

Double Main Event Card Pits Pupil and Teacher at Armory

Students have been known to marry their teachers, but Thursday night of this week Bob Kruse plans to apply wristlock instead of wedlock on his former mentor, Ted Thye, who once taught student Bob the art of curt cuffing in Portland. They will meet in second half of Mack Lillard's double main event at the Medford armory.

In the first half of the double bill Promoter Lillard has matched Chief Little Wolf of Colorado and Louie Miller, San Francisco. Little Wolf is the redskin who bowled fans over with his Indian "death lock," and Miller has been seen here as one of the fastest, craftiest wrestlers in some time. Both matches promise plenty of display and spectacle, and another full house is expected for this Thursday night.

Matches start promptly at 8:30, stated Lillard, and open house bargain prices still prevail.

LETTERS to the Editor

To the Editor:

Last week's issue of The Miner caused a great disturbance in the mind of this writer. What in the world is wrong with the civic spirit of that Miner reader on the Applegate side of the hill who complained in a forlorn note that the city's welcome sign did not welcome Applegate folks, too?

Was not all of southern Oregon, as well as the designated cities of Medford and Jacksonville, a proud hostess to the hundreds of visitors from other sections of the west, and is not Applegate surely a part of southern Oregon? Even though Medford was the hub of the celebration, jubilee heads have given credit to the loyal citizens of southern Oregon, and even residents of the remotest sections of several rural communities gave their support and hard labor. At such a time is not the Applegate essentially a part of Jacksonville, and of Medford, too, in community spirit if not geographically?

The Applegate people did not wait for a welcome of any kind to jubilee pleasures, but waded into the hard work of putting on the celebration with all their might. Two citizens worked faithfully on committees at Medford, one as chairman. Two individuals entered floats in the pioneer parade. Two organizations were represented in the industrial parade, and at least six other individuals participated in the pageant and rodeo and other activities.

Now why ask for a welcome from Jacksonville?

Jayville Exchange Moved New Location

John B. Renault, operator of the Jacksonville Exchange for many years here, recently moved his business to third house west of the meat market, on the right-hand side of the Jacksonville-Ruch highway, changing the business name to John's Second-Hand store.

Renault, who has been ill for some time and but recently recovered, is well known throughout this section, and his establishment now is located on the same plot of ground where the famous John B. Renault, Inc., Ltd., mines used to stand. Johnny, as he is known, infers he likes the second-hand business better than exchanging, or swapping, and is ready for trade under the newer arrangement, he said late last week.

Word was received of the death of F. C. Smith at Elgin, Illinois, on May 18, 1934, by the local chapter A. F. & A. M. Mr. Smith had been principal of the Elgin schools for the past three years, and will be remembered by old-timers as former principal of Jacksonville schools. He is survived by the widow and one son. Interment was in the Elgin cemetery.

An announcement of the wedding of Miss Ruth Currin and Eugene M. Spaniol on June 5 at Corvallis was received here this week by friends. The newlyweds will be at home after July 1 at Stayton, Oregon. Mrs. Spaniol is one of the popular instructors in the local high school and needs no introduction to Miner readers. The Miner joins with her many friends here in wishing her wedded happiness.

Miss Audrey Martin, of Eugene, is spending some time visiting at the Clinton Smith home here, where special interest has centered for some time. (Andy now is working and, they do say, saving his money for something or other.)
