Teetzel, C. A. Tracy and wife, of Omaha, Julius Neubauer, of Sidney, and H. W. Van Sickel, of Lincoln, all prominent Shriners, en route from San Francisco.

PECULIAR FATALITY.

Blood poisoning from wearing a gold ring on her finger caused the death of Mrs. A. B. Volkman, whose home was at Multnomah crossroad, between the Section and Powell Valley roads, near South Mount Tabor.

She had worn the ring for some time when her finger began to swell. Being unable to remove it otherwise, she filed it in two, but irritation from the filing resulted in blood poisoning, which involved her entire arm. She died at St. Vincent's hospital.

Mrs. Volkman leaves a husband and three children, and was 40 years of age. She and her husband were members of Evening Star Grange No. 27, Patrons of Husbandry, and this order was in charge of her funeral, held at 2 o'clock at Multnomah hall, and she will be interred in Mutnomah cemetery.

ANNUAL RECITAL.

The sixth annual recital of the pupils of Reginald L. Hidden was given at the Marquam theater Saturday night, a fair sized audience being present. About 40 students participated in the entertainment, the majority being small. The closing numbers by Frank Eichenlaub, Le Eby Gesner and Miss Francis Gill showed great talent and true interpretation. Among the smaller ones, those especially worthy of mention are Miss Esther Goldman, Miss Hazel Abraham, Miss Bella Robertson, Ward Allen and Edwin Jacob.

Nature's Own Remedy.

Wilbur's White Rock Hoof Packing. Dissolves in water, stays cold as ice. Horse owners should all use it. Ask your horseshoer about it, or Bowen's Seed Store, Front & Taylor street.

LUMBER FOR AUSTRALIA

Captain Smith Says They Are Particular Over There.

Captain Smith, who arrived about a week ago with the schooner Eldorado, for a cargo of lumber for Sydney, Australia, says that it will be fully 30 days yet before the vessel is loaded. He states that the buyers at Sydney and Melbourne are more particular about their lumber than are the people of any other port. In order to be accepted the timbers must be perfectly sound. If they contain the least blemish they will be rejected.

For this reason it requires a long time to load vessels for that port. Nearly all the produce turned out at the sawmills here would be accepted at full market value at almost every other port in the world excepting Sydney and Melbourne, but at those places about nine-tenths of it would be rejected if loaded onto a vessel without culling. This requires time. An expert is at the vessel when it is loading and critically examines every timber taken aboard. Only about one-tenth of the material handled finds its way onto the schooner.

This same laborious task is repeated at every other port when a vessel is receiving a cargo of lumber for Australia. The buyers there will have nothing but the best, and are willing to pay for it. They get the most of their lumber from the Pacific Coast ports, there being no fir in their own country.

The following cash prizes and medals will be offered by the parade committee:

Floral turnouts—or best decorated double team, automobile or other vehicle, $60; for second best, $40. For best decorated single team, trap or other vehicle, $25; for second best, $15. or best decorated child's cart, $10; for second best, $5.

All organizations are urged to send notification at once of their intention to cooperate.

MYSTIC SHRINERS

Admired Portland and Vicinity Yesterday.

Henry C. Akin, imperial potentiate of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of America, was in Portland yesterday accompanied by a party of 20, on their way home from their convention.

The visitors were taken in carriages around Portland and shown the places of interest. Mr. Akin praised the whole Coast country very much, and especially Portland. The chief objects of his praise were the Bull Run Water and the City Park. He also suggested that the officials of the Lewis and Clark Fair exert themselves to advertise the fair very thoroughly in the East.

55,000 CRATES OF BERRIES

The bulk of this season's crop of strawberries in the Hood River district has been shipped, and it is now estimated that the total number of crates produced this year will be about 55,000, which is said to be equal to nearly 85 carloads. The revenue netted to the growers on this year's crop is estimated to be about $125,000.

The majority of the Hood River product this year has been sent to the Eastern states, very few of the cars being destined to points this side of the Rocky Mountains. The berries were of a very good quality and therefore brought the highest market price.

Growers complain of the manner in which a number of the pickers performed their work, and a large amount of overhauling of the fruit had to be done this season. This is a great expense to the growers, but it is done to see that the reputation of the district is not ruined by sending out inferior fruit.

Annie Schoppe's Will.

The will of Annie Schoppe, deceased, has been admitted to probate, devising property worth $8000 as follows: To Winifred Beulah Johnson, a granddaughter, $1500; to the trustees of the First German Evangelical Church, $200; to Amy Louise Schoppe, a granddaughter, lots 1 and 7, block 22, Carson Heights; to Amy Eleanor Schoppe MacMaster, daughter, lot 1, block 321, Couch addition, and south half of lot 7, block 118, city; to Fred Albert Schoppe, a son, north half of lot 7, block 118, Portland, and an interest in a farm at Bethany. Henry Wagner is named as executor.

Tenant vs. Landlord.

