

PORTLAND JOURNAL

ALFRED D. BOWEN. JOURNAL PRINTING CO., Proprietors. Eastern Representative: Albert E. Hasbrook, 81 Times Bldg., N. Y. Hartford Bldg., Chicago.

THE INDEPENDENT AFTERNOON PAPER OF OREGON. Goodnough Building, Fifth and Yamhill streets, 253 Yamhill street.

TERMS BY CARRIER THE JOURNAL, one year, $5.00 THE JOURNAL, six months, $2.50 THE JOURNAL, three months, $1.25 THE JOURNAL, by mail, per year, $4.00 THE JOURNAL, by mail, 4 months, $1.00

CITY SUBSCRIBERS. If City Subscribers fail to secure their paper they will confer a favor if they will call up Main 500 and enter their complaints.

PORTLAND, ORE., JULY 17, 1902

RAILWAY COMMISSIONS. Oregon has good reason, perhaps, to oppose the railway commission idea. Oregon's experience with railway commissions was not such as to encourage the people to demand another. This is true in part for the reason that Oregon never enacted a law that intelligently set into operation a railway commission endowed with powers to demonstrate its possibilities.

THE CORN CORNER. John W. Gates cornered the corn market and made $1,500,000 profits therefrom. In so doing, he demonstrated exactly what he and his steel trust associates have the power to do at any time they choose.

SHAVING TRACY. Imagine the "nerve" of Tracy, sitting in a chair and permitting a young man to shave him up there at Enunclaw, Wash., with two other men in the room. What murderous possibilities there were in the position of that young man, and how well the convict understood human nature in that he guessed that his pro-temper barber would proceed peacefully to his task and not draw that razor across his convict throat and end the life that is so much sought, and upon which has been placed so liberal a price.

BARBERS' LAW UPHELD. The Supreme Court of Oregon has upheld the law requiring that no barber shop be opened, nor any work of barbering be done in this state on Sunday. The decision was not only good law, but it is fortunate that it was handed down. All well-disposed people will be glad that the attempt to break the Sunday closing barbers' law failed.

"NO JETTY WORK NOW." "There will be no jetty work this season," says a Washington dispatch. That dispatch reads familiarly enough to Portlanders and Oregonians. They have seen it before. It has been learned by heart.

"THE SPECIALISTS." Dr. William Tod Helmuth was in life a most distinguished physician, but he also had a fine "vein," and he was, too, a versatiler who slipped up the "specialists" with measurable accuracy—as witness this from his pen:

"SOME DAINTY DESSERTS." Dip large, fine strawberries with stems into the beaten white of eggs and then in powdered sugar. Keep on ice and serve from a glass dish garnished with green leaves. Cherries or currants may be used in this way.

"A QUEEN IS SHE WHOM HEALTH AND BEAUTY BLESS." SOUND TEETH ARE NECESSARY to both health and beauty. We attend to neglected teeth in the best approved manner, without inflicting pain, at lowest possible cost consistent with good work and with lasting and guaranteed results.

DR. B. E. WRIGHT, Dentist—And Associates 342 1/2 Washington Street, cor. Seventh. Hours: 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and 7 to 8 p. m. Telephone North 1711.

part of every Sunday are compelled to accommodate themselves to a new regime. They would do it only under stress of such a law. The change is consonant with a right trend in the development of society. It corrects a selfish tendency that had enabled customers to make it essential to success for any barber that he keep open his shop on Sunday. And all well-disposed people will be glad that the law has been upheld, which effects so desired improvement in that trade that has become quite a part of latter-day living.

CULTIVATE HOSPITALITY. It has been well suggested that to cultivate hospitality is one of the prime needs of Portland, if the Lewis and Clark Fair is to be a success. Without it, Portland will have expended money in vain. It is no more true of Portland than of any other city that proposes to ask people to come to attend such an affair as the exposition that has been planned. But it is just as true of Portland as of any other.

