

PERSONAL NEWS NOTES

Both from Jacksonville and Over the Hill

Charles Watson of San Bernardino arrived here last week and is spending some time as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mankins southeast of town. Mr. Watson, formerly connected with the Mankins apiary, may handle the bees again this season on shares.

Lorraine and Charley Offenbacher and Miss Naomi Smith of Ruch accompanied their grandmother, Mrs. Mamie Venable of Ashland vicinity, to Crescent City and Brookings Sunday. Lorraine and Charley are remaining at Ashland as guests of their grandmother.

The weather remains despicable as ever and curiously enough is the fault of everything. Just when the Palmer creek Gold Diggers began to glimpse victory in the fifth inning on the local diamond Sunday after a series of unmerciful whalings by the Brush Marines during the last month, a young cloudburst intervened and sent the players to their homes in a hurry. The score was 5-6 in favor of the Marines when the game was dispensed with and was the nearest to something worth writing home about that the farmers' team had seen in a long time. It would rain.

Mrs. Armprist of Salem vicinity is spending some time on the Applegate visiting her son, Walter, and other relatives.

Robert Fletcher, employed as caterpillar driver at the Elk Creek C. C. C. camp, spent the week-end with his family on Big Applegate.

B. Glasgow of Valley View, vice chairman, and Mrs. W. H. Young of Eagle Point, treasurer. Unable to be present for the entire week-end, Mrs. Port joined the group Monday forenoon. In addition to the seven committee members, Miss Carlisle Nye of Corvallis and demonstration agents from four counties were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Talent spent Sunday visiting Mrs. Davis' son, Ivan Brown, who has remained at the home of Ray Offenbacher during the last two months.

Glenn Smith and Bryant Hamilton, employed in road construction at Diamond lake, spent the week-end with relatives on Applegate.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anders and son Jimmy and daughter Barbara of Central Point spent Sunday picnicking and fishing on Williams creek. They also visited Mrs. Anders' aunt, Mrs. W. H. McDaniel. Mr. Anders is deputy postmaster at Central Point.

Camping under the pine trees along the river shore was the privilege of Seth Putnam and George Peters of Medford, who were guests of Aubrey Taylor for two days last week. The boys enjoyed a real outing, which included swimming, horseback riding, bicycling and eating their own cooking. In the evenings they sauntered to the Cloverleaf dairy for their supply of milk.

Applegate Grange is sponsoring a big dance on the night of July 4, to which everybody is invited. Hanson's orchestra is furnishing the music. Twenty-three Grange members, including all officers with the exception of two, spent a pleasant evening with the Phoenix Grangers Tuesday at which time the local organization took the Phoenix chairs.

Frances Wakefield has returned to her home where she is rapidly improving after an operation on her throat.

WALTER HUSTON

Undoubtedly the most sensational story ever written about Washington, "Gabriel Over the White House," opens at the Craterian theater Sunday to provide a talking drama thrilling from its very opening reel to its stirring conclusion. Walter Huston triumphs with a great performance as President Jud Hammond and in a series of scenes as realistic as newswreels forces congress to give him the powers of a dictator, solves the unemployment problem, ends racketeering and brings foreign debt uncertainty to a close. The story throughout has a ring of authenticity.

300,000 Motorists Must Get Drivers' Permits by Sept. 1

Three hundred thousand Oregon motorists must obtain renewal drivers' licenses before September 1, the first day on which the law requires every motor vehicle operator to have a new-type permit, according to Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state.

This great number, approximately three-quarters of the drivers in the state, may occasion a rush for permits such as swamped examination stations during the last few days preceding June 9, when the motor vehicle laws raised the cost of permits from 50 cents to $1. "In the short time from May 1, up to and including June 8, 75,384 persons were examined," Mr. Hoss declared. "The magnitude of this task may be seen by a comparison with the 22-month period between July 1, 1931, and May 1, 1933, when only 21,816 drivers were examined. On June 8, this year 6000 persons were given examinations, with applicants in some localities being taken care of until midnight. Such a congested condition will recur in the weeks just preceding September 1," the secretary of state pointed out, "unless drivers arrange immediately for renewals."

Authority has been given by the legislature to waive examination of renewal applicants, except for those 70 years of age and older, or whom, because of obvious physical impairments or a questionable driving record there is reason to believe that an applicant may not be qualified to operate a car in a safe manner. Holders of new-type drivers' licenses and renewals issued since July 1, 1931, need not renew their permits until June 30, 1935, regardless of the expiration date they bear.

In order to obtain a renewal permit, Mr. Hoss warned, it will not be sufficient merely to mail a dollar. The applicant must obtain the regulation application form either by mail from the secretary of state's office in Salem, or from state police, county sheriffs, or examiners. This must be filled out and signed before a notary public or one of the official examiners, all of whom have notaries' commissions, or other persons qualified to administer oaths. State examiners will affix the notary seal free of charge.

An examiner may be located by referring to the printed schedules which may be secured from the secretary of state's office, state police or sheriffs.