Morris B. Wells, dealer in pianolas, pipe organs, etc., has filed a suit in the State Circuit Court asking that the Eilers Piano Hopse be restrained from blockading the sidewalk in front of his premises, and from nailing boxes there to the hinderance of musical entertainments conducted within. Mr. Wells leases the store, at the northeast corner of Park and Washington streets, from the piano firm.

A SUGGESTION

Something the Rose Society Might Act Upon.

"There is one thing, which if accomplished, would add greater interest to the growing of roses and the beautifying of the lawns of Portland than all the agitation so far put forth by the Rose Society," said a gentleman who takes considerable interest in civic affairs today, "and that is the abolishment of the water rate for the use of hose in irrigation.

"While the rate is not high, it is sufficient to deter many of the poorer classes from its use, and as a large majority of the homes belong to that class, nothing else will prevent large barren spaces from appearing througnout the city. Then there is the large army of renters, who, while they like flowers, cannot see why they should pay extra money to add to the attractiveness of some other person's property and thereby increase their own rent, which would not be the case if the improvement was universal.

"Portland has a water supply sufficient for all purposes for years to come, and there is enough of the precious fluid, escaping through the overflow pipes and wasted by leaky faucets to tide all the gardens and lawns in Multnomah County through the dry months of July, August and September.

"While it is not absolutely necessary to irrigate in order to have roses, it greatly aids in their growth and is the only way they can be grown to perfection.

"The slight loss in revenue to the Water Commission would be more than made up by the increased beauty of our city and could well be borne.

"Let us have free water at least for our lawns and flower gardens."

IS A FIREBOAT NEEDED BY CITY?

By G. Rosenblatt, insurance agent.

"There are a number of people in this city who are constantly agitating the building of a fireboat by the City of Portland, but I do not think that it will be much of a benefit to the city at large.

"While a fireboat would probably protect property along the waterfront and lessen the cost of insurance, I believe that the expense of building the boat and the cost of its maintenance would exceed the increased cost of the insurance on the property that it would probably protect.

"I have always expressed the opinion that if a heavy earthen bulkhead about five feet thick at the foot of each street would confine a fire to the one block where it originated without the danger of its spreading North or South.

"Of course this would only protect property in the central part of the city, but then a fireboat would protect property on the water front that may be isolated. To construct a fireboat a tax would have to be levied upon the entire city, and the boat would only protect the interests of a few. I don't believe in taxing the greater majority of the people for the benefit of a few.

"At present if a fire should start at the foot of Ankeny street it would be forced all the way to the foot of Hoyt street on account of the heavy draught under the docks. With a bulkhead at each street there would be no draught.

"Other cities the size of Portland have constructed bulkheads along their water fronts and have found them to be excellent fire protectors. The cost of constructing each of the bulkheads would amount to about $1000—that is, for the foot of each street."

NEGLECT OF LAW COMES HIGH

Fish Warden Van Dusen will prosecute the following cold storage firms for having sturgeon in their possession contrary to law. The law provides for a penalty of $20 for each sturgeon found in their possession. As the total number is 3114, about $62,080 will be the fine. The firms in whose possession the sturgeon was found are: F. M. Warren & Co., of Gobel, 1900; Portland Artificial Ice Company, of Portland, 529; Lindenberger Packing Company, of Astoria, 45, and S. Schmidt & Co., of Astoria 540.

The Coming Carnival.

A mass meeting of the members of the Multnomah Club will be held tonight, at which Manager E. W. Rowe, of the proposed carnival, will report detailed plans.

According to his plans, Chapman street, from Morrison to, Taylor streets, will be the main thoroughfare. An archway will be built at Morrison and Chapman streets. There will be all kinds of attractions—the loop-the-loop, Ferris wheel, Japanese garden, miniature railway, etc.

The carnival will take place from September 1 to 13, and will require about $10,000 to start.

KILLED IN RUNAWAY.

As the result of a runaway accident which occurred Saturday afternoon on East Morrison street, Anson H. Buckman received injuries from which he died yesterday. He resided at Montavilla, and the accident took place at the junction of East Morrison street and Union avenue. The horses became frightened at something and started to run. In reaching forward to get firmer hold of the reins, he was struck in the stomach by the heels of one of the horses and was thrown to the ground.

Anson was assisted to his feet by Grant Baily. He went into a nearby saloon and asked the privilege of sitting down in a back room, saying he felt faint. An hour later the bartender found him there unconscious. He was removed to the North Pacific Sanitarium. His skull was fractured, and his death, at 8:30 Sunday morning, was due to hemorrhage, producing a blood clot on the brain. By means of an operation some of the blood was removed, but not sufficient to restore the unfortunate man to consciousness. The deceased was 33 years old, and was a son o fthe late Cyrus Buckman. The funeral was held at 2 this afternoon from 42 East Eighteenth street.

Visiting Minister's Sermon.

