

PERSONAL NEWS NOTES

Both from Jacksonville and Over the Hill

● Frank Roundtree of Montica, Calif., visited old friends on Applegate recently.

● Mrs. E. J. Cameron of Medford is spending a few days here with her son, Frank Cameron.

● Mrs. Forrest Ravenor is making an indefinite visit at Chilquin at the home of her brother.

● Miss Jeanette McKee of Klamath Falls is spending several weeks here with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos McKee.

● Mrs. Paul Demmer and daughter Thelma spent the day Wednesday with Mrs. Demmer's cousin, Mrs. Ruth Kent, near Applegate.

● Mrs. Frank Knutzen returned recently from Grants Pass, where she had spent a short time visiting at the home of Mrs. Art Hooper.

● Tom Dickey, from the Suncrest orchards near Medford, was in Jacksonville Sunday looking over his residential property, which is occupied.

● Delbert Weeks, employed by Glenn Saltmarsh on Little Applegate, attended the Seventh Day Adventists conference in Medford last week.

● M. Harris is expected back from Washington soon with his family, which he is bringing here to join him at his new homestead in Sterling section.

● Mr. and Mrs. Lylal Sox of Eugene are new residents of Ruch, having come there to work in the Hermon and Tittle mine on the Venable ranch.

● "Chuck" Wilcox, who had spent the winter at the home of Fred Offenbacher, returned to Medford recently, where he has employment with the S. O. S. company.

● Well, at least the earthquake temblors this week reminded several Jacksonville observers of man's infinitesimal insignificance, at a wee small hour of the morning.

● James Buckley, who had been seriously ill at the Sacred Heart hospital following an operation five weeks ago returned to his home on Applegate Tuesday of this week.

● Don Truax, well known on the Applegate, is recovering from a struggle with the measles at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Truax, at Missouri Flat.

● Mr. and Mrs. William Carl of Lower Applegate have been elected to go as delegates from Applegate grange to the state convention of grangers at Silverton June 14-17.

● Miss Beryl Cunningham of Little Applegate is spending several days visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Nelson Nye, who resides on the Crater lake highway five miles below Prospect.

● Miss Lucille Arant, teacher of the primary grades at West Side school near Central Point, returned to her home on Little Applegate Monday for the summer vacation. She will teach at West Side again next fall.

● Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bradley of Oroville, Calif., visited Mrs. Bradley's mother, Mrs. Sophia Demmer of Jacksonville hill this weekend, returning to Oroville Tuesday. Mr. Bradley is the owner of a fine farm and orange grove in California.

● Mrs. Mary A. White and son and daughter, Charles and Gladys, all of Denver, Colo., are expected to arrive in Jacksonville the latter part of this month for a summer's visit with Mrs. White's sister and family, Mrs. Clinton A. Smith.

● Beginning what city folks might think is a vacation atop a mountain, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Saltmarsh and three small children boarded horses and mules and went to Tallowbox Monday, where they will have charge of the lookout there.

● Pete Denhoff, well known cement contractor of Medford, made a friendly visit at the Summit service station Tuesday afternoon. He has been doing cement work on the new court house, for Green brothers, and as usual Pete is "right there with the goods."

● A number of Applegate people went to Provolt Sunday, where they attended an unusually interesting baseball game waged between Provolt and Kerby. The visiting nine won with a score of 21 to 22, which makes the first time the Provolters have lost this spring.

● Mr. and Mrs. George Lorrenz and the latter's mother, Mrs. Nelson of Bandon, returned to that place Sunday after a visit with Applegate relatives. While Mr. and Mrs. Lorrenz made a trip to Redding Mrs. Nelson spent three weeks with her son Harold on Thompson creek.

● Charles Ravenor of Applegate underwent a major operation at the Sacred Heart hospital at Medford Monday. Although in a serious condition, he was reported as getting along as well as could be expected. Mr. Ravenor had been in poor health for some time.