More free hospital service for Portland. It is an attractive subject, and one deserving attention. Portland has two of the best hospitals in the West, and each one does so much free service as it can. There are limitations, however, upon their resources, and only by the co-operation of the people generally, in some sort of concert of action, may the free service be extended. It is not to encourage pauperizing charity, but in caring for cases that can be cared for in no other manner, and that attended in that manner entail the least burden possible upon the community. This is what free hospital service means, as proposed by those who represent the movement in the East and who have recently spoken upon the subject here in Portland.

The usual report that something—this time wind—has damaged the crops of Umatilla county, in Eastern Oregon. And, as usual, in all likelihood, Umatilla county will send down to Portland the very large portion of a 5,000,000 bushel crop of wheat, and a whole lot of barley and other cereals. Portland learned sometime ago not to worry much over the ante-harvest stories of injury to crops there. The reports come with yearly regularity, and yet Umatilla County as regularly pours into this port more grain for local consumption or for export than that which comes from any other county on the Pacific Coast.

Attend the meeting to be held at Cordray's Theater on July 19, by the distinguished representatives of the labor interests. Good speakers will be here from the East, and there will be things of interest and profit to be heard. What will be said will be worth hearing, and upon a subject that comes closely home to the people of Portland just at this time. Hear the labor speakers, if you are a laborer; and hear them if you are not.

A dealer says that "mossbacklam" dealers from the sale of many sporting goods. The dealer lives in Portland, and was talking of the Willamette Valley. It could be proven that moss grows upon the backs of anyone in this Valley, it would be an interesting demonstration. However, climatic peculiarities should not be charged up to the people of a particular locality.

Why is it that so few people seem anxious to talk to Mr. Carpington? He seems well informed. "That's just the difficulty," answered Miss Dimpleton. "He's one of those dreadful men who know enough to correct your mistakes when you quote the classics, and doesn't know enough not to do it."

A little boy was asked by his Sunday school teacher why a certain part of the church was called the altar. "Because it is where people change their names," he promptly answered. "T-T-B's."

"My wife is going to fix up our house as a summer resort." "How will she do it?" "Get some hard beds and cut the table down to half rations."

A raw egg is one of the most nutritious of foods, and may be taken very easily if the yoke is not broken. A little nutmeg grated upon the egg, a few drops of lemon juice added, some chopped parsley sprinkled over it, or some salt and a dash of cayenne pepper vary the flavor and tend to make it more palatable when not taken as a medicine.

To make wafer pudding take four eggs and a pinch of salt. Beat into a batter with two tablespoons of flour. Slightly oil with one and half ounces of butter and mix into the batter. Grease some small baking saucers. Pour into them the mixture and bake for fifteen minutes in a good oven. While baking warm some jam, place a spoonful in the center of each pudding, fold the sides, turn out on separate plates and serve immediately.

Dip large, fine strawberries with stems into the beaten white of eggs and then in powdered sugar. Keep on ice and serve from a glass dish garnished with green leaves. Cherries or currants may be used in this way. Press one quart of hulled strawberries through a sieve; add six tablespoons of sugar and the beaten whites or six eggs. Mix lightly, pour into a buttered dish and bake slowly for 40 minutes. Serve at once with cream.

great engineering work is begun, all reasonable people will concede. But, that a century must be consumed in deciding what sort of work shall be done during one or two years of operations after the work shall have begun, is quite beyond the limit of patience. No jetty work now may mean no jetty work next year. And no jetty work next year may mean none the following year. And for that there is no excuse.

The demands of the Columbia River are of sufficient magnitude to warrant haste. The commerce depending upon the proper improvement of the river is vast enough to argue for reducing the time rather than increasing it. Such things as this cause people to harbor suspicions that there have been improper actions somewhere. They want the almost settled belief that someone has yielded to influence that could not be openly acknowledged before the world. The cold, unadorned fact remains that work that ought to proceed will not proceed. And, with this bald fact before them, why should there be complaint if the majority of our people conclude that something is wrong?

More free hospital service for Portland. It is an attractive subject, and one deserving attention. Portland has two of the best hospitals in the West, and each one does so much free service as it can. There are limitations, however, upon their resources, and only by the co-operation of the people generally, in some sort of concert of action, may the free service be extended. It is not to encourage pauperizing charity, but in caring for cases that can be cared for in no other manner, and that attended in that manner entail the least burden possible upon the community. This is what free hospital service means, as proposed by those who represent the movement in the East and who have recently spoken upon the subject here in Portland.

