If you wish to be correctly entered in the new City Directory, soon to be issued, see to it that all changes are sent to our office without delay. E. L. Polk & Co. At last night's meeting of the Lewis and Clark Civic Improvement Association the policy of the present city government against gambling, saloons, and other nuisances was heartily endorsed. Cedar Park, Sunday, Miniature Railway, Smallest Steam Railroad on earth. Music, Dancing, Refreshments on the ground. R. B. Castle, the fireman whose back was broken in the recent Povey Bros. fire, is doing very well. He will receive $5 per month in addition to hospital expenses from the Firemen's Mutual Aid Society till he is entirely well. Governor Geer came down this forenoon from Gladstone, where he had been attending Chautauqua for two days. Mr. Geer says the attractions at Chautauqua this year are far ahead of any previous seasons, and so far the attendance has been very large. J. F. McKenna, local manager of the Oregon Oil, Gas & Fuel Company's affairs, departed last evening for California, where the great oil wells are located. Mr. McKenna will remain on the ground for several months, personally superintending the operations that have been in progress there for some time. F. C. Hagerman, of the Charles F. Beebe Co., returned this morning from a two weeks' visit to Victoria and Vancouver, B. C., where he went on a pleasure trip in company with his wife. He reports the Canadian cities quiet, but states that the Puget Sound metropolis is booming. The newspapers there are issuing extra editions about every hour giving the full particulars about the fleeing posse, the well-fed hounds and the flying bandit, Tracy. Portland Club, Fifth and Alder. Finest lunch in city. Portland Club, Fifth and Alder.

SHIELDS' PARK

Great Program for Next Week—Entire Change of Bill.

Manager Shields says the program for the coming week will far excel the most excellent one which closes tonight. It is comprised of eight big acts, headed by the Voltiers, lady and gentlemen acrobats, who are making their first tour of the Pacific Coast; Dalton & Lewis, who make their first appearance in Portland in a unique comedy dancing specialty; the Duffy children, premiere juvenile artists; Leonore, vocalist; Mons. James, slack wire general; Joseph Thompson, illustrated songs and the wonderful polyscope with a brand new set of pictures. Eight acts is all that comprises a vaudeville performance in any of the larger theatres that are not continuous, and it is the same with travelling specialty companies that charge 50 cents to $1.50 for admission. Shields' Park is giving eight acts for 10 cents, 15 cents per act. This generosity on the part of the management is not without satisfactory financial results, for the place is packed to suffocation every night, and last night the crowd was so large that even standing room was refused. Another ticket window has been added, and Mr. Shields is very sorry that the seating capacity is not twice as large. A number of new acts will be introduced tonight.

Good Mail Service.

Residents at the beach have the best of mail service this season. At Seaside and all points below Astoria they receive mail twice a day. The same service is given to Ilwaco and all North Beach points.

LABOR NOTES.

At the regular meeting of the Carpenters' Union Wednesday night, C. Bomberger was elected a delegate to attend the national convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, to be held at Atlanta, Ga., on September 15. C. W. Ryan, J. A. Cardwell and C. Bomberger were appointed delegates to the Federated Trades Council.

Members of the Board of Trade and the business men at Sellwood will meet tonight with the object of considering plans for the settlement of the P. C. & D. strike. The result of their deliberations will be made known to the public tomorrow.

Work along all lines in the city is reported this morning to be improving. There is still some scarcity of lumber, otherwise all mechanics would be employed.

The conciliation committee appointed by the City Front Federation, the Labor Council and the Building Trades Council of San Francisco have met in joint session to effect peace, if possible, among the warring carpenter unions. Both sides of the controversy are hopeful that some basis of settlement will be reached. The executive officers of both the Labor Council and the Building Trades Council have recently been favoring a course that will bring harmony in the labor movement of that city.

NUISANCES

Discussed by the Lewis and Clark Association.

A general discussion of nuisances was indulged in by the members of the Lewis and Clark Civic Improvement Association last night. The following are some of the nuisances discussed:

Signs painted on electric poles, Mace's sidewalk display on Fourth and Morrison streets, La Grande Creamery sidewalk display, on Yamhill, near Third street, old Vince's market, three buildings in the gulch, at Seventeenth and Alder streets, Chapman street, from the foot of the incline to the turn-tables, portions of Jefferson street where the cable line passes, stagnant pools of water on Sixteenth and Mill streets and Fourteenth and Giffan streets, also low awnings. Thomas McCusker and Mrs. Prager were appointed a committee to see Chief Campbell about condemning three buildings at Seventeenth and Alder streets because of their being a menace to the property in that vicinity.

