

PERSONAL NEWS NOTES
Both from Jacksonville and Over the Hill

W. O. Johnson of Malin spent Sunday as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Cantrall.

Mrs. Ella Abbott of Talent spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Victor Anderson, on Big Applegate.

Mrs. Mary Stevens of lower Applegate left last Friday for Portland, where she will undergo medical treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hulme of Big Applegate, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McIntyre of this city.

Milton Ames of San Francisco arrived in the community a few days ago, and is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ritchey of upper Applegate.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson and daughter of Central Point spent the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dawson.

Mrs. Wm. Harlow of Big Applegate has been ill with tonsillitis during the last few days. She is improving at the present time.

Mrs. Nick Bell, who was seriously ill with pneumonia last week at her home southeast of this city, is reported to be recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Saltmarsh visited Sunday at the home of Mrs. Saltmarsh's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dale, on Pine street, Medford.

Mrs. Raymond Rooney and daughter Miss Josephine Cardwell, returned to their upper Applegate home late last week, having spent the winter at Paradise, Calif. Mrs. Rooney, who journeyed to the south for her health, is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Kleinhammer were guests at a dinner given Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fish near Medford in honor of Mrs. Fish's mother, Mrs. Rena Van Dyke, of Los Angeles. Mrs. Van Dyke is making a three weeks' visit to northern California and Oregon, spending the greater part of her time with her sister at Yreka.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Holden, who expect to leave soon for Los Angeles, were complimented with a surprise party Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dawson. Thirty friends assembled for the farewell event, which was given principally to games and conversation, with ice cream and cake as a popular addition. Mr. and Mrs. Holden have spent the last eight months on Steamboat.

The twentieth annual festival symbolizing the arrival of spring on Applegate opened Sunday beneath leaden skies and in the face of a chilly wind. A handful of picnickers, imbued with the first desire for an outing, gathered along the river bank with their lunch, as well as plenty of optimism. A sparkling bon fire and overcoat collars turned high seemed to be their only weapons with which to combat the cold breath of winter which threatens spring's approach.

Smoke Eaters Initiate Members Via Wetting

The Jacksonville Volunteer firemen, under the leadership of Chief Ray Wilson, Wednesday night initiated four new members into the realm of the official choke and gag brigade.

Jim Littrell Jr., Leonard Gilbert, Don Forbes and Hubert De Haas were the aspirants let in for the general good-natured abuse and hilarity which marks such entertainments in this old town, and proceeded to lock themselves into an abandoned cell of the city hall to escape rigors of initiation, only to be the subjects of a demonstration of how to operate the emergency water tank on the new fire truck.

Doughnuts, coffee and typical stag refreshments were served the firemen and the entire evening was spent in the city hall without burning the structure down.

New Dance Series At Applegate Hall

Dance enthusiasts will welcome the announcement given out by the Applegate Grange that the Grange dance Saturday, March 4th, will mark the beginning of a new series of dances to continue until May or June, and which will be invitational.

The new plan is in charge of the ways and means committee, of which Leon Offenbacher is chairman, and is arranged to include all who wish to attend dances with good, clean fun as their intent. The committee has a list of 250 names to which they are mailing cards, and each Granger will have his individual mailing list. Each card entitles the bearer to attend any dance of the series, and permits him to invite a friend or friends. The Grangers are insuring patrons orderly conduct.

Expect Mill Ready Within Few Days; Head in Shipment

Completion of installation of a new 35-ton Straube mill in the sheds of the Jacksonville Gold Mining company, limited, on Jackson creek in this city, is expected within the next few days, according to officials.

All work of remodeling interior and mounting new equipment was completed early this week and arrival of the Straube rib-cone screen head, which was shipped from Oakland, Calif., Tuesday, is being awaited. All cement foundation and heavy machinery has been set and test runs will commence within a day or so after shipment of the remaining unit is made.

The company had found it necessary to tear out other equipment, which failed, and install a gold recovery mill of a proven type. Work at the mine, the former Old Town and Midas, has been dormant, awaiting mill outlet.

August 15 a dance was given, which cleared $167.08 for that purpose. At the next meeting of the city council the chamber of commerce gave its check for $150, making in all $317.08 from the chamber toward the purchase of a fire truck.

The best move made by the chamber was the work done at the head of the city's water system, in trying to develop more water. The chamber spent $355.50 for labor. Labor included money spent on both forks of the creek. Blacksmithing and rent of machinery cost about $80. The services of Albert Burch, one of the best engineers on the coast, cost the small sum of $50 and he claimed the city can get all the water needed for a much greater population.

The chamber of commerce spent a large sum for advertising. The postcard posters cost more than $100, and framed cards were posted on all main highways from Weed to Roseburg and from Grants Pass to Crescent City. Many tourists report having noted the signs along the road as they inspect the city's advertised attractions. The commerce body has spent more than $100 for radio programs and owns a signboard at the Klamath junction.

To gain an idea of other important repair work accomplished by the chamber one has only to look at the U. S. hotel building today and compare its present condition with that of several years ago. Chief among improvements are the up-to-date rest rooms, open 24 hours a day. The dance auditorium is being redecorated this week. The library, also housed in the hotel, has been papered and rewired.

Both drinking fountains on California street were installed by the chamber also. Upkeep of the hotel building including costs of janitor, lights, wood, paper and insurance of about $30 a year have been paid by the chamber.

While the chamber of commerce at all times has operated the Saturday night dances, income from this source has been but $10 per week. Not being satisfied with this result, the chamber at its last meeting appointed a dance committee consisting of C. B. Dunnington and Vivian Beach, who were instructed to give their time to the dances and who will be in attendance at all affairs. The chamber also will guarantee that all dances will be of first class character and that order will be kept in the hall at all times.

The members have made arrangements with Al Stewart, local resident, who is to furnish music for these occasions commencing tomorrow night. Stewart, who understands music thoroughly, has gathered together eight musicians and has arranged a full repertoire of stunts for entertainment.

The chamber of commerce has been indulging in some relief work in Jacksonville and has bought wood, grub and medicine for needy and stands ready at all times to help when and where help is needed.

Books of the chamber are open to all and the body has made a practice of handling no cash except by warrant on the treasurer. The doorman, Harry Ryan, turns all funds over to City Treasurer C. C. Chitwood.

The object of the above statement has been that the chamber of commerce desires to add new and more representative members to its roll; dues have been set at 50 cents for male members, 25 cents for women, per year. All old members, along with as many new ones as possible, are asked to join. The next regular meeting will be Monday night at the chamber of commerce room. Regular meeting nights are the first and third Mondays of every month.

It is especially desired that Jacksonville folk remember all meetings are open and all are invited to come and help work for the betterment of the city.

J. B. WETTERER, Secretary.

WHAT

is the meaning of this delay? Money? Sure, we all know that; is the relief we were so profusely promised last Campaign time? We still have a depression, mentally, at least, but do we eat? What, Where and When, is the main point of interest before all of us today.

WHERE

HOW

to solve the Eats problem is the main issue before a crew of well trained specialists who are trying to make a penny stretch around a hole a dollar could drop thru, and that is exactly why our customers are bringing other customers with them for we are solving their Eats problem in a way that leaves a lasting and pleasant effect.
