WOMEN COMPLAIN

Ask Council to Regulate Saloon Loafers.

They Say the Police Take No Action to Remedy Evil.

A petition is being prepared by a number of women of the East Side, and will be in circulation in a few days, asking that the City Council take some steps in the matter of clearing the sidewalks on Burnside street, between Second and Third streets. The petition recites that women who reside on the East Side of the river in the vicinity of the Burnside bridge are obliged to cross at some other bridge on account of the large number of men who congregate in front of the Burnside street resorts, making it necessary in a large number of cases, especially at night, for people to walk out in the street before they can get past the block.

The petition also claims that most of the men who stand in front of such places use very disgusting language, unfit even for a newsboy to hear. One of the leaders of the movement said:

"I think that there ought to be a law passed by the City Council to keep the streets in front of the North End resorts cleared. With such a law the police could see to it that no rough characters lounge around the street and on the sidewalk. If we can't get this measure through, there is some talk of asking the City Council to put the resorts on back thoroughfares. The reason why there is not such a heavy travel on the Burnside bridge is not because the population there is any sparser than around the other bridges; but because the women and children are afraid to pass those places on Burnside street."

The women say that the police will not render them any assistance.

GAVE UP COMMISSION.

"Yes; I finally succeeded in getting relieved from the office of postmaster at Sheridan," said G. W. Bibee to a Journal reporter this morning. Mr. Bibee had just arrived down from Oregon City, where he is making arrangements to take possession of the United States Land Office, as receiver.

"The statement has been published that I had already taken charge of the office," continued he, "and I wish it to be understood that I have not yet taken on any official garb. The change will not take place until next Tuesday. True enough, I have been in Oregon City a few days arranging matters preparatory to taking the place, and will move my family down from Sheridan some time next week."

"My office at Sheridan was turned over to my bondsmen and my commission was revoked," said Mr. Bibee, "and the bondsmen have appointed J. R. Sanders, but his appointment has not yet been confirmed."

"There is something peculiar about these appointments. Some men will try for years to get a commission from the government to hold some place of trust, and many times experience all kinds of disappointment. With me, for some time past, it has been a question of getting rid of a commission. This has worried me more than the fact of becoming in possession of another commission."

There was some misunderstanding with the bondsmen of Mr. Bibee, and for some reason an agreement could not be reached by them to recommend the appointment of anybody, but Mr. Sanders seems to have been lucky in having the plum tumble into his hand.

Woodworkers' Strike Not Off.

PORTLAND, July 11.—(To The Journal.)—Owing to the statements made in your paper regarding the stability of our union, we feel that it is our duty towards organized labor, as well as the public, to state the situation as it now stands.

The withdrawal of the boycott by the Building Trades Council does not affect our strike in the way it is generally understood, for it must not be forgotten by those who form opinions on this subject, that, on the night of May 2, 1902, the Federated Trades Council, which is composed of three representatives of each union in this city, voted unanimously on a motion declaring the six planing mills unfair, as well as their products, and, through a resolution, 400 letters were mailed to different central bodies and organizations throughout the United States notifying them to that effect, and until we come to an agreement with the said planing mills they will remain on the unfair list.

Be it further known that the woodworkers have not gone to work in our mills, excepting a small percentage who have been frightened by the action taken by the carpenters' union. There are between 60 to 75 working in fair mills in Portland, 15 to 20 have gone to work in a fair mill in Astoria, 20 have gone to seek better fields and since have gone in business for themselves. The balance are still in the city and vicinity. Many are expected to be working in fair mills in the near future.

Motor Broke Down.

Passengers on the 6 o'clock motor of the St. Johns railroad were considerably delayed yesterday morning by the breaking of a brake on the motor while the train was at St. Johns. A number of the passengers had to be at their work at 7 o'clock, so they started to walk to town. After about an hour's delay the brake was temporarily repaired and proceeded on its down town trip. The company had to run two motors to make up the loss in time.

Car of Immigrants Coming.

M. A. Leslie, of University Park, has received a letter from a Kansas real estate firm asking that some descriptive pamphlets of Oregon be sent to them. The letter states that they receive a large number of inquiries about this state. They already have arranged for a carload of immigrants to Oregon this fall.

Things are Humming Here....

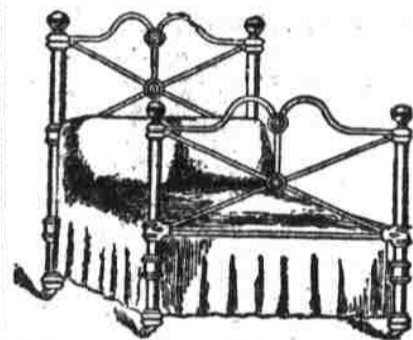

There are now on the road two more carloads of the best Steel Ranges on earth. The coming shipment makes seven carloads in all. Since March 1st we have sold five hundred of these ranges and have yet to hear the first complaint from any cause whatever. We are also in receipt of two carloads of Iron Beds purchased at a price that justifies us in putting them out at unheard of prices. The usual dull summer months will not be dull here. We purpose to enter upon an era of bargain giving never before attempted in the city. Our prices are away below bottom prices, but we have no presents to give away—$1.00 purchases $1.00 worth of goods here and our customers know that that means the biggest $1 worth in the city.

We Glory in the Success of the Royal Rival

No Steel Range has met with the reception accorded the Royal Rival. 500 of these are being used daily in the city in homes where range after range has been tried and failed—the Royal Rival fills the bill. Could it have a stronger recommendation? We like to talk about it; we are proud to show it. Come in and see it.

We Sell Them from $25.00 up.

IRON BEDS

Two carloads of Iron Beds in every style and pattern and every range of price. We have never seen such value in this line as we are able to offer in this big sale. We made a lucky buy and are able to price them to you at prices that will stop the most confirmed bargain hunter and force him to buy. You can get these

From $2.75 up.

Leather Library Furnishings

The last 30 days has marked the heaviest selling in this line that we have known in our store history. Never were such goods offered at such prices and never have people been more appreciative of low prices, or quicker to take advantage of the opportunity to buy at the prices! We continue the low prices on these goods. If you have not yet seen our line of leather goods you should do so at once and then you'll understand that this is not "blow." We carry out every assertion that we make. You'll find goods and prices here the same as we advertise.