A committee composed of Mr. McCusker, Mr. Hyland, Mr. Gendron, Mrs. Prager and Mrs. Julia A. Marquam was appointed to take up the matter of street signs with a view to having an ordinance passed regulating their size and style, also the matter of low awnings. Mrs. Clark, president of the Woodstock Ladies' Auxiliary, reported that her organization had improved the condition of the waiting-room at the end of the car line and caused concerts to be given every Sunday afternoon in the park. Through the Men's Association, they had succeeded in having eight blocks of roadway graded and were now buying chairs and a piano to furnish the band hall.

It was unanimously decided to extend thanks to the florists who donated plants, to John F. Cordray for the use of his theater and to the Portland General Electric Company for services rendered at the recent mass meeting of the association.

Mr. McCusker reported that he had just returned from San Francisco and Oakland, and that no street signs were allowed in either of these cities, also no green grocery displays.

LOCAL PRESS CLUB.

Two months ago the writers on the Portland papers inaugurated a movement and organized a City Press Club. Its membership is made up of the men who actually write the matter that is printed in the daily papers, and are the most prominent, bona-fide article of active pencil pushers. The organization has been quietly moving forward, and in a short time expects to tender its many kind friends in the City of Portland a reception at club headquarters. Many persons whose pursuits are closely allied to the public press are pushing the project along, which is most encouraging.

The club home consists of two rooms, Nos. 704 and 705 Marquam building, which will be found to meet all demands of location, light, etc. The organization was founded to promote the social welfare of the members and to bring into fraternal touch and bond the men who get the news. To kindred professions associate memberships are to be extended. Newspaper men are not usually provided with an excess of cash, but their social instincts are the same as those of other men. The club has a balance in its treasury, modest it is true, but still a balance. The many friends of the scribes have most kindly come to their assistance, and the leading business men have generously donated the furnishings to the rooms. J. G. Mace & Co. gave a carpet for room 704. A number of chairs from the furniture house of H. C. Breeden & Co. will be found convenient for all who may want to "go 'way back and sit."

The Peters & Roberts' Co., upholsters and furniture makers, have given a lounge, elegant and suggestive of repose. McAllen & McDonnell, who indicated that the boys must have "a swell joint," kindly festooned the windows with lace curtains. And it is given out that "there is more to follow" from other friends and well-wishers. The Doernbecher Furniture Manufacturing Company has intimated that it will make a certain article of furniture that is entirely appropriate—sometimes—at gatherings of reporters and others of that ilk. The firm of Lipman, Wolfe & Co. has given a handsome portiere. If there are any persons in this city who feel the cookies of their hearts warming toward the newspaper boys, they can find an outlet by contributing whatever they feel proper that will add to the comforts of the Press Club rooms. Their names will be inscribed in letters of living fire upon the list of Oregon's Greatest Generals.

The present active membership of the club comprises between 50 and 70. It is probable that the membership will eventually reach 200 at least. When the club is in full working order, it will have monthly feeds and entertainments, which it is hoped will shed some sunshine upon the lives of the toilers, on the press and bring joy to despondent pliers of the pencil.

Relief Committee Organizes.

A number of the officers of the several A. O. U. W. lodges in this city met the other day and effected a temporary organization of the A. O. U. W. Relief Committee of Multnomah County. It is the purpose of the organization to give aid to all members outside of the organization's jurisdiction whenever they may be in need. J. C. Wheeler of Fidelity Lodge, No. 4, was selected as temporary chairman. The committee will meet next Thursday at the hall of Portland Lodge to effect a permanent organization.

BACK FROM THE ARCTIC

How Portland May Benefit by Alaska's Trade.