● Dr. Hays, one of Medford's well known physicians, has disposed of his home in that city and was reported as looking over Jacksonville with a speculative eye the first of the week. It is not known definitely but local friends would not be surprised if Dr. Hays built a new home in this city.

● Harry Whitney the first of the week was proudly displaying a gleaming nugget probably weighing up about $5 worth, according to credulous eyewitnesses. It was discovered among gravel on the Mattie Wilson place, which is undergoing a thorough shaking down by Whitney.

● Mr. and Mrs. Shay of Portland returned to their home a few days ago, after having spent their week's vacation as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Benedict. Other recent guests at Mrs. Benedict's home included Mrs. Carolyn Winetrot of Grants Pass and Mrs. Carl Winetrot of Klamath Falls.

● Arthur Lewis, who was operated on for a bursted appendix more than a week ago, is still confined to the Community hospital in Medford in a critical condition. The sick man has been visited by many of his local friends and his progress is being watched with sympathetic interest.

● Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Young and daughter Marylan of Ashland visited relatives on Applegate this week. Mrs. Young and daughter returned Monday from a two weeks visit at San Francisco, where they were guests of Mrs. Young's sister, Mrs. Merriam Worthington, formerly Doris Kleinhammer.

● Mrs. Gene Mee of Ruch was guest of honor at a pleasant afternoon social given recently by Mesdames Leon Offenbacher and Jack O'Brien at the former's home. Twenty-seven ladies were present for the occasion, in which presentation of gifts, followed by serving of refreshments, occupied most of the afternoon.

● Miss Frances Port was presented in a piano recital at the home of Mrs. E. E. Gore at Medford yesterday afternoon. She played "Fur Elise" by Beethoven. Ray Lewis of Jacksonville also was presented, playing "Valse Caprice" by Newlund. Guests at the musicale and tea called after 2:30, with the program beginning at 3 o'clock.

NOTICE

Because of the rank growth of vegetation Jacksonville people should make an effort to clean up weeds before the advent of dry weather and thereby assist in the prevention of fire. The Jacksonville fire company will be glad to aid in this work.—R. E. Wilson, Chief.

● Those from Jacksonville attending the afternoon party and tea given at the home of Mrs. C. C. Buck at Applegate last week in honor of Mrs. Leonard McKee were Mesdames Harold Reed, Charles Vogel, Tom Dunnington and Leila McKee. Guests from Medford were Mesdames William Jones, Armond Perrault, Chester Jones and Tut Combs.

● When H. H. Farley, Jacksonville's man-about-town with 10 fingers, each of which is in some local project (prominent among which are the Saturday night dances, the Junior Legion ball team, former school bus driver, ad lib), moved from his Heath bachelor quarters last week to his ranch on Little Applegate the house was promptly occupied by J. B. Hulse and family.

● The remarkable record of 2400 miles with only one flat tire is reported in a letter to friends by Mrs. Richard Reeves of Little Applegate, who, with her daughter, Norma Larkin of Seattle, left three weeks ago for Minneapolis to visit relatives. The letter also indicated that although the depression struck no harder in the east than here, it is more keenly felt by the people.

● Daniel Shuss, one of Jacksonville's master carpenters, has decided to put an ace in the hole against the possibility of tiring of chasing a tool box around and has acquired 80 acres of good timber and cultivated land on Birdseye creek. The ranch, 30 acres of which are tilled, lies two and one-half miles from the Pacific highway just below Gold Hill. There is much hardwood standing on the property as well as a small house and several other buildings. Dan, as he is better known, says he does not plan to move onto his new place before fall.

● Americanism: Going to college, by hook or crook, in order to be somebody; bowing low before a rich guy who quit school in the fourth grade.

● A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Houston of Ross Lane, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Wright and family of Jacksonville hill, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hewitt of Medford and George Wright and Harry Hewitt spent Sunday at the home of Mr.
