BRIDGE QUESTION

Discussed by Citizens on Both Sides of the River.

The discussion of the matter of closing the draw bridges across the Wills-mette River for three hours each day vas argued throughly by both sides at meeting called by Captain Langitt yesterday afternoon. His object was to end the controversy and have the mutter decided by the department of

The question was brought up by the East Side Improvement League, as the East Side people are the ones affected by the delay in crossing the bridges They also believe that property on that ide of the river is depreciating in value because of the delay so often caused to business men there in reaching their places of business on this side. Real estate men say that houses on that side the river rent at price from $3 to $10 lower than on this side and are taken then only when they cannot be secured in the city proper.

hip men believe that more damage would result to them in having the draws closed for an hour at a time than could possibly come to the foot mers and railway companies.

H. C. Campbell of the City & Suburban Rallway presented a plan for the regulation of the draw system which he conidered would the least discommode the steamers and traveling public. As the morning hour is most important on account of the working class having to be at their place of business at a certain time, he suggested that from 6:55 to 7:25 the draw remain closed. At noon the regulation was suggested for that, and for the evening traffic he named the time at 5:55 to 6:10, the draws then to be opened for five minutes, then closed again for 15 minutes. This plan was variously discussed, especially the point as to what a steamer should do if it had to pass the three draws and had only five min-

Mr. Mehler of the O. R. & N. Co. said that a great deal of business for the steamship companies would be lost by the boats being delayed for a length of time in the river. Their interests are great, as they handle the mails and a great many passengers. In high water it is unsafe for boats to anchor and they would simply have to remain inactive in the water.

Joseph Buchtel spoke as a representative of the East Side Improvement Company and said: "I consider that it will work a hardship on the steamship companies, but when you sum up the difference in the traffic up and down the river and across the river there is no comparison between the two. The population on the East Side is almost equal to that on the other and should receive consideration. It seems that the steamship companies should give two and onehalf hours out of the 24. They are taking the same stand in this as they did when the bridges were built. At that time not a single pilot or captain but opposed the act.

Some one suggested that the steamers should arrange to lower their smokestacks by having them made with joints, as do the steamers on the River Thames, but the impracticability of this was shown by T. B. Graham, of the O. C. T. Co., who said that the lowest pilothouse measured from 29 to 35 feet from the water, and Morrison-street bridges in low water was but 30 feet and 3 inthes above the water and this was only for one month in the year. He also stated that the steamers do not keep the Mraw open more than four hours per

Letters from Captains Crane, Johnson, Sherman, Allyn, Scammon and Anderson, of the White Collar Line, were read and placed on file.

A suggestion was made by Mr. Mohler that the bridge be raised so the draws were not necessary and O. W. Taylor, of the East Side, suggested that the bridge would then reach to Third street on the West Side and thus cut off an important part of the city. He made an earnest appeal for the closing of the Others who spoke were Mr. Sealey, of the White Collar line; James Good and Gaptain White. The entire discussion was taken down and will be forwarded to Washington to

M'KINLEY POSTAL CARDS:

The Postoffice Department has been having a hard time with its new postal card, on which the head of President McKinley constitutes the stamp. It does not seem, says the New York Post, as if it would be difficult to make a steelengraved portrait of the late President, with his fairly regular profile and charseteristic eyebrows and hair, satisfactory for this purpose; but the Bureau of Engraving and Printing struggled with it in vain for some time. The card would have been issued months ago but for this

The first portrait was a round, rather snug-looking full face, which, strange to say, Mr. McKinley liked best himself. The second was a profile, with a fore-head that receded so as to reduce seriously the diameter from front to back and to give the top of the head the effect of a truncated cone. A peculiar line lent to the mouth also made the whole strongly suggestive of William J. Bryan-a type as unlike McKinley's as could well be conceived. A third trial resulted in a profile in which the roundness of Mr. Me-Kinley's head was well brought out, the stronger lines of his features were emphasized, and the engraving was clearer, decessors. This last attempt will doubt-less be approved and furnish the standard card for the coming series.

Conditions Depressed on Account of Election.

Since Monday was election day there were no transfers of real estate entered for record. People generally were more interested in seeing to it that their favorite candidates were balloted for than they were in affixing their signatures to deeds. Seventeen real estate transfers, recorded Saturday, but published as of Tuesday, showed a total of $23,552. There is some interest in noting these in detail. There were eight of less than $400, while there were nine for very respectable sums.

Lot 18 in block 13, King's Second Ad dition, sold to A. M. Crowley for $5000 Another $6000 mile was that of John J Morgan and wife to the Pacific Coast Abstract Guarantee & Trust Company for lots 3 and 4, block 1, in the Murhard Tract. The same lot was sold previously by William Reid and wife to John J. Morgan for $4500.

The King Real Estate Association sold let 17, block 13, in King's Second Addition, for $2000. Another $2000 sale was recorded from Hiram Hall and wife to Benjamin Hall, of acreage. Lot 14, block 2, Smith's Sub-Addition, was disposed of for $1000. Lots 4, 5, 6, block 6, Central Albina, sold for $1000.