F. F. Lischke, a former resident of Portland, returned yesterday from the North. He is the publisher of the Northern Light at Bettles, Alaska. This is the most northern gold-producing district, being located above the Arctic Circle and within 1200 miles of the North Pole. Mr. Lischke has been an extensive traveler in the North and was the first white man to penetrate the wilderness between the Koyukuk Basin and the Arctic Ocean. In his expedition of exploration he made a close study of the geography and mineralogy and the commercial and transportation features of the Northern sections, with the result that he has a vast fund of useful knowledge pertaining to the Northland. In speaking of Alaska, he said:

"Alaska, with over a half a million square miles, is unscratched in a mining sense. The first gold mined was in the Circle City placers in 1888. Since then the development of the country has been remarkable. While at present the mining operations have been confined to the country directly adjacent to the waterways of the interior where it is easy of access, and in the mountains fringing the coast line, millions of dollars have been added to the circulating medium. The next few years will witness a wonderful and uninterrupted era of progress and development in the North. The two railroads, one from Resurrection Bay to Rampart, in the interior of Alaska, and one from Valdez to Eagle, will open up a veritable treasure vault. Along the lines of these roads are mountains of copper and gold-bearing quartz, vast coal veins and immense hydraulic and placer propositions. With transportation facilities and cheaper food the now remote districts will be brought in touch with the miner. That the mining resources of the North will support a vast population and eventually add billions of dollars to the world's wealth, is not a matter of conjecture.

"A trade of great magnitude will grow up between the North and the Coast cities. Under the present condition it is a great factor in the prosperity of Seattle and San Francisco. Victoria and Vancouver control the trade of Yukon and other Canadian territory. Seattle has a monopoly on the trade of Southeastern Alaska and a small portion of the Klondike and Nome business. The bulk of the Nome and Northern Alaska trade is controlled by San Francisco. There is no reason why Portland should not enter the race. Oregon is in a position to compete in every line. She produces an abundance of flour, cereals, fruits, vegetables, meats, woolen goods, machinery—in fact, almost everything essential to the wants of the North. In many respects she has a great advantage in the production, preparation and shipping of these supplies. With fair treatment and wholesome goods the majority of the dealers of the North would give Portland their patronage. In the past they have been imposed upon by the shippers and merchants who sold goods of an inferior quality. In this respect Seattle and San Francisco are under the ban with hundreds of miners, who are but awaiting an opportunity to direct their trade into other channels. Portland, with a line of steamers to the North, can master the situation and bring millions of dollars within her doors. To bring about the best results it is necessary to give publicity to the magnificent resources of Alaska and incidentally show the advantages of Portland as the natural and logical supply point for the gold fields."

CLAIMS DEBTS WERE ALL PAID

George I. Hibbard, who claims he was absolved from his debts when he went into bankruptcy, has brought suit in the State Circuit Court against Sarah J. Henderson and the Sheriff to prevent the execution of a judgment amounting to $682.

Hibbard states that he is the owner of 16 lots and four blocks in Hibbard's addition; that in March, 1895, F. Hachency was appointed assignee in insolvency of the Union Banking Company, and secured judgment against him for $682. On August 2, 1895, Hibbard went into bankruptcy; his affairs were adjudicated and he received his discharge October 12, of the same year. He further alleges that in February, 1900, Hachency assigned or pretended to assign, to Sarah Henderson, the claim which had already been adjudged paid by the bankruptcy proceedings. In May 1902 Sarah Henderson secured a judgment against Hibbard, and an execution sale of Hibbard's property has been ordered.

He asks that the execution be carried no further and that he be declared the rightful owner of the property. He claims the lots were procured after he was discharged as a bankrupt.

BIG RED MAN IS COMING

Local Red Men are all astir over the coming visit of Dr. Edwin D. Wiley, of Des Moines, Iowa, Great Incohone of the great council of the United States, Improved Order of Red Men.

A committee consisting of members of the local organization has been appointed and will receive the distinguished visitor at Vancouver tomorrow. He will be shown the sights of Portland during the day, Monday will be spent in looking into the affairs of the order in Vancouver, the return trip being made to Portland Tuesday. During the evening the Great Incohone will be tendered a banquet at the new Quella, corner Sixth and Stark streets. About 50 guests will be present. Dr. Wiley will address a meeting of Red Men at their wigwag in the A. O. U. W. Temple, corner Second and Taylor streets, Wednesday evening. He will leave Thursday for a tour of inspection of the wigwags of the Southern portion of the state, continuing his trip through California.

