

TALENT BALKS AT ROAD PLAN

Believing that a rerouting of the Pacific highway through Talent, is preferable to the straightening project which would miss the town altogether, members of the Talent Chamber of Commerce Monday night passed a resolution protesting present highway department plans, and asks the commission for a hearing for the presentation of facts and an alternate plan.

Talent citizens faced with possibility of the Pacific highway being rerouted along Bear creek, suggests that two curves in the road in city limits be eliminated and that the new pavement be laid through the townsite, gradually swerving toward north end of new concrete road which terminates at second bridge from Ashland. Talent has been bisected by the Pacific highway since that famous roadway's earliest, muddiest days.

Endorsement of the protest will be sought from Ashland Chamber of Commerce, the Jackson county chamber, the Talent city council and the county court before the resolution is forwarded to the state highway commission, Talent officials stated. The proposed changes are part of a general straightening program being carried out, piecemeal, over the Pacific highway in Oregon, and would eliminate several miserable and dangerous twists in the slab between Ashland and Talent. It was pointed out, however, that the Talent alternative suggestion also would eliminate the disagreeable features of the two-mile strip, yet would still route traffic near the business section.

CARTER WANTS SEPTIC WATER

The city attorney read a letter from Newberry and Newberry, attorneys for H. B. Carter, owner of land on which one of the city's septic tanks stands, complaining of condition of the tank and citing a contract with the Carter Land company from whom H. B. Carter bought the land demanding that the tank be put in proper condition within 15 days or suit would be brought.

Carter was present and addressed the council. The contract provided that he shall have overflow water from the tank for irrigation purposes, according to Nemberry's letter and Carter claims that because of leakage of the tank he gets but about two-thirds of the water. The matter was referred to the city superintendent, the water superintendent and water committee to investigate the condition and possibilities of repairing the tank, and to the city attorney to review provisions of the contract, which was entered into many years ago. It was stated that a tank erected by the same contractor on the Billings property had also gone bad and that part of a city dam by the same men also proved defective.

Councilman Applewhite stated that SERA officials had written him concerning the need and possibility of a sewage disposal plant for Ashland as a relief project. He said he expected to go to Portland in a few days and would confer at that time with the official and report back to the council.

He said Medford had such a project under way now, and that when their situation is cleaned up they would doubtless demand that Ashland do the same, as Bear creek flows through their city and playgrounds.

May 25 Is Date Set For Adoption New Container Details

Specifications and description of standard containers, as approved by S. T. White, director of agriculture for Oregon, were announced early this week. The standards become effective May 25, and are approved by law.

They are as follows:
Oregon 15-pound lug: The Oregon standard lug for fresh cherries shall be 14 inches long, 11 inches wide and four inches deep, all inside measurements, and shall hold 15 pounds of cherries net weight when packed. In order to provide for variations of weight of cherries grown in different section of Oregon, and degrees of ripeness at packing time, a variation of one-half inch in width above or below the standard width and one-fourth inch above or below the standard depth is provided.

The Oregon standard half crate for fresh strawberries shall be 18 3/4 inches long, 13 3/4 inches wide and 3 3/4 inches deep, all inside measurements, and shall hold 12 Oregon standard hallocks.

Strawberries
The Oregon standard double-deck crate for strawberries shall be 18 3/4 inches long, 13 3/4 inches wide and 7 3/4 inches deep, all inside measurements. The ends shall be grooved or cleated across the center for deck. Said crate shall hold 24 Oregon standard hallocks.

As provided by law these standards will become effective May 25, 1935.

ODD FELLOWS STAGE DANCE AT JACKSONVILLE SCOUT BENEFIT SATURDAY NIGHT

To help a Jacksonville Boy Scout finance his trip to the Washington, D. C. jamboree this summer, Odd Fellows of that city are planning a benefit dance at the Jacksonville IOOF hall Saturday night. The affair will take the form of both new and old time dances, with alternating orchestras contributing their services for the evening.

Gordon Stout, Odd Fellow interested in aiding the Scout troop send its representative east to the greatest boys' conclave in history of the country, issued a special invitation to dancers of southern Oregon to attend.