After this she went up stairs and searched her room for signs of the missing article. It was not to be found. Five minutes later she rang her bell and sent the boy who responded for the maid who had cleaned her room in the morning. That person appeared in the course of a half hour, sleepy but polite. Yes, she remembered the bag, but it had been lying with some torn papers and she had thrown the whole thing in the box kept for debris. Directly two excited women were going over orange peel and torn bits of paper and stumps of cigars like mad, and in a jiffy one of them had the chamois bag in her hand. The $100 reposed snugly within. This is a true story—that's what makes it so strange; but, didn't the heroine of it go right up stairs and hide that money in the toe of her best slipper in her trunk? She said she wouldn't trust it anywhere but there again. And she was never known to fasten the trunk!

Women will not lock things up, that's certain; not as long as there are odd little places where they can hide their valuables, anyway. General Lord Kitchener, commander in chief of the British forces in South Africa, celebrated his 53d birthday on June 21. Rear Admiral George W. Melville, U. S. N., though very much in the flesh, has his monument ready in Arlington cemetery. Mrs. Urquhart Lee of Chicago has the distinction of being the only woman in the country teaching parliamentary law. She is the new appointee to the chair of parliamentary law in the University of California. Thomas Nast, the famous caricaturist, who is temporarily in Washington, was appointed not long since consul at Guayaquil, but somehow the impression got out that it was not the artist himself, but a son, who received the appointment. How the mistake originated is not known nor could Mr. Nast explain. The house of Saxony, which has again come before the public in the succession of a new King of Saxony, is undoubtedly the most important of the old world at present, as its members occupy no less than 19 of the thrones of Europe, those of Great Britain, Prussia, Portugal, Belgium, Bulgaria, Saxe-Weimar, Saxe-Altenburg, Saxe-Meininger, Saxe-Coburg, and Gotha, and of Saxony. The nine fellow rulers and relatives of the new King of Saxony bear, like him, the title of Duke of Saxony.

Wall paper was first made in Germany about 1660. The domestic fowl is not mentioned in the Old Testament. The first iron vessels were boats for carrying grain on English canals. In Russia factories are usually near forests, wood being still the chief fuel. In Welsh ping-pong is known as ping-pongdiath and the devotees as ping-powgr.

No known land animal has naturally poisonous flesh. There are, however, several fish whose flesh is deadly. Hard times in Germany are said to have caused a large diminution in the consumption of wine and spirituous liquors. By order of the Czar the popoff system of wireless telegraphy is to be introduced into the whole Russian Army and Navy.

The largest parliament in point of numbers is the Hungarian House of Magyars, which has 731 members. England comes second with 670. The largest dome in the world is that of the Lutheran Church at Warsaw. Its interior diameter is 200 feet. That of the British Museum Library is 130 feet. Consul-General W. R. Holloway of St. Petersburg informed the Department April 23, 1902, that second-class tickets are now being sold by the Chinese Eastern Railroad Company. At St. Nazaire the French armored cruiser Admiral Aube was launched recently. She is to steam 23 knots, carry a crew of 625 men, and will be armed with 40 guns and four torpedo tubes.

Smart, straw-headed hat pins. On some of them tiny straw buttons. Still many pearl cabochons. Pearl and straw embroidered chiffons. Take a half bottle of perry, add to it one bottle of elder, one-half pint of sherry and three or four cloves; let remain for a time, then add a wine glassful of brandy and one large lemon sliced toasted bread as hot as possible; set it on ice to cool.

The fashionable shirtwaist is unquestionably the white one, and both thick and thin ones are made in great variety. The plain shirtwaist of madras or heavy linen has little fullness in front; some are made with plain yokes at the back, but the majority have no yokes at all—that is, no visible yokes.

A little pin-flowered muslin waist has a yoke of insertions of lace running around the bodice, with the upper part of the yoke of narrow folds of the material joined by fagoting. Insertions are of the lace run in strips down the tops of the sleeves.