STATE SPIRITUALIST ASSOCIATION FORMED

A meeting was held Wednesday in the parlors of the "World's Advance Thought," at 133 Sixth street, for the purpose of organizing a State Spiritualist Association. The meeting was well attended and a great deal of interest manifested in the movement. The object of the organization is to promulgate the philosophy of spiritualism, to the principle of universal brotherhood, equality of man and to the welfare of humanity; to bring the existing societies together under one general association, and to form new societies. The name of the society will be "The State Spiritualist Association," and will be incorporated under the laws of Oregon. Officers and committees were elected for the preliminary work of organization, the officers being: J. N. Lucas, president; Lucy A. Maljory, vice-president; Ludwig B. Larsen, secretary; Capt. J. H. McMillan treasurer; Dr. D. A. McElhinne, G. C. Love, E. E. Bessan, A. Laselle, J. B. Greenfield, directors. The next meeting will be held July 20, and the first annual convention will be held September 2.

MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION

The Manufacturers' Association of the Northwest is an exclusive organization for manufacturers, the one object being the fostering, protecting and upbuilding of the manufacturing and producing industries of the State of Oregon. This association promotes home industry by encouraging the purchasing of Oregon products and manufactures. There is no good reason why it should not have the support of not only every manufacturer and producer of the State, but every loyal citizen as well. Its work covers a vast field. It is designed not only to revive waning industries, but to endeavor to create others which may be profitably established in this state, with its vast natural resources. Every manufacturer is extended an invitation to become a member of this association, not only thereby assisting in the objects of its organization, but helping himself very materially through the publicity that he will obtain in the circulars and other methods of advertising. Two of the more important plants established by this association are the Doernbecher Furniture Manufacturing Company, which employs 150 men and has a payroll of $700 per month and has a factory and production of the leading furniture location on the Pacific Coast, and the Portland Canning Company, which employs 200 men. There are 102 members of this association at present, paying $1 per month as dues, whose officers are: President, W. H. Morrow of Pacific Metal Works; vice president, I. N. Fleischer of Fleischer, Mayer & Co.; treasurer, W. H. McMonies of W. H. McMonies & Co.; secretary, C. H. McIsaac of Pacific Gum Company. Executive committee—R. J. Holmes (chairman) of Portland Canning Company, Herman Metzger of Portland Curled Hair Manufacturing Company, A. H. Devers of Closset & Deyers, George Lawrence Jr. of George Lawrence & Co., S. B. Schwab of Schwab Printing & Lithographing Company. The association has 24 directors. The association meets the first Tuesday evening of each month, in the office of the secretary, 308 Chamber of Commerce building.

FOOD COMMISSIONERS ARE SIGHTSEEING

The National Convention of Food and Dairy Commissioners brought their business to a close yesterday on the steamer Fetter while on the way to Astoria. Upon the recommendation of the committee on resolutions, A. H. Jones, Illinois; C. P. Sherwood, South Dakota; W. W. P. McConnell, Minnesota; John Hamilton, Pennsylvania, and Secretary Allen, Kentucky, were appointed a committee on printing and distribution of the constitution of this organization.

The party arrived at Astoria at 2 o'clock where they were shown through the salmon canneries after which a fish banquet was served them. Today the delegation left for Seaside, and will return to Portland this evening.

COURT NOTES.

M. J. Rust has filed a suit for divorce against Newton Rust, on the ground of desertion. The wife alleges that they were married in Polk County, Or., in 1872; that her husband deserted her in 1899. She asks for the custody of the minor child Maud, aged 13 years. George Williams, administrator of the estate of T. K. Williams, deceased, today filed suit in the State Circuit Court to recover $800, with interest, on four promissory notes made by Theodore Williams in favor of the deceased. A mandate from the State Supreme Court, affirming the lower court, in the damage suit of Barbara Stager vs. the Troy Steam Laundry, was entered in the docket of the State Circuit Court today. The judgment was for $252.

Abandoned Their Children.

George and Cora Hixon, of this city, sorrowfully petitioned the County Court yesterday to turn the care of their four minor children, Rosie, Ella, Frank, and Essie, Pearl, over to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society. County Judge Webster made the order under the representations of the parents that they were unable to properly rear their children. W. T. Gardner took charge of the children for the Aid Society. The mother works as a domestic. The father is a laborer, but alleges that he is in ill health.

FALL CARNIVAL

It May Be Located on North Seventh Street.

The fall carnival is a go and a pretty big go. This was first decided at a meeting of the Elks Thursday night and was finally decided at a meeting of the carnival committee yesterday afternoon. This committee consists of George E. Chamberlain, Alex Sweek, D. B. Cohen, B. B. Fitch, R. W. Hoyt, E. Ehrman, O. Summers, E. W. Rowe, Leon Hirsch, H. A. Heck, W. H. Upson, W. J. Riley, C. A. Malarky, C. E. McDonell, J. E. Kelly, John Lamont.

