POWER COMPANY REBUILDING JACKSONVILLE POWER LINES

Along Oregon and Third streets a program of modernization of equipment is being carried out by the California Oregon Power company. New installation includes higher poles and heavier wire and will improve the service in this division of the company's system. According to Mr. J. C. Thompson, local manager for Copco, this work will cost upwards of $1300.

Subscriptions are what make a newspaper, as you know. The Miner, liking very much to be a complete success, is soliciting your subscription. Rates are half what you have been paying. Mail yours in today—we'll appreciate it.