How to take raw eggs. A raw egg is one of the most nutritious of foods, and may be taken very easily if the yoke is not broken. A little nutmeg grated upon the egg, a few drops of lemon juice added, some chopped parsley sprinkled over it, or some salt and a dash of cayenne pepper vary the flavor and tend to make it more palatable when not taken as a medicine.

To make wafer pudding take four eggs and a pinch of salt. Beat into a batter with two tablespoons of flour. Slightly oil with one and half ounces of butter and mix into the batter. Grease some small baking saucers. Pour into them the mixture and bake for fifteen minutes in a good oven. While baking warm some jam, place a spoonful in the center of each pudding, fold the sides, turn out on separate plates and serve immediately.

Dip large, fine strawberries with stems into the beaten white of eggs and then in powdered sugar. Keep on ice and serve from a glass dish garnished with green leaves. Cherries or currants may be used in this way. Press one quart of hulled strawberries through a sieve; add six tablespoons of sugar and the beaten whites or six eggs. Mix lightly, pour into a buttered dish and bake slowly for 40 minutes. Serve at once with cream.

WOMAN AND HER VALUABLES She Hides Her Diamonds and Silver in Out-of-the-Way Places.

The average woman loathes to lock things up. It's such a nuisance to have to hunt for the keys when she wishes to unlock them; or to remember five minutes after everything is securely fastened that she has forgotten two or three articles, and so each drawer must be opened again.

The Journal knows an estimable lady who has a safe in her house with a combination lock, and a box in the vault of a safe deposit company, but she keeps her purse between the mattresses of her bed just the same and her diamonds in one of the vases on her mantel piece in her bedroom. Sometimes she hides her spoons in her writing desk and sometimes she distributes them among her various pairs of shoes, but at all events when she wants any of these articles she has a regular "find-the-silver" hunt, for she's always deliciously uncertain where she has put them.

She has even been known to have the dinner table set with two pronged steel forks from the kitchen after she's been away visiting for a bit and has had time to forget her most recent and most ingenious hiding places.

The Journal knows other women who conceal money, in sums ranging from $50 up, under the edges of the carpet on the floor, or back of photographs in their frames. They don't put it in a bank because it's too much trouble, and they don't lock it up in a desk because they'd be sure to lose the key. They select the remarkable places mentioned as safe and not troublesome to reach.

One girl who contends that banks may fail and bureaus burn up, carries what-ever funds she may be possessed of "concealed about her person," as the blood and thunder novels say. Only the other day she removed the little chamois bag that contained $150 from about her neck and put it on the dressing table at the hotel at which she was then stopping. This was at 10 a. m. and at 10 p. m. it suddenly occurred to her that she had forgotten to put that bag back in its place.

Then she had a spasm of fright that chained her to her chair for a moment. After this she went up stairs and searched her room for signs of the missing article. It was not to be found. Five minutes later she rang her bell and sent the boy who responded for the maid who had cleaned her room in the morning. That person appeared in the course of a half hour, sleepy but polite.

Yes, she remembered the bag, but it had been lying with some torn papers and she had thrown the whole thing in the box kept for debris. Directly two excited women were going over orange peel and torn bits of paper and stumps of cigars like mad, and in a jiffy one of them had the chamois bag in her hand. The $100 reposed snugly within. This is a true story—that's what makes it so strange; but, didn't the heroine of it go right up stairs and hide that money in the toe of her best slipper in her trunk? She said she wouldn't trust it anywhere but there again. And she was never known to fasten the trunk!

Women will not lock things up, that's certain; not as long as there are odd little places where they can hide their valuables, anyway. General Lord Kitchener, commander in chief of the British forces in South Africa, celebrated his 53d birthday on June 21. Rear Admiral George W. Melville, U. S. N., though very much in the flesh, has his monument ready in Arlington cemetery. Mrs. Urquhart Lee of Chicago has the distinction of being the only woman in the country teaching parliamentary law. She is the new appointee to the chair of parliamentary law in the University of California. Thomas Nast, the famous caricaturist, who is temporarily in Washington, was appointed not long since consul at Guayaquil, but somehow the impression got out that it was not the artist himself, but a son, who received the appointment. How the mistake originated is not known nor could Mr. Nast explain. The house of Saxony, which has again come before the public in the succession of a new King of Saxony, is undoubtedly the most important of the old world at present, as its members occupy no less than 19 of the thrones of Europe, those of Great Britain, Prussia, Portugal, Belgium, Bulgaria, Saxe-Weimar, Saxe-Altenburg, Saxe-Meininger, Saxe-Coburg, and Gotha, and of Saxony. The nine fellow rulers and relatives of the new King of Saxony bear, like him, the title of Duke of Saxony.