At the Westminster Presbyterian Church yesterday morning the Rev. Charls F. Huss, of Pennsylvania, preached in the absence of the pastor, Rev. H. S. Templeton. Mr. Huss is an eloquent young orator and his discourse was appreciated by all. Among other things, he said, in speaking of a peculiar form of error today: "The weakness of the followers of Christ in their control with unbelief is not in their arguments—they are strong enough. Not in their historical evidences, they are abundant—not in the facts with which they deal, they are well known and generally accepted, but it is the failure of those who profess religion to prove themselves new people, new creatures in Christ Jesus. And how shall we who are followers of Christ prove to the world our Christianity—by living straight lives, doing God's will and being obedient to his commands, by being kind, loving and helpful to all around us, by doing unto others as we would have them do unto us, by loving our enemies and doing good to them that despitefully use us."

"What is it that causes the profane swearer to stop off suddenly in blaspheming his Creator, or the vile sinner like Francis Murphy and Jerry McCauley to depart from his evil ways, the drunkard to quit his debaugh, or, I ask you candidly, what is it that causes little Mary in the home all at once to become so kind and loving to her little sister, and to her playmates and to her parents? Like Paul's change of life it is turning from the old into the new, the profession of Christ and receiving Him into the heart, a mysterious process, 'tis true, of which we know little but what matters it if we do not know, if only our lives are safely anchored in the faith of Jesus who is the son of God, and who came to earth to teach us how to live dutiful Christian lives in order to live with him forevr in glory in the skies."

AMUSEMENTS

THE BAKER.

La Mascotte has lost none of its freshness, humor or harmony, and its presentation at two performances by the Pollard Juvenile Opera Company brought out two large audiences at the Baker yesterday. No honest critic can find cause for complaint at any selection these talented children produce from their repertoire. Whatever they do, they do well, excellently well, in fact. Their audiences are unanimous in this opinion. In La Mascotte they bring out Audran's finest points of rich humor, and whether in solo or in chorus work the winsome children are equally good.

The witty Willies—Willie Pollard and Willie Thomas, as Lorenzo and Rocco—presented most of the comedy. Master Thomas especially established himself in the affections of the audience by his clever conception of his part. Alice and Ivy Pollard, as Bettina, the mascot, and Pippo, respectively, did themselves honor. They were in good voice.

Little Daphne Pollard carried out the part of Fretenelli in a delightful manner and Irene Finlay proved a charming Fiametta.

The bill for the week is: Tonight and Tuesday night, La Mascotte; Wednesday afternoon, Pinafore souvenir matinee; A Gaiety Girl Wednesday night; In Town, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Shields' Park.

Saturday night, the initial of a series of summer evening amusements opened at Shields' Park, corner Thirteenth and Washington streets. An excellent program was presented. Aside from the musical part of the bill, which was delightful, there were other features. Miss Helen Lamar, assisted by the stereopticon, illustrated her recitation of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poem, "Her Last Letter," in a transformation scene. R. H. Steel gave two baritone solos; the Victorelias appeared in a triple trapeze act; Fraviola did some clever hoop rolling and the polyscope Decoration-day pictures made quite a hit. The same bill will continue all the week.

Prefers Lansing Stout.

A petition is being circulated among the lawyers of the city requesting County Clerk-Elect Frank Fields to retain the present chief deputy to the Clerk of the Circuit Court, Lansing Stout. Mr. Stout is competent by experience and fitness to fill the office admirably, and the attorneys who value his services in the past are anxious to have him retained. George H. Williams heads the list of the signers.

This is a straight Havana cigar, sold elsewhere at two for 25 cents; our price, three for 25 cents. The Cut Rate Cigar and News Store, 231 Washington street, between Fourth and Fifth.

INSURANCE RATES

Those on Waterfront Are Not Unreasonably High.

The question whether the advance of insurance rates on the waterfront is an arbitrary one or not is a matter that agitates the fire insurance men. All admit that if a fireboat were provided the rates along that part of the city would be reduced. One insurance men said this morning:

"The rates in effect are based upon 50 years' experience in the business. No insurance board has a right to exist that cannot defend the rates it establishes. It should only be entitled to make a moderate profit. The rates displaced were old ones—very old, in fact, for Portland was one of the first cities on the Coast to be rated. It had outgrown the old rates.

"The rates at which Portland is now rated calls for an engine to each square mile of territory. Everybody knows that it has nothing of the kind. It stands to reason that wooden buildings on the river bank should take a higher rate than a brick or stone one similarly located. Then, again, a hardware store on the river front should take a higher rate than one well uptown, because there is no way to get at it in case of fire from the river side at all. It would be unreasonable to equalize rates so that the uptown business block should pay the same as the one that is far less protected.

"When proper protection is afforded waterfront property—such protection a good fireboat would afford—then the rates will come down, and until such is provided they will stay as now fixed."

It is served in all the leading hotels of Europe, on the great Atlantic steamers, and in a few of the more select hotels of America. It is easily distinguished from the old-fashioned ice cream, by its richness, delicious flavor and butter-like consistency.

Regardless of expense, we have imported the machinery from France and are now serving this dainty product in select flavors to our patrons. Being strictly pure, made of sugar and pure cream, it is not only pleasant to the taste, but nourishing and healthful.
