Why Pick on J'ville?

When a person commits a social blunder at a dinner it always aggravates an embarrassing situation to say anything more about it. And two Medford deputies Saturday night most certainly spilled the soup course onto Jacksonville's tender and troubled head.

The incident might have been smoothed over somewhat and perhaps would have caused little more than a slight, amused ripple of interest if the blunders had had the good judgment to look at it as a mistake on their part and either been honest or silent. But, like the awkward guest, they started explaining and elaborating on the situation and the more they said, the deeper in they got.

Especially when the deputies—or at least one of them—attempted to hoist all responsibility onto "Jacksonville hoodlums" did the natives of this good old town begin to smart under their well-souped toupées. It was bad enough for two officers, bent on enforcing the law, to become so drunk they couldn't handle themselves, their car or their "prisoners," but it was far worse when they passed the incident off, in the Medford press, as "just the antics of some bad-acting Jacksonville hoodlums."

According to more than a dozen eyewitnesses, worst "hoodlums" seen on the street during the brawl were the two officers and, for that matter, implanters of the "shiners" suffered were from Medford, as well. In fact, those who were watching the entire show declare there was practically no shred of truth in the yarn spun in a Medford paper Wednesday and that Jacksonville was being imposed upon by the undersheriffs, rather than imposing on them.

Most Jacksonvillians can understand a man making a fool of himself while "under the influence," but somehow or other, they do expect him to be a gentleman about the incident when he sobbers up.

Figuratively Speaking

By J. C. REYNOLDS

The time has come when I for 1
Must praise the good that Roosevelt's done.

He surely knows a thing or 2,
I will admit and so must you.

Since Nineteen hundred, thirty-3
He's helped us, to a marked degree.

And now in Nineteen, thirty-4
He's boosting business more and more.

With times improving, thirty-5
Will find us glad to be alive.

And by the dawn of thirty-6
We'll reach the peak, if Roosevelt sticks.

Then, if we're wise, in thirty-7
We'll keep him on the job, by Heaven!

For should we lose him, thirty-8
Will see our good times terminate.

And Nineteen hundred, thirty-9
Will bring another stiff decline.

In which, with prosperous times forgot-10,
All business will again be rotten.

WHEN OUR MOTHERS WERE BRIDES

- "Man's work was from sun to sun; but woman's work was never done." Electricity has changed all that. Today in the "ALL ELECTRIC" home, electricity cooks, heats the water, operates a refrigerator, washer, iron, vacuum cleaner, radio, sun lamp, percolator, toaster, waffle iron, food mixer and lights the house at an average cost per day equal to the hourly wage of a good servant.
- Electricity is as clean as sunshine and by far the cheapest service you can buy. The wise woman of today conserves her health, beauty and time with the clean, cool convenience of electricity.
