They have leased the Poole place on the Jacksonville-Ruch road and plan to keep cows, pigs and chickens and make a regular farm home out of the place. They are wished success in the new venture.

Surprise Party—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hunsaker Monday evening gave a surprise party at their home in this city for Mrs. Norvell, first and second grade teacher. Mr. Hunsaker, athletic coach and seventh and eighth grade teacher, had arranged for attendance of all Jacksonville school teachers and school board directors' wives.

Many Parties—The Applegate community enjoyed itself socially Saturday evening, with three different homes engaging in parties. Mr. and Mrs. John Byrne entertained with a card party, while Mr. and Mrs. James Arnold offered their home to dancing. Little Applegate folks enjoyed dancing at the Walker Lewis home also.

Placer Mining—Mining seems to be a popular occupation for J. J. Arant at present while farm work is on the decline. Not only is he busy with Sam Israel in a placer mine along the Little Applegate, but he also has taken Larkin Reynolds into partnership and is working a quartz ledge back of his farm. Both mines are said to be "doing very well."

Sheep Sold—A carload of sheep were shipped to San Francisco a few days ago from the Fred Offenbacher ranch. The sheep, which belong to Mr. Phillip of Staten and John Rohrer of Roseburg, are being wintered at the Offenbacher ranch. Spring in Applegate—Snowflakes may be flying on the Applegate, but spring is here, nevertheless. Mrs. F. J. Rippey says she is going to set 270 eggs in an incubator, wishing herself good luck with them, and Mrs. Ansil Gilson has been searching for cans in which to engineer some ground cherry seeds so the cherries will mature before frost.

Move to Medford—Mr. and Mrs. Al Dunford, recently of Walla Walla, were visiting friends on Applegate a few days ago. They have returned to Medford to make their home, having spent the last six years at Walla Walla, where Mr. Dunford was a patient at the Veterans' hospital. Although Mr. Dunford's health is not greatly improved, he had a desire to make his home in southern Oregon again.

No Fish Today—Ray Coleman, V. J. Beach, Jim Littell, Jeff, Frank and Martin Clogdsen were fishing at Gold Ray dam Sunday, said finned creatures seeing the party first and, having heard of them before, left for safer waters. The three Clogdsens Saturday had caught seven silversides which were either unemployed, hungry or were uninformed as to just whom they should swipe bait from. Beach, spokesman for the group, asserted that although he used his most concentrated saliva in casting, not to mention fluent verbal accompaniment, nary a tidbit could be cornered.

NEW VALENTINE STOCK
Ray Wilson, manager of The Nugget confectionery, has received the most complete assortment of Valentines to be displayed in this vicinity in recent years. And, as the day for exchange of the pleasant, brightly-colored tokens nears Jacksonvilleians are busy selecting patterns that strike their fancy. From the most ornate designs down to the tiniest, daintiest creations are shown in the large stock fresh from printing centers of the world. A popular feature of the shipment is a variety of comic models suited to any and all situations and the original colored cartoons rival comic strips in interest and brilliancy.

YOUNG AND BURELSON MAKING SLOW PROGRESS

Baldy Young and R. R. Burelson are still working when weather permits. Severity has broken some in Copper vicinity and miners are flocking in from all parts of the country. Young and Burelson are taking out some gold as a cut is pushed through rim of their bar. About 150 feet are to be traversed and large boulders slacken progress. A few feet are gained every day with heavy gold laying on bedrock.

Some of the holes in bedrock are hoped to be filled with pay, or at least that is the great spirit of the miners. Pay is always a little further in but, in this case, it is an accepted fact they must drive through to the old channel before expecting any big bankroll. It is said they have a five-to-one chance to get an ace in the hole.