HINTS TO WOMEN

A TIP TO THE HOUSEWIFE. Don't forget to give your cellar a good coat of whitewash this season, in order to keep it fresh, sweet and wholesome.

THERE ARE—Smart, straw-headed hat pins. On some of them tiny straw buttons. Still many pearl cabochons. Pearl and straw embroidered chiffons.

Take a half bottle of perry, add to it one bottle of elder, one-half pint of sherry and three or four cloves; let remain for a time, then add a wine glassful of brandy and one large lemon sliced toasted bread as hot as possible; set it on ice to cool.

The fashionable shirtwaist is unquestionably the white one, and both thick and thin ones are made in great variety. The plain shirtwaist of madras or heavy linen has little fullness in front; some are made with plain yokes at the back, but the majority have no yokes at all—that is, no visible yokes.

A little pin-flowered muslin waist has a yoke of insertions of lace running around the bodice, with the upper part of the yoke of narrow folds of the material joined by fagoting. Insertions are of the lace run in strips down the tops of the sleeves.

How to take raw eggs. A raw egg is one of the most nutritious of foods, and may be taken very easily if the yoke is not broken. A little nutmeg grated upon the egg, a few drops of lemon juice added, some chopped parsley sprinkled over it, or some salt and a dash of cayenne pepper vary the flavor and tend to make it more palatable when not taken as a medicine.

To make wafer pudding take four eggs and a pinch of salt. Beat into a batter with two tablespoons of flour. Slightly oil with one and half ounces of butter and mix into the batter. Grease some small baking saucers. Pour into them the mixture and bake for fifteen minutes in a good oven. While baking warm some jam, place a spoonful in the center of each pudding, fold the sides, turn out on separate plates and serve immediately.

Dip large, fine strawberries with stems into the beaten white of eggs and then in powdered sugar. Keep on ice and serve from a glass dish garnished with green leaves. Cherries or currants may be used in this way. Press one quart of hulled strawberries through a sieve; add six tablespoons of sugar and the beaten whites or six eggs. Mix lightly, pour into a buttered dish and bake slowly for 40 minutes. Serve at once with cream.

Social Chats By MME. ALERT

Mrs. Cecil Bower is home from the beach. Mrs. Wesley Ladd is quite sick with tonsillitis. Miss Alice Von Destimon has returned from Hood River. A big yachting party is on the tapis for early in the week.

Mrs. Percy Blyth is still in England and will not return before fall. Mrs. Lulu Freeman of the Glimmer is seriously ill with appendicitis.

Miss Arlie Seemore expects to go to Seaside next week on her vacation. Miss Don F. Low contemplates a visit to Los Angeles early next month.

Miss Etta Moore, niece of the late D. P. Thompson, is visiting relatives here. Mrs. Ogden from San Francisco is with her mother, Mrs. Odgen Pease, at the Norton.

The Misses Smith—Laura, Carrie and Elsie—are spending the time pleasantly at Flavel. Mrs. Louis Tarpley, with her boys, will go to Green River next week for a month's visit.

Mr. Roy Feldenhimer, son of our very popular jeweler, is visiting his grandmother in San Francisco. Mrs. Henry McCracken will entertain at Luncheon Thursday at 1 o'clock to meet some Eastern friends.

Mrs. George D. Bates has gone to San Diego to visit her mother. Mr. and Mrs. Bates will be up here later. Mr. James Loton, of 65 Ella street, has been quite ill the past 10 days. His friends will be glad to know he is improving.

Mrs. Hall, daughter of Mrs. C. H. Lewis of Buffalo, is expected here shortly to spend some time with her relatives. Mrs. Harry Goode and children have returned from a month's outing much improved in health. They have been up at White Salmon.