The committee met yesterday afternoon in Governor-elect Chamberlain's office and elected the following officers: President, George E. Chamberlain; vice-president, D. B. Cohen; secretary, Alex Sweek; treasurer, Ralph Hoyt. Some time was devoted to the question as to whether the committee should incorporate. This was decided in the affirmative, so as not to place the lodge of Elks in any liability for damages. The following committee on incorporation was appointed: John Lamont, D. B. Cohen and Alex Sweek.

As more money is necessary to carry the carnival through, B. B. Rich was appointed chairman of a committee to solicit more funds for this project. The vital question before the committee was the selection of a site for the carnival. Much discussion was aroused on this subject, some members expressing themselves against Multnomah Field because of its distance from the city. In all probability a portion of North Seventh street will be used as the site. By motion it was decided to appoint a committee to select a suitable site and interview the Mayor, City Council and property owners along North Seventh street as to their views on this matter. The committee is W. J. Riley, C. A. Malarky and W. H. Upson.

As E. Ehrman is out of the city, A. D. Charlton was appointed to act on the general committee instead. The following committee on advertising was appointed: E. W. Rowe, A. D. Charlton and Leon Hirsch. One of the main features of the meeting was the unanimous election of B. W. Howe as superintendent of the carnival. Mr. Rowe is a young man in years but an old one in the management of carnivals and like shows.

Messrs. W. H. Upson, H. A. Beck and J. E. Kelly were appointed a special committee to see the labor leaders relative to working on Labor Day. As many sub-committees are necessary to carry on the various branches of this project, the executive committee consisting of Messrs. Chamberlain, Cohen, Sweek and Hoyt were authorized to appoint all necessary sub-committees. D. B. Cohen, John Lamont and Charles E. McDonell were appointed a special committee on contracts. The meeting adjourned till next Monday night when all the sub-committees will report.

NATIONAL GUARD

Preparations Being Made for the Albany Encampment.

The annual encampment of the O. N. G., which opens at Albany July 17, to continue for seven days, gives promise of being one of the best yet held. The encampment will be held in Goitra Park. To supply the soldier boys with water, an 8-foot driven well with pipes to all parts of the grounds will be provided, and the sanitary arrangements will be excellent. The 1200 men who will make the grounds their temporary home, will be well cared for. The grounds are well calculated for drills.

As headquarters for the officers the old Orphan's Home, recently sold to the college at Albany for dormitory purposes, will be utilized. Yesterday a fir flagstaff, 120 feet high, 14 inches at the base and 6 inches at the tip, said to be the tallest ever erected in Oregon, arrived from the Upper Santiam. The Santiam Lumber Company and the Corvallis & Eastern are the donors. Major F. S. Bennett, of this city, will have charge of the Quartermaster's Department. The contracts for supplies were let yesterday, under Captain Wilm. Devlin's Martial Blood.

The martial blood of Tom Devlin, the City Auditor, has been fired to such a limit with the accounts of Tracy's tragic travels towards Tacoma, that he felt sorry for the residents of Seattle and the adjoining country, and left for the scene of war Monday night. His friends say he was armed with a Cuban machete, picked up on San Juan hill by his friend, "the terrible Teddy." Tom took the precaution to carry along some dum-dum bullets for his gun.

Railroad Men's Records. R. N. Russell, whose advancement to the position of cashier of the O. R. & N. Co.'s city ticket office, was noted by The Journal yesterday, and Fred Nessly, who leaves the Wisconsin Central to take his place with the Rio Grande system, have already made some progress. Below will be found a brief account of Mr. Russell's career, and following it that of Mr. Nessly: Mr. Russell entered the service of the Oregon Short Line in December, 1897, as a messenger. He left the service of that company in June, 1901, with service letter as clerk, operator and stenographer. In the same month he went to work for the Northern Pacific in its local freight office in Portland, and in December last year took his position in the city ticket office of the Denver & Rio Grande system here. He is still a young man, and gives promise of rapid advancement. Mr. Nessly, who succeeds Mr. Russell, began about two years ago as assistant freight clerk here for the Oregon City Transportation Company. He afterwards took a similar position with The Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Company, and from that company was transferred to his position with the Wisconsin Central in April of the present year. He has a good future before him.
