics.

"It is not desired to disturb the church connections of any who may see fit to co-operate with us, as our work calls for no diversions nor contentions concerning intellectual belief."

COLONEL DONAN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of the late Colonel P. Donan was held from the Holman undertaking rooms at the corner of Fourth and Yamhill yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were simple and in keeping with the character of the deceased. Rev. Mr. Gilbert conducted the services. His remarks were touching and appropriate. He drew apt illustrations from the finer elements of Colonel Donan's nature and spoke impressively. The interment was had at Riverside Cemetery. The pallbearers were Paul Mohr, W. H. Hurlbert, A. L. Craig and Mr. Webster.

ALL COMMEND THE JOURNAL

The Journal feels highly complimented at the cordial appreciation its efforts in the election have met with by the general public of Portland. Its double bulletin service at the Journal office, 269 Yamhill street, and at Sixth and Washington on Monday night, was complied with the greatest care and with as great completeness as was possible owing to the chaotic conditions which prevailed at the election booths.

Journal news gatherers covered the entire city, and not a moment was lost in giving the latest returns obtainable to the people, always, however, in a careful and conservative manner.

The bulletins from all over the state were especially appreciated, and the subsequent developments have proven that they were in almost every instance absolutely reliable.

Throughout the whole of Tuesday there was a crowd constantly in front of the Journal office, many of whom took occasion to express their gratification with the bulletins posted every few minutes.

The Journal aimed, as it always will, to give the people the latest news possible at the earliest possible moment, and the management feels more than pleased that its efforts in this direction have met with such general appreciation.

The assembly this year at Gladstone Park will be the ninth in the history of the association, and promises to be the greatest yet held. It will open on July 8 and close the evening of July 15.