Mrs. John F. Ames entertained informally at tea a number of her friends Tuesday, between 3 and 5, to meet Mrs. Curry, from San Francisco. Mr. Max Hirsch of the firm of Meier & Frank, returned last night from an extended trip through France and Germany, after an absence of five months.

Mr. Will Steel of Seattle enjoyed a very pleasant visit with his friends, Judge and Mrs. O'Day, prior to going to Nome, where he will remain some time, looking after his mining interests.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Fishner, Mr. and Mrs. Lang, Mrs. Lowinger, and Miss Selene Stern have returned from the coast after a most enjoyable trip to the Breakers and thereabouts.

Miss Florence Koshland gave a luncheon today to ten of her girl friends to meet her cousins, Miss Marks and Miss Herman of San Francisco. I'll tell you all about it in Saturday's issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pease, Miss Maylita and Dick Pease, of San Francisco, arrived Monday aboard the Columbia to spend the summer here. They have taken apartments at the Norton, Twelfth and Morrison, their old stamping grounds.

General Lord Kitchener, commander in chief of the British forces in South Africa, celebrated his 53d birthday on June 21. Rear Admiral George W. Melville, U. S. N., though very much in the flesh, has his monument ready in Arlington cemetery. Mrs. Urquhart Lee of Chicago has the distinction of being the only woman in the country teaching parliamentary law. She is the new appointee to the chair of parliamentary law in the University of California. Thomas Nast, the famous caricaturist, who is temporarily in Washington, was appointed not long since consul at Guayaquil, but somehow the impression got out that it was not the artist himself, but a son, who received the appointment. How the mistake originated is not known nor could Mr. Nast explain. The house of Saxony, which has again come before the public in the succession of a new King of Saxony, is undoubtedly the most important of the old world at present, as its members occupy no less than 19 of the thrones of Europe, those of Great Britain, Prussia, Portugal, Belgium, Bulgaria, Saxe-Weimar, Saxe-Altenburg, Saxe-Meininger, Saxe-Coburg, and Gotha, and of Saxony. The nine fellow rulers and relatives of the new King of Saxony bear, like him, the title of Duke of Saxony.

FAME'S PATHWAY.

Wall paper was first made in Germany about 1660. The domestic fowl is not mentioned in the Old Testament. The first iron vessels were boats for carrying grain on English canals. In Russia factories are usually near forests, wood being still the chief fuel. In Welsh ping-pong is known as ping-pongdiath and the devotees as ping-powgr.

No known land animal has naturally poisonous flesh. There are, however, several fish whose flesh is deadly. Hard times in Germany are said to have caused a large diminution in the consumption of wine and spirituous liquors. By order of the Czar the popoff system of wireless telegraphy is to be introduced into the whole Russian Army and Navy.

The largest parliament in point of numbers is the Hungarian House of Magyars, which has 731 members. England comes second with 670. The largest dome in the world is that of the Lutheran Church at Warsaw. Its interior diameter is 200 feet. That of the British Museum Library is 130 feet. Consul-General W. R. Holloway of St. Petersburg informed the Department April 23, 1902, that second-class tickets are now being sold by the Chinese Eastern Railroad Company. At St. Nazaire the French armored cruiser Admiral Aube was launched recently. She is to steam 23 knots, carry a crew of 625 men, and will be armed with 40 guns and four torpedo tubes.

Wall paper was first made in Germany about 1660. The domestic fowl is not mentioned in the Old Testament. The first iron vessels were boats for carrying grain on English canals. In Russia factories are usually near forests, wood being still the chief fuel. In Welsh ping-pong is known as ping-pongdiath and the devotees as ping-powgr.

No known land animal has naturally poisonous flesh. There are, however, several fish whose flesh is deadly. Hard times in Germany are said to have caused a large diminution in the consumption of wine and spirituous liquors. By order of the Czar the popoff system of wireless telegraphy is to be introduced into the whole Russian Army and Navy.