On Saturday the mortgage releases exceeded the mortgages recorded in value by exactly $3050, which looks encourage

Among other improvements may b noted the erection of two two-story dwellings by George Shearer, at the corner of East Sixteenth and Belmont streets. to cost $3100. Building permits were recorded Tuesday to the amount of $3100. A conservative dealer says that he does not believe that the present depression can last very long. It has been said that when the "fair" planing mill material so essential to builders is exhauseed that they will find it very difficult to proceed, unless the boycott is lifted. A depression that is forced is unnatural, and there are those who argue that, this being so, the end must come soon. Certainly all would wish that some happy solution may be found for the difference existing between the employers and the employed, so that building operations may go on unmolested.

MONMOUTH'S PRESIDENT.

The new president of Monmouth Normal School will be named at the annual meeting to be held June 17 at Monmouth. A number of applications have been received by Secretary Butler, but none have as yet been officially discussed. Among those named for the place are Professor Ressler of the University of Oregon; the president of the Tacoma High School; J. M. Martindale, City Superintendent of Albany Public Schools, and several educators of this city. J. B. V. Butler of Monmouth has been suggested for the place, but refuses to consider the matter at all. He is now secretary of the board of regents and of the faculty and librarian of the school.

The position is considered as one of the best in the state, as Monmouth takes the lead in rank among the normal schools of the state.

Inman Knifed by Members of the Sawmillmen's Union.

Several well-known union men are au thority for the statement that members of the Sawmillmen's Union, representing about 800 men, met the other night and decided not to support Inman for Mayor Yesterday various members of the organization were pleased at what they believed to be his defeat.

Speaking of the matter today a business man said:

'It is an established fact that Ioman has always been a friend of the laboring man, and he is one himself. The great trouble with some labor organizations is that they don't know what they want. The Oregonian will roast them and the very next minute they will act upon whatever suggestions it makes."

SEARCH FOR LOST DAUGHTE

"Santee Bill" Warren Gets a New Lease of Life.

(Journal Special Service.)

SEATTLE, June 4.-After 20 years "Santee Bill" Warren, one of the famous Indian scouts of Custer's time, believes he is soon to see the daughter he had mourned as lost.

In 1872 "Santee," whose real name is W. J. Seymour, and his wife separated. They had a daughter, Alice, to whom her father was devoted. The child was to go with its mother, and it was hard for "Santee Bill" to lose her, but he always cherished the hope of having her with him again.

Recently "Santee" read the name of Dell Lampham in a Seattle report of the trial of John Considine for the murder of Chief of Police Meredith of Seattle. His wife's maiden name was Lampham, and the report reminded him that he had a nephew of that name. Correspondence developed the fact that Dell Lampham was really that nephew.

"Santee" went to Seattle. He met his nephew and his own wife's brother. "Do you know where your daughter Alice is?" asked the brother.

"Santee" was for a moment too as-tonished to speak. Finally, trembling with emotion, he cried out: "Do you mean to say that Alice is "Of course she is, and married. Her husband is a newspaper man somewhere in the Pacific Northwest.".

Now, going from town to town through out the great Northwest "Santee Bill" is wandering in search of the daughter he had longed for so many years to see. The news that she is still alive has lifted 10 years from him.

Fourteen ugly scars tell the story of "Santee Bill's" strenuous life on the trail. Most of them were received while he was campaigning with Custer, the yellow-haired chief. Among Custer's splendid band of scouts none will have greater fame than "Bill." There was no mission too dangerous for this keen-witted plainsman, no Indian trail so hot that he shrank from following it up to the edge of the fire-lit circle.

"Santee" still wears a medal bearing this inscription:

PRESENTED TO W. J. SEYMOUR ("SANTEE BILL") BY GEORGE A. CUSTER. NOV. 27, 1868.

The medal was received for gallantry during the engagement of Washita. When the massacre of the Little Big Horn occurred, in June, 1876, "Bantee" was carrying dispatches from Custer to General Alfred Taylor on Tongue River. Although well along in years the old scout is still in perfect health and active of body and mind. He is still a splendid specimen of a man, of the type that is fast dying out, even in the West

Oueer Story of a Cincinnati Maiden.

(Journal Special Service.) SEATTLE, June 4 .- In the Seattle General Hospital Miss Adelaide Neilen is undergoing a serious operation for appendicitis. Miss Neilen is only a young girl and is far from her home and friends. She is a member of a prominent Cincinnati family who opposed her marriage to Charles F. Lindsey, a young attorney of that city. Finding that she must either leave home or give up her lover, Miss Neilen came to Seattle and procured employment in the exchange of the telephone company. Her parents are abroad and know nothing of their daughter's illness, though her flancee, the young attorney, has been notified and is on his way to Seattle, and if Miss Nellen recovers from the critical operation they will be married and make their home here.