The largest parliament in point of numbers is the Hungarian House of Magyars, which has 731 members. England comes second with 670. The largest dome in the world is that of the Lutheran Church at Warsaw. Its interior diameter is 200 feet. That of the British Museum Library is 130 feet. Consul-General W. R. Holloway of St. Petersburg informed the Department April 23, 1902, that second-class tickets are now being sold by the Chinese Eastern Railroad Company. At St. Nazaire the French armored cruiser Admiral Aube was launched recently. She is to steam 23 knots, carry a crew of 625 men, and will be armed with 40 guns and four torpedo tubes.

No More Dread of the Dental Chair New York Dental Parlors 4th and Morrison Sts., Portland, Ore. No Pain No Gas Full Set of Teeth $5.00

Mother and Daughter Can make cooking in Summer a pleasure by using A Good Gas Stove such as we furnish. Just think: No coal or wood to carry; no ashes; no dirt; a cool kitchen, and less expensive than the old way. Think it over and come in and talk it over with us. Portland Gas Company 8th and Yamhill sts., Portland, Or.

Do You Want to Look Well and Feel Comfortable in Hot Weather? Use our PARISIAN TOILET PREPARATIONS. Full directions for using on each package. BA-BA-LENE SKIN CREME—Soothes and heals the face, cleanses the pores, leaves complexion clear and beautiful. Excellent foundation for face powder, guaranteed not to produce growth of hair. Jar, 50 cents. WILD CHERRY POWDER—Purest in the world; leaves the skin soft and smooth; a healing and beautifying powder. Box, 50 cents. WHITE LILY SKIN FOOD—Revives and restores shrunken tissues, feet; should be used by all who would regain a youthful look. TRANSPARENT JELLY—Soothing, healing, whitening—finest glove can be worn right after using the jelly; no grease. Jar, 25 cents. New York Electro-Therapeutic Co. 702 Marquess Bldg., Portland, Oregon

BELOW COST EDISON ELECTRIC LAMPS To consumers of current from our mains we are now selling LAMPS AT 15c EACH, or $1.75 PER DOZEN. These are the same lamps that we formerly sold at 25c each, and are made expressly for us. Buy Them If You Want the Best. Delivered in Dozen Lots Free of Charge. Portland General Electric Co.

PERFECT BUTTER When you want it get HAZLEWOOD Hazelwood Cream Co. Both Phones 154... 382 WASHINGTON STREET.

OLD KENTUCKY HOME CLUB O. P. S. WHISKEY Favorite American Whiskey BLUMAUER & HOCH, Sole Distributors Wholesale Liquor and Cigar Dealers, 108-110 Fourth St.

Told in Faces. Individuals with an oblong or oval face are naturally of a strong and active nature, with keen powers of perception and much imagination. They are self-reliant and persevering. They are not, strictly speaking, highly intellectual, although they are often talented. They are constant in friendship and strong in their affections. The round face belongs usually to a subject whose neck is short, shoulders broad and round, chest full, and in whom a tendency to stoutness in middle life is indicated by the plumpness of youth. The round-faced woman very often has small feet and hands. In character the round-faced subject is lively, amiable, impulsive and frequently fickle. The woman with the rounded outline has the scintillation, but not the depth of the diamond. She lacks persistence, and she loves ease too much to do any serious and patient plodding, which we all know must be done to reach desirable results in every-day life. The round-faced woman is the most companionable of friends. She is called, far and near, good-natured, and deserves the appellation. The pyriform face indicates the intellectual type. The woman with the pear-shaped face has a high, broad forehead. Her features are generally delicate and finely modeled. Her neck is slender, she is tall rather than short; her chest is not broad, frequently, in the contrary, has intelligent eyes, and she never appears, at least in youth, to have great physical endurance.

A Queen Is She Whom Health and Beauty Bless SOUND TEETH ARE NECESSARY to both health and beauty. We attend to neglected teeth in the best approved manner, without inflicting pain, at lowest possible cost consistent with good work and with lasting and guaranteed results. Crown and Bridge Work a Specialty. DR. B. E. WRIGHT, Dentist—And Associates 342 1/2 Washington Street, cor. Seventh. Hours: 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. and 7 to 8 p. m. Telephone North 1711.